CONVENTION PICKETED FOR EDITOR'S RELEASE

VANCOUVER—Women pickets paraded outside Social Credit convention headquarters today demanding the release of the publisher of a union newspaper jailed for contempt of court.

Members of the women's auxiliary to the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) greeted convention delegates when they arrived at the Pacific National Exhibition building.

George North, publisher of the union's weekly The Fishermen, now is serving a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of court. He lost an appeal against conviction and sentence last week.

He was sentenced to jail and his paper fined $3,000 for an editorial that appeared during the strike of ironworkers against the Second Narrows Bridge entitled "Injunctions Won't Catch Fish, Nor Build Bridges."

PREMIER IN PROMISING MOOD

Cheers, Jeers For Bennett At Noisy Rally

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

VANCOUVER — A noisy audience of 2,900 applauded and cheered, booed and heckled Premier Bennett at the Orpheum Theatre here Thursday night, interrupting him constantly as he waded through a labored, rambling speech.

Both supporters and detractors went home confident their side had won the day, with the following promises ringing in their ears:

1. The government will increase its outlay for arterial highway maintenance in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster from a gross of $40,000 to "many hundreds of thousands of dollars every year."
2. The government's chronic hospital care program will start April 1.
3. Announcement on a civil service wage boost will come the next session of the legislature.
4. There will be a 50 per cent boost in the $60,000 bursary fund to assist needy university students.
5. Additional funds will be granted St. Paul's and Vancouver General Hospitals.
6. There is "no election in sight."

But compared to last year's pre-convention rally, Friday's event was alive with election fever.

The audience was twice as large and last year there was no heckling. Many people had apparently turned out not to honor Caesar but to bury him. One group of university students, several of whom were at the Harrison Hot Springs Progressive Conservative meet last weekend, stopped the meeting entirely while they sang their criticms of Social Credit.

They pierced the premier's armor at one point, drawing the admonition: "Don't show the university up in that light. The university stands for something better than that."

'I Haven't Seen It, Have You?'

Next most vocal group called repeatedly for publication of the Carrother's report on civil service bargaining rights—a shout the premier ignored except but once when he replied, "I haven't seen it, have you?"

The theatre doors opened an hour before the political events began, Dal Richards and his orchestra and folk singer Ernie Prentice (of "Lolly Too-Dum" fame) entertaining. British Columbia Social Credit League president Noel Murphy was chairman.

Health Minister Eric Martin, the first speaker, said "It's Ottawa's fault we can't get nurses because immigration restrictions are slowing arrivals from other countries.

"Pay them more," said a heckler.

This was a silly remark, the minister said, because the government doesn't set the wages.

"It is not my business to say whether employees are earning enough. . . . There has been no hold-the-line order. All I do is ask the hospital boards to keep costs at a reasonable level."

He said his department would grant funds for a new laundry and laboratory at Vancouver's St. Paul's Hospital, and for maintenance work at Vancouver General.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson outlined the government student aid program. He said the present $60,000 bursary fund for aid to students who can show need will be increased this year to $90,000.

"It was difficult for many students to get work this summer and there were more

HOUSE OPENS JANUARY 28

The British Columbia Legislature will convene Jan. 28, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in Vancouver Thursday night.

It will be the fourth session of the 25th legislature of the province.

Current party standings are Social Credit 38, CCF 10, Liberal 3, Labor 1.

Teacher Battered By Schoolboy, 14

NEW YORK (AP)—A husky 14-year-old schoolboy battered a woman high school teacher to the floor with his fists Thursday after she slapped his face for calling her an obscene name.

The teacher, Mrs. Carmenlita Gillespie, 39, was treated at a hospital for a brain concussion, blackened eye, and facial cuts and bruises.

'Labor Afraid of Me' Wicks Tells Socreds

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor Minister Wicks said Thursday leaders of the 120,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) were afraid to let him address the federation's recent convention here.

He also criticized—in a speech to the B.C. Social Credit League's women's auxiliary — managements' "frivolous" abuse of its authority in the matter of injunctions.

Mr. Wicks said the federation had a "golden opportunity" to invite him to tell of the provisions of the controversial Trades Union Act and how they are "good for B.C. and good for the working man and woman."

But a small group of professional labor leader-politicians were afraid to let the delegates hear anything about the act except what they wanted them to hear.

He said it was the first time the federation has not invited the minister of labor to its convention.

Ottawa Halts Home Loans; Mortgage Money Runs Out

Frozen Until January

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government today called a halt to the flow of government money into mortgage loans. Works Minister Walker announced that federal funds earmarked for these direct loans ran out two months earlier than expected.

A statement by Mr. Walker said that all eligible applications for government loans now on hand in field offices of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will be approved.

"New applications, however, whether from builders, home owners, or limited dividend companies, cannot be accepted after the close of business today.

He said that CMHC had "fully invested" the $250,000,000 voted by Parliament last spring for direct housing loans. Direct housing loans by the federal government thus have totalled $900,000,000 since September, 1957.

DEMAND FULLY MET

He said the present housing situation "indicates that demand for housing will be fully met this year." The government expected 140,000 housing units would be started this year and 140,000 completed.

Mr. Walker indicated that further federal funds for housing loans cannot be expected until Parliament meets again, expected in January.

He said that "very early in the next session" Parliament will be asked to vote new funds to ensure continuation of CMHC housing loans in 1960.

Today's announcement indicated there has been a larger-than expected rush by builders to take up federal loans for small home construction, apparently because of a sharp decline in the amount of National Housing Act lending by banks and life insurance and trust companies.

12,500 FINANCED

Last July 22 the government announced it would make available loans — up to 15 to each builder — for small home construction. It said then that applications would be accepted up until Dec. 31, and forecast the program would cover about 10,000 housing units.

Mr. Walker's statement said: "In fact, 12,500 units have been financed—25 per cent beyond our expectations and two months earlier than anticipated."

He added that since July 27 direct federal loans had been made through CMHC to individual home-buyers for nearly 6,000 homes and to limited dividend companies for another 1,800 units for low-income families and the aged.

Ottawa Call Goes Out For Socreds

'Biggest National Political Parley'

By PETE LOUDON
Times Political Reporter

VANCOUVER — B.C. Social Crediters today were called upon to prepare themselves for the greatest national political convention in Canadian history to be held at Ottawa next July.

Premier Bennett called on local groups to double their membership and not to listen to election talk.

There is no election in sight, and no immediate rush to name candidates, he said.

He repeated he did not know whether the election in B.C. would be in 1960 or 1961, "but the longer we go the stronger we become, because every day we are in power the greater our accomplishments."

The national leadership convention appeal was made by Peer V. Paynter, acting president of the national Social Credit League.

He and the premier were main speakers at the opening session of the B.C. Social Credit convention here this morning.

Mr. Paynter said the party nationally is in the same position that the B.C. provincial party was in 1950, and history has a habit of repeating itself.

ENVY OF CANADA

Since then "we have proven Social Credit can build provinces to a point where they are the envy of the rest of Canada. Next year we want the biggest national convention ever put on in Canada. We are preparing for it."

He said five delegates are required from every federal constituency, seven from each provincial board, 10 from each provincial women's auxiliary, 10 to represent young people's Socred groups, two from each university group and seven from the national executive.

NEVER AGAIN

Premier Bennett made it clear he would not seek national leadership.

"I will never go federal again," he said, referring to a lost candidacy earlier in his career.

Mr. Paynter made no suggestion that the party was seeking the B.C. premier as a national leader.

"Who are we going to have to lead us to victory?" he asked.

He said the same questions were asked in 1950 and "we went ahead and organized and our premier came forward."

"He has proven his greatness since that time. If you people prove your sincerity, a new national leader would also appear if required."

B.C. Social Credit League president Noel Murphy replied to the speaker: "When you call we will be there and we will be ready."

PRESS LAUDED

The premier received a standing ovation. He drew attention to what he called great co-operation from the press of B.C., stating "if it wasn't for the press we'd never be government. They put Social Credit on their toes and made the government work better."

STEEL SHORTAGE

Oshawa Layoff Will Hit 6,000

OSHAWA—The General Motors of Canada plant located here will lay off 6,000 workers by next Wednesday because of the lack of steel.

A GMC spokesman said Thursday 200 men already have been laid off because of the steel strike in the U.S.

Another 3,000 workers, not directly affected by the depletion of stocks, are expected to be retained in their jobs after assembly line work halts.

Russia Won't Back UN Police in Laos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Soviet Union said today it will neither support nor tacitly agree to the establishment of a permanent United Nations mission in the troubled Southeast Asia kingdom of Laos.

The Soviet delegation declared in a statement that rumors were being spread that Russia would not object to such a mission.

The Russian statement came amidst speculation regarding the awaited report of a U.N. subcommittee which spent a month studying conditions in Laos.

Some sources said developments could be expected momentarily, while others felt it may be a week or so before word comes out on just what the mission found in the Southeast Asia country which charges it is the victim of aggression from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam.

It was not known just what form the report would take, but there were unofficial so-called leaks that the subcommittee did not discover aggression in the form of troops, although there was evidence of weapons from Communist countries.

OTTAWA GIVES PAY BOOST TO NURSES

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases for all nurses in the federal civil service, averaging $329 a year, were announced today—the first pay boost for government employees since Finance Minister Fleming announced rejection of a general pay raise two weeks ago.

The raises, effective from the start of this month, will go to 2,478 nurses in the veterans affairs and health departments.

An announcement by Mr. Fleming said the increase is "in recognition of a special situation".

He noted that his October 13 statement ruling out a general pay increase would not prevent consideration "to the special position of certain categories of civil servants as the government's financial circumstances permit".

Rocket To Venus Next Year

(See also page 10)

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A space engineer said today the national space agency will launch a rocket 28 million miles to Venus by the end of 1960.

Allan B. Churgin, research engineer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said rockets are available now to carry such a space probe.

"Space exploration this year and early next year will see the launching of several dozen different satellites and probes to as far away as the vicinity of Venus," Churgin said.

5 YEARS AWAY

Churgin, addressing a section of the Virginia Education Association meeting here, also said the "Scout" four-stage rocket, capable of placing a 150-pound satellite into an orbit 300 miles from earth, would be operational "sometime in the very near future."

Churgin, stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va., said a manned space station was "at least five or 10 years in the future."

He predicted that the first manned space ship would be carried by the "Luna" rocket, still under development, which would stand one fourth as high as the Empire State Buiding.

Castro Aide Plane Crash Victim?

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — The wreckage of a plane which might be that of missing Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, commander of Cuba's revolutionary army, was reported down on the north coast of Camaguey province today.

An amateur radio operator at Placetas in Las Villas province said he had received word that distress signals were received indicating the wreckage was at Playa Mamon on the north coast of Camaguey.

Army planes took off immediately to search the region.

The 28-year-old comrade-in-arms of Fidel Castro vanished Wednesday while flying with two others from Camaguey to Havana, a distance of 300 miles. There was no immediate explanation for the delay in announcing he was missing.

WAS IT SABOTAGE?

Air force officials refused to comment on the possibility that Cienfuegos' plane had been sabotaged while it was parked at Camaguey airfield during his stay in the provincial capital.

The army chief went to Camaguey Tuesday. His mission was believed linked with the arrest last week of the provincial army commander, Maj. Hubert Matos, and 38 of his officers, after Matos said Communist influence was taking over Castro's regime.

There have been reports of restlessness among the men who served under the popular Matos and among students and others in the province. Some have openly protested his arrest.

Cienfuegos, a one-time bus boy in New York restaurants, is one of the more colorful members of the Castro hierarchy. His trademark is a Texas-style cowboy hat which he wears all the time. He toured New York with Castro last February.

New Cabinet Post

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen today created the new cabinet post of minister of science and named Viscount Hailsham to it.

Roblin Deputy Named Manitoba Lieut.-Gov.

OTTAWA (CP) — Erick Willis, 63, Manitoba's deputy premier and public works minister, today was appointed lieutenant-governor of his prov- effective Jan. 15.

The appointment, announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker following a cabinet meeting, was not unexpected. It had been forecast since Mr. Willis resigned a few weeks ago as MLA for Turtle Mountain constituency.

He succeeds Lieutenant-Governor John S. McDiarmid, 76, who has held the office since Aug. 1, 1953.

Mr. Willis was Progressive Conservative leader in Manitoba from 1936, the year he entered the legislature, to 1954. He had served in the House of Commons from 1930 to 1935.

LOW-LEVEL STRAFING SNAFU AT COWICHAN BAY

Flying Fish Shoots Down Duck

(From Duncan Bureau)

COWICHAN BAY—As if hunters didn't have enough problems, they now have competition from jumping fish which are taking dead aim at flying ducks.

Earl McMillan, proprietor of Anchor Marina, reported today that a duck was killed Thursday in a collision with a leaping salmon.

His son, Phil, 20, was guiding a party of four Canadian and American businessmen on a coho fishing expedition around the bay Thursday morning when they spotted a flight of about 12 ducks about 100 yards away, skimming over the water.

Suddenly a big fish jumped out of the water and one of the ducks collided with it head-on.

They cruised over and picked up the downed duck, which had suffered a broken neck in the collision.

There was no sign of the fish.

Mr. McMillan believes the acrobatic fish responsible for the duck's death was probably a coho.

One of the members of the fishing party who had witnessed the oddity, A. T. Warnken of Vancouver, said later "it's the first time I've seen fish so thick that they were bumping into ducks."

MIAMI — Dial B for burglar and catch a thief.

It's a new do-it-yourself burglar alarm system and its inventor, Carl Dachton, proved it worked Thursday by catching a 15-year-old prowler.

All you need is a telephone, a thin fishing line and a casting fly cork. Dial your phone number to the last digit, then plug the cork in the finger hole to hold the dial to the last number.

The almost invisible fishing line is strung across the room and tied to the cork. When a prowler enters your office and brushes the line, he sets off the alarm without knowing.

It worked that way when Dachton's phone rang at home Thursday.

CLEVELAND — Gil Hodges now batting for Jimmy Hoffa.

How that unusual switch came about was told Thursday by Cleveland Amory, noted author and editor of the forthcoming International Celebrity Register, an 864-page directory that includes more than the persons usually referred to as bluebloods.

James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters' Union, was scheduled to be among the 2,400 celebrities listed in the directory. "But a scream went up from the industrialists," Amory said.

Since the part of the book that was to include Hoffa already was in type, a search was made in the same part of the alphabet for someone who would fit.

The man picked was Hodges, veteran first baseman for the Los Angeles Dodgers, world baseball champions.

LOS ANGELES—The district attorney wants to know how much Florence Aaadland knew of her 17-year-old daughter's relationship to the late Errol Flynn.

The girl, blonde Beverly Aadland, raised some official eyebrows this week when she told a news conference she was disappointed in not having a child by the swashbuckling actor.

District Attorney William B. McKesson said a parent who countenances a minor child's intimacy with an adult male could be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Mrs. Aadland insisted to reporters Thursday that she had never seen anything to suggest that the actor and her daughter were intimate.

MOSCOW—Informed Soviet sources said today Boris Pasternak has no intention of going to the United States.

B.C. May Block Mom's New Home

(See Page 17)

Provincial officials said today Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte may run into the same difficulties here as she did in Ontario if she hopes to establish a mission for children merely by registering it as a religious institution.

Mrs. Whyte, whose Whytehaven mission for children at Bowmanville, Ont., was closed for a time when she said her mission was not covered by the Ontario Children's Boarding Home Act, has indicated she plans to start a new mission on 25 acres of donated land near Nelson.

But provincial welfare officials explained today that under B.C. law there must be an application for incorporation under the Societies Act, and secondly, if the institution involves care of children, then it would have to be licensed under the Welfare Institution Licensing Act.

SOCRED SIDELIGHTS

Two prominent Social Creditors, former finance minister Einar Gunderson and Waldo Skillings, arrived at the Bennett rally just after the doors were closed on a full house at 8 p.m. Publicity man Bill Clancey, who arranged the meeting, said the situation, easing in Mr. Gunderson was no difficulty. The crowd outside appeared to know him and did not resent his entry where they were forbidden. Mr. Clancey quickly fast-talked Mr. Skillings past the same guarded portal with the remarks, loudly, "Oh, here is senator Skillings from Victoria." The crowd fell back.

* * *

What happened to the green and white of Social Credit? The Orpheum was resplendent in the red, white and blues, large pictures of the premier, slightly more youthful than in real life, and large signs, "Greatest highway system in Canada," "Highest retail sales in Canada" and "People not pressure groups." But the only green and white was seen in a rosette worn by Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

"The Social Credit government is the only political movement in the world that once elected has never been defeated," said the premier.

"What about Russia?" asked a voice at the back of the hall.

* * *

"We've been greatly endowed by nature," said the premier.

"And a great debt, too," said a heckler.

The premier bounced right back—"I want to make a confession. I hired this guy to come here," he laughed. At other points he said, "Is that the best heckling you can do." The reply was "What can you do with a police state?" This came as Mr. Clancey and a uniformed guard escorted a balcony watcher from the hall. Mr. Clancey said it was necessary because the man was sitting in the aisle, not because he was heckling.

applicants than were expected."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner spoke on trade matters covered by his second ministry. He alone of the evening's speakers made no promises of new benefits.

Premier Bennett didn't get the standing ovation the chairman promoted — about one third of the audience rising.

He said the "enormous" meeting made him feel humble, but his subsequent remarks detracted from this.

He turned to the university contingent which began heckling as soon as he arose, stating, "when I was young and uninformed, I was a Tory too."

He told the audience that Liberals, Conservatives and CCFers were joining Social Credit in unprecedented numbers.

'They're Entitled to a Raise'

The Conservatives were quiet tonight, he said, (in fact they were noisy), "Is that because you are in trouble with the federal civil servants? I want to say as premier of B.C., that the civil servants of Canada are entitled to a raise."

He said the increase in the B.C. civil service salaries since 1951 was 46 per cent "and the cost of living is up only 9 per cent. And we are going to do more for them again."

He told a questioner his government always has accepted recommendations of the provincial civil service commission in this regard, that there is a wage study now underway and there would be a further announcement in this regard when the legislature sits.

Premier Bennett repeated his familiar story of debt reduction and reduction in highways, construction costs since Highways Minister Gaglardi took over.

Then pausing for a drink of water, he threw in the remark he was glad to be here "at a time when there is no election in sight." The next second he was back on debt reduction.

Then he got to his "biggest announcement.

"Just to show this great city that we are really out of debt and they are going to benefit from the $25,000,000 (saved, he says, because he has no direct debt payments this year great benefits will come to B.C. and to the streets of Vancouver."

He said the government now pays $40,000 annually in grants to Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria in maintenance of arterial highways within municipal boundaries.

'Many Hundreds of Thousands'

"I will recommend this amount be many hundreds of thousands, not just one year, but every year."

(After the meeting, Highways Minister Gaglardi said the premier would make a further announcement in this regard, with more offers for Vancouver. Present basis for payment is $1,500 a mile. The minister said "that's going to be changed or augmented."

The premier turned to recent remarks by Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson who said B.C. has declared war on Ottawa, and his government, if elected, would mend the breach.

"We have co-operation with the federal government, more than any government in Canada," said the premier.

He read from a letter written Oct. 20 by Prime Minister Diefenbaker thanking the premier for his attendance at a recent meeting at Ottawa of provincial finance ministers.

"No other province got it," he said.

He added that Northern Affairs Minister Hamilton had written Recreations Minister Westwood, thanking him for his co-operation in establishing parks along the Trans-Canada Highway.

It was in response to a questioner that the premier let slip the date when the new government chronic aid program becomes effective—April 1, 1960.

Health Minister Eric Martin promised it for 1960 in a Times interview recently.

He said the program entails the government payment of BCHIS benefits to chronic patients in community hospitals if they are "receptive to treatment."

His definition of "chronic" did not take in treatment of the elderly whose condition might be expected to deteriorate, cases which he felt would be best suited for provincial infirmaries.

. . . OTTAWA

He said there is a splendid feeling between the premier's office and the press gallery, and a spirit of comradeship as well.

The premier blasted critics who attacked the government's bookkeeping.

"The critics know the cabinet ministers don't keep the books . . . when the critics say there is something wrong with the bookkeeping, they are not criticizing the cabinet, but the greatest civil service in Canada."

He said that people know that politicians who used those tactics are not entitled to be trusted with government at any time.

That is the reason, he said, that Opposition Leader Robert Strachan will never be trusted with the premiership.

Conservative leader Deane Finlayson won't make it, and Ray Perrault of the Liberal party will be completely wiped out in the next election.

Two Victoria aldermen were seated with the Victoria delegation, Ald. Elmer McEwen and Ald. Millard Mooney.

Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury welcomed the delegates. He spoke in support of greater provincial-municipal co-operation, criticized the press, and the Communists."

Hospital Delay Hit

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man told police Thursday he waited 40 minutes for service at Vancouver General Hospital, then doctors came and found a woman dead.

C. G. Hobson said he was driving Mrs. Helen Martin, 74, home when she stopped talking in mid-sentence and slumped forward. Hobson said he drove to hospital.

He said he went inside and reported a sick woman in his car. Then he waited 40 minutes before a doctor went out and looked at the woman.

LABOR LEADER'S 1933 STAND QUOTED

Reuther Called 'Turncoat'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The newspaper Trud made another attack today on Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union.

Trud, official organ of the Russian trade unions, devoted a full page to villifying Reuther Thursday. The Russian press and radio have been attacking Reuther since he and other American labor leaders debated with Nikita S. Khrushchev at San Francisco during the Russian premier's American tour.

(Reuther in Detroit denied the charges Thursday.)

Today Trud published excerpts from a statement it said was signed by Reuther and his brother, Victor, during a stay in the USSR in 1933, when they were helping build an automobile factory in Gorky.

"American workers will achieve victory, not under the banner of social democracy or any other branch of reformism, but only under the banner of the Marxist-Leninist party," the statement said, according to Trud, adding:

"Every honest person despises a turncoat who, like Reuther, sells his convictions, his conscience."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, approving the Trud attack, said "the treacherous policy of certain American trade union leaders and Walter Reuther in particular arouses the deep indignation of many workers in the U.S. and other countries."

PRIVATE LIQUOR STORE 'MUCH MORE EXPENSIVE'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner hinted Thursday a bottle of liquor would be more expensive if the government permitted private liquor sales.

He said government-operated liquor stores operate with a low overhead and only a 5-per-cent mark up. Private liquor stores would have to operate with a much higher mark-up.

Troops to Stop E. German Flag

BONN (AP)—The Western Allies today were reported agreed that troops should be used if necessary to prevent display of the new Communist East German flag in West Berlin next week.

Allied officials said no special alert has been ordered for their Berlin garrisons yet, but indicated such an order is probable when East Germany celebrates the 42nd anniversary of the Soviet revolution Nov. 7.

They said it has been agreed that the new hammer-and-compass flag of the East German regime should not be permitted to be flown again over the Communist-operated elevated railway stations of West Berlin.

The Reds raised their new flag over the stations Oct. 7, on the 10th birthday of the East German regime. West Berlin police, ordered to remove the flags, clashed with superior numbers of East Berlin railway men.

One official said the Western Allies had decided to "take any measures required to cope with this situation." Another put it more bluntly: "If West Berlin police can't deal with it, then our troops will be used."

NEW WAR CHARGE

Ike's Golf Came First In Crisis

LONDON (AP)—A new book of wartime memoirs says Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower played golf instead of guiding Allied military preparations at a crucial stage of the war in Europe.

The book is based on the diaries of Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, who as Sir Alanbrooke was chairman of the British chiefs of staff in the war.

The second instalment of his diaries and correspondence is incorporated in Triumph in the West, which goes on sale here Monday. It was compiled by Sir Arthur Bryant from the private papers of Alanbrooks, now living in retirement. Serial rights in Canada are held by Maclean's Magazine.

In Washington, James Hagerty, White House press secretary, was asked for comment on Alanbrooke's statements. Hagerty's reply was:

"I don't even have a no comment."

In the first instalment, Alanbrooke rapped Eisenhower as a man whose strong point was charm rather than military ability. He also criticized the wartime leadership of then prime minister Churchill.

Generals Told Him to Get Cracking

The new instalment, quoting from diary notations of November, 1944, said there was "a very unsatisfactory state of affairs in France with no one running the land battle."

"Eisenhower, though supposed to be doing so, was on the golf links at Rheims entirely detached and taking practically no part in running the war," Alanbrooke wrote.

Matters got so bad, he added, that a deputation of Maj.-Gen. Sir John Whitely, a senior British officer on Eisenhower's staff, and U.S. Lt.Gen. Walter Bedell Smith and others decided to tackle the supreme Allied commander.

They "went up to him to tell him that he must get down to it and run the war," Alanbrooke wrote.

There is a contention that short-comings in American leadership threw away a chance to end the European war in 1944. Alanbrooke puts much of the blame on Eisenhower, picturing him as a poor strategist.

'Trusted, But No Real Commander'

At the beginning of September, 1944, Eisenhower's intelligence staff reported the German army in the west was "no longer a cohesive force," Alanbrooke wrote, but the supreme commander followed the "civil war strategy" of having everybody attacking all the time all along the front instead of concentrating on a knockout blow in one sector. As a result the advance bogged down for the winter, Alanbrooke says.

Summing up his impression of Eisenhower, he wrote:

"A past master in the art of handling Allies, entirely impartial and consequently trusted by all. A charming personality and a good co-ordinator. But no real commander."

Contrasted with this estimate was praise for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, American commander in the Pacific.

"MacArthur was the greatest general and the best strategist that the war produced," Alanbrooke wrote.

He said MacArthur certainly outshone Gen. George C. Marshall, U.S. chief of staff, Eisenhower "and all other American and British generals, including Montgomery."

Cairo Probes Plot to Slay Iraqi Leader

CAIRO (Reuters) — An assassination plot against a leading figure in the revolutionary regime in Iraq was reported here today.

Newspapers say the plot was directed against Col. Fadel Mahdawi, president of the Baghdad people's court and a cousin of Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem, himself wounded in an assassination attempt early this month.

In his conduct of a succession of trials against anti-Kassem elements, Mahwadi has been an outspoken critic of Egypt's President Nasser and of "Western imperialists."

The newspaper Al Akhbar says two youths and an elderly man had been arrested as suspects following disclosure of the plot.

Rescuers on Scene

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Three rescue ships Thursday night reached the Danish vessel Nauja after it struck a submerged rock 45 miles off Greenland, the Royal Greenland Trade Company reported. Eleven persons aboard are safe.

Power Exports Never Cease

IN A PUBLIC STATEMENT NOT long ago, Mr. W. C. Mainwaring, president of the Peace River Power Development Company, discussed the possibilities of marketing the projected vast hydro-electric output of the Peace River. He felt that British Columbia industry could absorb the initial four million HP scheduled to start arriving in Vancouver in 1966, and still another four million HP to follow.

On a long-term basis this view will prove correct. Eventually British Columbia will use the product of the Peace River, the Columbia and all the other rivers which can be harnessed for power. But there is doubt about the more immediate period.

On this point Mr. Mainwaring is quoted to the effect that his company would be agreeable to selling power to the United States, "if the power is attractive to the U.S. and the Canadian Government has no objection."

And Mr. Mainwaring has no doubts about the first condition. U.S. industry in the Pacific Northwest is very anxious to get more power, as negotiations for Columbia River development show. It would be a "seller's market" says Mr. Mainwaring.

It is to be understood, then, that the Peace River Power Development Company, inaugurated by the Wenner-Gren interests, looks hopefully to selling hydro-power to hungry U.S. industry at a good high price.

Some engineers have doubts that Peace River power can be delivered to the lower mainland at anything less than a good high price, in view of production and transmission costs. If so, this is the price Canadian consumers will have to pay, in contrast to the much lower costs of Columbia power.

It is most unlikely that the Canadian Parliament will permit the export of Peace River power. It is disturbing, in view of Canada's sorry experiences in past years with exported power, that the Peace River company can now contemplate the prospect so happily.

A series of four articles on this page during the past week has given the story. The gist of the accounts is that once electric power is sold across the border, it proves impossible to terminate the arrangement even though the contract may specify a limited period.

When the power is being used to light American homes, turn industrial machinery and perform its many other functions, the Canadian producer cannot pull the switch, even with advance warning, and leave the customers short.

To do so would be construed as an unfriendly act against a neighboring nation—and that is exactly what it was called in 1917 when the Canadian Government tried to cancel export licences for Niagara power. Even though Canada was desperately short of power for the war effort, the U.S. State Department successfully blocked efforts to halt exports to New York State. It made no difference that the exports were on annual licence.

Almost all of the nearly four billion Kw hours of electric power now transmitted each year from Canada to the United States is sold on pre-Great War contracts. Most of it is sent from Ontario, and it is to be noted that even when that province was suffering brown-outs because of a power shortage, the exports continued.

The instances are numerous. Through the years, both Conservative and Liberal governments at Ottawa have profited by such experiences and sought to prevent further exports. As the law now stands, strengthened by the last Liberal administration, neither power nor water for power development may be exported. But Parliament can be asked to allow it.

It is against this background of rash export sales and subsequent shortage and helplessness that Mr. Mainwaring would sell Canadian power to United States industry—the same sort of one-way traffic which Premier Bennett tried so hard, but unsuccessfully, to effect four years ago when the Kaiser interests were dickering with him for storage control in the Arrow Lakes.

There may be many arguments put forth that Peace River sales to the U.S. would result in savings to Canadian consumers. But the day would inevitably come when British Columbia would pay dearly for every kilowatt exported and irretrievably lost.

Away From the Red Schoolhouse

EDUCATORS TODAY CONVENTIONALLY draw an invidious comparison between the percentage of young Russians advancing through university and the percentage of Canadians, Americans and Britishers similarly engaged.

The argument follows that we, particularly Canadians, have a long way to go to catch up.

But if Russia has taken a long lead in training scientists there are some features about Russian education which now lack appeal for the United Arab Republic.

It is channeling its young students away from Russian universities and toward those of Canada, Britain and the United States.

This is a remarkable shift in affection from the not so distant days of the Suez. At that time—and on alternating occasions when the Aswan dam was discussed—Russia seemed to be the guide, counsellor and friend as well as the educational centre for Egyptians.

The withdrawal of U.A.R. students from Soviet schools is officially explained on the basis of the difficulty experience by Egyptians and Syrians in mastering the Russian language, as well as the disparity between the Marxist and U.A.R. economic theories and practices.

That is the official word. There seems to be no doubt that a more direct, though unstated, reason lies in Mr. Nasser's dislike of the Communist indoctrination which has accompanied university instruction of Arab students in the U.S.S.R.

The transfer of these young people to western universities breaks new ground in Canada, though it is an older story in Britain. The number coming to this country is small, 20 while the United States absorbs 200 and Britain a substantial but undisclosed total.

The gesture, whatever its political motives, reflects credit on the standing of Canadian universities. The majority of the new students are working at postgraduate levels and postgraduate students are not sent to inferior institutions.

Uneasy Lies the Head . . .

FIDEL CASTRO WILL RE-ESTABLISH military tribunals. He must do so to deal with mounting opposition among the Cuban people. The same reason lies behind his increasingly defiant attitude toward the United States. The Cuban leader is not the first military prime minister to seek to hide domestic problems in angry outbursts against a neighbor.

Another attempt to cope with increasing difficulties is seen in the new law to raise tax levies on minerals and investigate foreign-owned mining concessions.

But when all is said—or shouted—and done, Prime Minister Castro must still measure up to his problems on the home front. These cannot be lost in rhetoric directed against foreign interests.

Quite apart from the economic and social difficulties which currently afflict Cuba, Premier Castro operates with a fundamental defect. He seized power by force—as did his predecessor. He is therefore the target for any other ambitious rebel who may hope to duplicate his feat. It's the old story of the "fastest gun in the west" being called upon repeatedly to prove it to those who would usurp his title.

Whether his charges of subversion are true or trumped up, it is evident that Premier Castro lives continually on the edge of disaster. In this he may well have read the Cuban temperament correctly. To keep himself in power he may be determined to use the same tactics and arouse the same public excitement that he employed to place himself there.

For the Hungry

IN RECENT MONTHS CONCERN has been expressed in official circles over Canada's pork surplus.

There are, of course, different views on what disposal policy should be taken. But there will be a high degree of agreement with Mr. Diefenbaker's decision to give $60,000-worth of the canned product to the typhoon victims of Japan.

When Canada gives of its bounty to those who suffer from natural disasters, this country is performing a simple, humanitarian deed. We can afford to do much more of the same.

COMPETING WITH NATURE

By B. A. TOBIN

Among the Best-Dressed Autumn Sights

Tobin

THE signs of Fall are many — the earlier twilight, the yellowing leaves, the cooler nights, the reactivated fuel accounts, thoughts of anti-freeze for the car and the decision to put off buying it, the apple harvest, the outbreak of flying saucer sightings. These all testify to the arrival of the pre-winter season, harbingers of this most colorful time of all the year. But even these are incomplete, they need the one authentic touch of autumnal significance which is provided each year, and gratis, by the clothing manufacturers.

Your leaves may fall, your apples may ripen, your furnace may go on an orgy of conspicuous consumption, but the final confirmation must come from the style experts.

It has come.

The British Wholesale Clothing Manufacturers' Federation has just made it all official and legitimate by publishing its 1959 list of the twelve best-dressed classes of citizen. It is a humbling list in some ways, yet also an inspiring one, demonstrating simultaneously the lesson of the falling leaves and the rising fuel bills.

The report, of course, applies to the clothes wearers of Britain, but it might easily be extended to all who wear clothes in Canada. This becomes more evident as one examines the list.

Politicians, we learn, head the list of the best-dressed for the second successive year. We have only to look around us to see the truth of this.

Mr. Diefenbaker can only be described as a vision, dimming a little perhaps, but seldom out of view. Mr. Fleming's attire may be a little tight for some tastes, particularly the money belt, but he carries it well despite occasional charges that it is really Mr. Coyne who wears the pants.

Nearer home, Mr. Bennett may be seen invariably wearing his debt-free smile, a sartorial achievement of unquestionable chic; backbenchers may also be seen, but not heard; Mr. Gaglardi may be seen, but only if you look quick.

Accountants are second on the fashion list, up from fourth position since last year, a natural recognition of their adeptness at clothing figures to suit the taste and presenting a true picture as shown by the looks of the company.

Bankers are third, says the list, having slipped from second place. But they still present their pleasant looks — in fact, many a would-be borrower has complained that all he could get from his banker was a pleasant look.

Right in Style

Doctors and dentists have risen two places on the list—white coats are apparently all the rage this year—while actors are rated next, a bow to the men who have tuxes and will travel.

Lawyers this year are sixth, having dropped three notches from last year. This demotion is surprising, in view of their competence in covering up and their day-to-day familiarity with suits of all kinds.

They are, indeed, only one jump ahead of construction executives, who have come up four places since last year and have left leather jackets and dungarees far, far behind them. The whisper of the Cadillac long ago replaced the roar of the tractor for these candidates, and they now dress to fit the environment.

Architects come next, having fallen three places, but they have plans to regain their position. And then, surprisingly, come journalists (the list is made up in London).

Gone is the day when a newsman had difficulty gaining any kind of a list, except to starboard. Apparently a new fashion-consciousness is setting in, and we see the dawn of the day when material means cloth, not news copy; a lapel is something to put a carnation in, not to grab; and thirty is a sleeve length, not the end of a story.

Good Company

The splendor of the journalists' position in ninth place is only slightly dimmed by the announcement that they are just one ahead of pub keepers. But the latter may have been viewing themselves in the large glass instead of the small; and after all, dignity is an essential element in style.

And so we come down the list to shopkeepers, who might be expected to appear higher up the clothing scale — after all, some of them sell the stuff and must have access to the latest models.

Twelfth and last are civil servants, which, the experts note, represents a fall of five places. This may be difficult to explain in London, but Canada offers a number of plausible theories.

In the federal field, of course the twelfth group is unfashionable with the first group, and this may explain a certain slump in their standing.

In the provincial field, the civil servants would like to be seen by the cabinet—but so far haven't been able to arrange it. Small wonder, then, that they may be more concerned with pressing their case then pressing their trousers, while hoping the Government will pull up its socks.

As Our Readers See It

Why Deprive Them

I would dare most humbly to suggest that there are many parents who would not agree with the local minions of the law, that Halloween be abolished. Why should the delights of many many children be cut off, and they be penalized, for the actions of a few hoodlums?

BUCK O'NEILL.
517 Harbinger Avenue.

Eliminate Halloween

The recent stand by police chiefs and a few citizens against the observance of Halloween, welcome though it is, has come too late for effective action this year. Nevertheless, it should be given serious consideration by the "Powers That Be" and legislation initiated now to prevent the continuation of this public nuisance in the future.

There can be few property owners or old people living alone who do not dread the name of "Halloween" for the very good reason that they have suffered personally from it and there can be few others who, on the morning after, do not breathe sighs of relief if they have been fortunate enough to have escaped damage from the "pranksters" of the previous night.

The banning of fireworks alone would not remove this fear. What is required is:

(1) The banning of all advertising and sale by the stores of all items associated with this festival—i.e. costumes, masks, treats, fireworks, etc.

(2) The co-operation of the Press by affording a complete lack of publicity to the occasion.

J. J. TIMMIS.
3450 Richmond Road.

Renouncing War

Canada today lies between the two greatest military powers the world has ever known. Despite recent talks and visits between their leaders, the danger of a clash is still as great as ever. Should this come, our country may well be a no man's land, torn and ravished by both contestants.

There would seem to be only one way by which we could hope to avoid this situation. If Canada were to declare that we forever renounce war—that we would not fight as a nation under any circumstances whatever, neither to attack nor to defend, we would have taken one of the most momentous steps in the history of the world.

As for our fighting forces, they would not be scrapped, but rather strengthened, but we would surrender our sovereignty and control to the United Nations. They would then form the nucleus of the first world police force, standing ready and willing to check aggression and war.

This is our moment of opportunity, our chance to change the course of history, to lead the smaller nations of the world to sanity and safety. Soon those smaller nations, now standing on the sidelines, helpless to avoid disaster, would be eager to follow our example and the day would not be far distant when this combined power would be able to end the fear of war.

VETERAN OF TWO WARS.

Legal Aid in Victoria

On Monday, Oct. 19, an item appeared in your newspaper under the heading "Plea for Legal Aid Falls on Deaf Ears". In the body of the article two other statements appeared; namely, "Mr. Smith said legal aid in Victoria is at a standstill" and "Victoria never had a legal aid set-up." Since these statements are not correct, I am writing in the hope that this matter may be set aright.

I did make statements concerning legal aid in criminal matters which were similar to those appearing in your news item. At all times I referred to the assistance as "criminal legal aid". Unfortunately, the news item did not mention this and may create the impression that the Legal Aid Committee of the Victoria Bar Association had ceased its operations in civil matters.

This is not so and a panel of lawyers continues to attend at the Court House each Wednesday at 5 p.m. to interview all applications as has been the practice for many years. Deserving cases are referred to lawyers for study and action. No lawyer receives payment for legal aid work. Legal aid in criminal matters has never been a regular part of the committee's functions but has been arranged in exceptional cases and is presently under consideration by the committee.

TV Fraud

The following solution for the American TV sickness is of particlular interest to Canadians, in view of our subsidized national TV and radio system.

By WALTER LIPPMANN
From Washington

Lippmann

TELEVISION has been caught perpetrating a fraud which is so gigantic that it calls into question the foundations of the industry. The fraud was not the work of a few cheats who had wormed their way into the company of honest men. The fraud was too big, too extensive, too well organized to be cured or atoned for by throwing a few conspicuous individuals to the wolves, and by putting on a pious show of scrupulosity about the details of the productions.

There has been, in fact, an enormous conspiracy to deceive the public in order to sell profitable advertising to the sponsors. It involves not merely this individual or that, but the industry as a whole. This is the judgment of the leading professional critics of television on both the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Times.

Mr. John Crosby has said that the "moral squalor of the quiz mess reaches clear through the whole industry." Mr. Jack Gould has said that the fraud could not have been carried out without "the constant involvement of representatives of networks, advertising agencies and sponsors."

The size of the fraud is a bitter reflection on the moral condition of our society. But it is also sure proof that there is something radically wrong with the fundamental national policy under which television operates.

Eye on Profit

The principle of that policy is that for all practical purposes television shall be operated wholly for private profit. There is no competition in television except among competitors trying to sell the attention of their audiences for profit.

As a result, while television is supposed to be "free," it has in fact become the creature, the servant, and indeed the prostitute, of merchandizing.

Television is expensive and the available channels are few. These channels are possessed by a few companies who are in fierce competition among themselves. But what are they competing about? About how to capture the largest mass audience which can be made to look at and listen to the most profitable advertising.

In this competition, as in Gresham's famous law of money, the bad money drives out the good. In order to capture the largest mass audience the companies have resorted to fraud as in the case of the quiz shows.

Violence and Crime

But, reprehensible as it is to play the gullible public for suckers, that is not the worst of their offending. The worst things they do are first to poison the innocent by the exhibition of violence, degeneracy, and crime, and second, to debase the public taste.

According to Newsweek, the television networks decided about a year ago that in the coming season, during the prime evening hours which draw the biggest audiences, they would devote to violence a total of twenty-four hours a week.

"Heroes and villains crumple under the impact of black-jacks, whisky bottles, wrenches, and even gold-headed canes. A goggle-eyed public sits by while its fellow humans are pistol-whipped, stabbed, garrotted, mugged, and mussed up."

What to do about it? The great offence of the television industry is that it is misusing a superb scientific achievement, that it is monopolizing the air at the expense of effective news reporting, good art, and civilized entertainment.

Low Taste

The crux of the evil is that in seeking great mass audiences, the industry has decided from its experience that the taste of great masses is a low one, and that to succeed in the competition it must pander to this low taste.

Quite evidently this is an evil which cannot be remedied by a regulating commission or by some form of government or self-constituted censorship. The alternative, which is practised in one form or another in almost every other civilized country, is competition—competition not for private profit but for public service.

The best line for the U.S. to take is, I am convinced, to devise a way by which one network can be run as a public service with its criterion not what will be most popular but what is good.

We should not, I believe, shrink from the idea that such a network would have to be subsidized and endowed. Why not? Is there any doubt that television is a mighty instrument of education—education for good or education for evil?

Subsidize It

Why should it not be subsidized and endowed as are the universities and the public schools and the exploration of space and modern medical research, and indeed the churches—and so many other institutions which are essential to a good society, yet cannot be operated for profit?

They are unwise friends of our system of private capitalism who do not recognize the fact that the higher life of our society depends on respect for and support of non-commercial institutions.

That it is possible to operate non-commercial institutions is attested by the fact that we do operate successfully schools, universities, hospitals, laboratories of research. Harvard and Yale and Princeton and Columbia and Dartmouth and so on are not operated for profit. Their trustees do not play politics. They are concerned with excellence and not with making money.

Why should not people of this sort be able to find ways to operate a television network?

'Never Grieve for the Past'

Stott

"YOU are old, father William," the young man said, and an infinitely more tactful young man has been saying almost the same to me.

"Would you," he asked, "talk to our club about the Victoria you knew as a boy?" The club, he explained, is composed of young men running from about 25 to 35.

Okay, so I'm not a youth any more. And if the suggested talk subject implies metaphorical long, grey whiskers, I've asked for it.

A man can't keep weeping into his beer - not even into one of the big, dignified 20-cent glasses - about the "dim, dear days" without creating the impression that the bloom is off his cheeks.

Come to think of it, a person crowding 50 has enjoyed almost a full generation's more experience than one half that age.

★ ★ ★

We who are in the older bracket are conscious of the changes that have occurred in Victoria in our lifetime. But the changes seem to belong to a time no more distant than yesterday. And we don't mark them as characteristic of a distinctly different era. They're all part of our times.

We used to go to fine old-timers like Herbert Kent, Walter Englehart, Walter McMicking and some of the old sealers to hear about old Victoria.

They told us about the merry times held by the Victoria family, about the volunteer fire departments with their horse-drawn, and sometimes man-drawn equipment, the water wagons that used to sell domestic water from door to door, and, almost inevitably, the nickel schooner of beer and the "free lunch."

They talked of the "Brown Jug," the bridge over what is now the Causeway, the Fountain where the Roundabout has been created and where, in an earlier day, farmers from outlying Saanich used to let their horses drink on the wagon journey into town.

Some of them even recalled, at first or second hand, stories of Sir James Douglas, the early Dunsmuirs, Dr. Helmcken, the gold-rush days and high adventure under sail and in small boats on the sealing grounds.

Our habits of historical thought tied us to these stories. We in the newspaper business sometimes talk about day-to-day history. We single out incidents and trends which may be significant in the long annals of human activity.

On the local scene we sometimes neglect to recognize change. It so often comes gradually, like falling hair and disappearing teeth.

★ ★ ★

People of my generation, who have lived here for all or most of their lives, recognize that things differ from what they were when we were boys. The unorganized open spaces have filled up. The automobile and the speedboat are no longer luxuries. They're standard equipment.

A mile-a-minute has become an obsolete phrase where it once was the definition of ultimate speed.

We know we're in the jet and space age and subconsciously many don't believe it. Even people who have flown from Victoria to London in the comparatively slow time of less than one day can't quite adjust themselves to this development.

We wear the new age like a borrowed coat which we have put on, and very often fail to identify it as an actual part of our civilization. The flesh and blood of the society that is real to us are still the conditions to which we have been long familiar.

"You are old, father William," the young man said. And the young man of today takes the whistling supersonic plane that traces its vapor trail overhead as much more of an actuality than the black hackney coach, horse-drawn, which formed the funeral procession of boyhood more than four decades ago.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By STANLEY BURKE

Politics Rears Its Head

Burke

NEW YORK - Canada's new External Affairs Minister is finding that UN delegates are rather like missionaries. They want people saved - but saved by the right team. They'd almost rather have them remain in ignorance and misery than be saved by the competitors.

The Canadians came to the General Assembly this year anxious to participate. They wanted this because it's the right thing to do and because it's politically expedient back home. This is another way of saying that the Canadian people want their delegates to be active at the UN because it's right and proper and because it builds up every Canadian's ego just a little bit when he sees what OUR representative has done.

So the Canadians picked on radiation as their main initiative for the session. There is urgent need for a co-ordinated world-wide effort to gather information on this grave problem. And it's worrying the Canadian people. Strontium 90 in the milk in Montreal or Vancouver is much more immediate to the voter than a crisis on the other side of the world.

Having picked their subject, the Canadians went to great pains to draft a resolution which would be acceptable on both sides of the Iron Curtain and among the neutral countries. Propagandistic phrases were carefully avoided. Their efforts were well received, and Mr. Green said he thought it might be co-sponsored by a Communist country along with others. Then, without advance notice, the Czechoslovakians tabled what might be called a watered-down, souped-up version of the Canadian resolution. The substance was watered down, the propaganda souped-up.

Mr. Green said he didn't know why the Czechs submitted their competitive resolution, thus committing an act of diplomatic claim-jumping. One reason is that presumably they don't want to see the opposition score points if this can be avoided.

★ ★ ★

There may also be an element of hurt feelings, perhaps revealing a desire on the part of the Eastern Europeans to make a name for themselves just as smaller Western countries do. It seems that in seeking the Eastern European point of view, the Canadians had dealt mainly with the Poles, the recognized go-between nation. The Czechs, however, are on the UN radiation committee and it seems they felt the Canadians should have been dealing with them rather than with the Poles, who are not members. It may have been pique rather than propaganda which caused them to submit the rival resolution.

The Czechs are well-aware of their reputation for abject servility to Moscow. (There is an Eastern Europe quip about behavior during the Hungarian revolution: "The Hungarians behaved like Poles, the Poles like Czechs, and the Czechs, as usual, behaved like swine.") This is not a pleasant reputation to live with and, in conversation, Czechs give the impression that they intend to live it down.

Their newsmen, for example, are now travelling widely across the United States and are apparently reporting objectively. The Czechs, like the other Eastern Europeans, are adjusting with some uncertainty, to the new climate. It may be that their radiation resolution has something to do with this.

★ ★ ★

Another factor may be security. Radiation samples taken around the perimeter of the Communist zone would reveal a good deal about the atomic activity going on inside. The location of plants, for example, and something of their functions. Samples taken from rivers, for example, would reveal a good deal about the activities of any atomic plants upstream.

Rather than set up a world-wide network of 150 collection stations, as envisaged in the Canadian outline, the Czechs simply propose that nations co-operate, more or less as they are already doing, with the UN radiation committee.

The Canadians, in contrast, have presented a detailed proposal and, most important, they have offered to back it up with money. (Ringing phrases are common in the UN. They become more meaningful when accompanied by a background ringing of cash registers.) Canada has offered to spend $300,000 on radiation laboratories and to operate them, for the benefit of countries which lack these facilities, at a cost of $120,000 a year. This gesture is convincing. The Canadian plan is recognized as sound and the expectation is that it will be approved.

U.K. Labor Names Foreign Expert

LONDON (CP)—The Labor party has a new chief spokesman on foreign affairs.

He is Denis Healey, who has taken over the task from Aneurin Bevin. As deputy leader of the party, Bevan wants greater freedom to speak for the opposition on a broad range of topics.

Following Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd Thursday during the first debate on foreign affairs in the new Parliament, Healey stressed the importance of developing policies to deal with the growth of nationalism in Africa and Asia and Britain's relations with her continental neighbors.

"Unless something is done, the process by which the rich get richer and the poor get poorer must ultimately produce a disaster."

Last Rites Paid Former Teacher

Funeral service for pioneer Saskatchewan teacher George Herbert Lewis, 81, who died here Tuesday, was held today in Chaplin's chapel.

Born in Wales, he came to Victoria in 1945.

He had taught in England, in Prince Albert, Fort Pitt and Mortlack, Sask., prior to 1918 when he moved to Saskatoon, where he was principal of Westmount Public School. He retired as vice-principal of the Saskatoon Norman School in 1943.

Survivors include the widow, at 853 Burdett; two sons, Cmdr. K. E. Lewis, HMCS Naden, and Group Capt. G. G. W. Lewis, RCAF, in Paris; also five grandchildren.

BOOK BURNERS CALL IT OFF FOR HITLER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) - Fifteen admittedly not so well-read American Legion members stopped a public book burning Thursday when a reporter reminded them that was how Hitler got started.

Reese Wells, education reporter of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, assigned to cover the book burning at the city dump, asked the Legionnaires:

"Weren't the last famous book-burnings in Munich about 1937?"

The Legionnaires, all members of the Memphis Post No. 1 Youth Anti-Smut Committee, agreed.

"Let's go to the garbage pile. We'll throw 'garbage,'" Post Commander Guy Bates said.

Twelve books headed for burning were spared. Two, D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover" and "Angels in the Gutter," were tossed in the garbage dump but not burned.

"It's a sad and strange thing that men can go off to fight a war against something and 15 years later be guilty of the same thing themselves," Foote said.

Laos Monarch Dies; World's Oldest King

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (AP) - King Sisavang Vong of Laos, the world's senior monarch, died Thursday night during a lull in his tiny Indochina kingdom's fight for survival against the threat of Communist rebels.

The 74-year-old king died in his red-roofed, gold-spired palace on the Mekong River where he has lain for five years, bedridden with rheumatism and neck cancer.

Crown Prince Savang Vathana, appointed regent by his ailing father two months ago, becomes ruler of the revolt-torn "land of a million elephants and the white parasol."

The king, a direct descendant of the 1,000-year-old Khoun Lo dynasty of south China, was ardently pro-French. He was born on France's national holiday, July 14, 1885, was educated at the French Colonial College in Paris, and ascended the throne in 1904.

Sisavang mixed Western informality with Oriental tradition in reigning over his 2,500,000 subjects.

He had about 25 wives and 38 children, but only one wife, Queen Khamphanh, was regarded as official. Only two of his children, Savang and his brother, Prince Souphantharangsi, were in the line of succession.

Before his crippling illness, the old king liked to inveigle visitors into a game of poker - at which he was good - and enjoyed leading dancing groups in traditional Laotian theatricals.

Sub Killer Retires

LONDON (Reuters) - HMS Starling, renowned U-boat killer-sloop of the Second World War, ends its active career early next month the Royal Navy announced Thursday. Completed in 1943, the 1,470-ton vessel was responsible for the destruction of 15 German submarines, including six in one operation.

RUSSIA BOOSTS SPENDING

$8 Billion Space Budget

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Supreme Soviet today unanimously approved the 1960 budget which aims to keep the Soviet Union ahead in the space race.

The budget allocates a record sum of 32,000,000,000 rubles ($8,000,000,000) at the official rate of exchange, for "creative development in science and technology."

This giant slice of the national wealth for science represents an increase over the 1959 science allocation of 15.4 per cent.

The 1960 science appropriation presumably will be spent mainly on research and pure scientific investigation, since routine applied-science costs are often met by individual plants and institutions.

Today's budget also approved a decree to introduce a 40½-hour week through the Soviet Union by the end of 1960.

It allocates no less than 40 per cent of the Soviet Union's total volume of capital investment to the eastern and Siberian areas of the country. This is where the large metal, chemical and mining bases are being created to enable Russia to catch up with American output.

Liner Hits Freighter In New York Harbor

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner Israel and a freighter collided Thursday night in clear weather just north of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor. One of the Israel's crew was reported missing.

The coast guard said the 264 passengers aboard the Israel, towed to a shipyard in Brooklyn, remained on the 9,831-ton ship overnight. Although some passengers were shaken up, no serious injuries were reported.

The accident, which occurred shortly after 8 p.m. during 10-mile visibility off Bedloe's Island, was the third collision this year of ocean-going vessels in the New York harbor area. Bedloe's Island lies across the harbor from the lower tip of Manhattan.

The 8,277-ton freighter, the American Press, with two gaping holes in her prow, was towed safely to a Hudson River pier. No one aboard was hurt.

The Israel, hit amidship on its port side, suffered damage extending from the boat deck to the water line. The coast guard said the vessel took a negligible amount of water.

Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

'Last in Sight' Ship Job Starts

Work began officially Thursday on the last federal government shipyard contract in sight for Vancouver Island.

The keel was laid for destroyer escort DDE 262 at the Victoria Machinery Depot at a brief ceremony conducted by Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, wife of Victoria's Mayor Scurrah.

Harold Husband, president of VMD and also of the Canadian Ship Building and Ship Repairing Association, told guests of the difficulties west coast yards have in securing work.

33⅓ PER CENT DISPARITY

"We are not only unable to compete on world markets because of wage differentials, but we are no longer able to compete with Eastern Canada because of a disparity of 33⅓ per cent in wage scales," Mr. Husband said.

Mayor Scurrah expressed the hope the future of the shipbuilding industry is not as dark a it appears at the moment.

"I am always ready, at any time, to help in any way I can," he said.

He is just back from a flying trip to Ottawa, trying to get government work for the yards.

Mayor Scurrah also praised VMD for an "amazing" job on the British Columbia government ferry Sidney.

"It will be ready on schedule next March," he said, "just one year from the time the keel was laid.

"I think this must be a record for this type of ship."

PLEASANT ANACHRONISM

Sailing Finest Sport for Boys

Sailing of boats large or small is the "finest training any boy can have for future life," Royal Victoria Yacht Club vice-commodore Roy Murdock told Rotary Club members Thursday.

Addressing a luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel he said the teamwork lessons learned "gives them absolutely invaluable training."

He said that it was a pleasant anachronism that the oldest means of water-borne propulsion should be gaining such popularity in this age of speed and quoted figures showing over 1,000,000 sailing boats in the United States and "in Canada their number is increasing more rapidly than any other group."

Prior to Mr. Murdock's address Rotary member Mayor Percy Scurrah had presented a plaque to round-the-world small boat sailor John Guzzwell in recognition of his feat.

MOTIVE REVEALED

Mr. Murdock said that the four-year voyage by Guzzwell was one of the best illustrations of the motives that impelled people to undertake ocean sailing.

Small boat navigators, he said, have come from all professions, trades, walks of life, and ages and a great many have known little or nothing about the sea prior to setting out.

"There is some inner urge," he said, "and I am perfectly certain it has nothing to do with personal publicity or notoriety."

He divided sailors into three groups consisting of ocean cruisers, weekend sailors, and racing enthusiasts.

All three, he said, had one thing in common in that "in no other way, except walking, can you get so completely away from the cares of daily life."

SPEEDBOATS INTRUDE

Mr. Murdock said it was a source of concern to him that "here in Victoria our juinor sailing has slumped very badly" and said that, as far as the RVYC was concerned, it was probably due to the intrusion of "fast speedboats."

In contrast, he said, at Maple Bay over 130 youngsters were presently engaged in a sailing and racing program.

He revealed that the Victoria club had set aside funds to launch an intensive junior sailing program next year.

NEW SERVICE TO FILL GROWING NEED

Two Marriage Counsellors Named

MRS. GWEN LUNDY

A marriage counselling service has been started by the Family and Children's Service at Spencerhouse.

The service employs two trained social service workers half-time each, and is available to persons with marriage problems, free of charge to those in low income brackets and on a sliding fee for others.

Charges for advice will start at $1 a week for persons with a monthly income of $250, and will rise to $10 a week for those with monthly income of $600 or more. Families with less than $250 will receive free counselling.

Handling the work will be Gerard Lortie, a caseworker with the F & CS three years, who has his master's degree in social work from University of Washington and was formerly on the staff of Laval University, Quebec City, and Mrs. Gwen Lundy, widow of the late deputy minister of welfare Charles Lundy, and formerly for many years with the provincial welfare department.

BIG SURPRISE

"We have had many requests for such a service," said David Woodsworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service, "and it is for this reason the work is being started."

Each of the two appointees will continue with other duties, but the "split shift" will mean that a full-time counselling service will be available at all times.

GERARD LORTIE

RED TROOPS MASS ON INDIA BORDER

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Indian newspapers report that Chinese troops are massed on the borders of three Himalayan states and that India is convinced the Communists intend to occupy 6,000 square miles of the Kashmir state of Ladakh.

The Hindustan Standard in a story from Darjeeling today says heavy concentrations of Chinese troops are near the borders of the independent states of Sikkim, Bhutan and Nepal.

The newspaper quotes authoritative sources as saying the Chinese have built a road capable of handling heavy military traffic in Tibet near the Sikkim border, and that Chinese troops are concentrated near the road.

The newspaper also says there has been renewed fighting by Tibetan rebels in the Tibet.

The independent Hindustan Times says the Indian government is convinced the Chinese intend to occupy 6,000 square miles of Lakdah shown in Chinese maps as Chinese territory.

The paper says the Nehru government's tendency to regard Chinese intrusions as stray incidents has been replaced by awareness of a calculated design by the Chinese to convert their cartographic ambition into physical annexation.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Dull Trading Marks Session at Toronto

Most sections of the Toronto stock market struggled higher today in dull trading.

Industrials had more gains than losses. The changes, however, were mostly fractional. Many issues which traded actively earlier this week were quiet and unchanged.

Electronics and a few other issues were strong on an irregular market at New York. Turnover was fairly active. Some electronics made gains ranging to 7 or better. Leading steelmakers showed scant change.

AT TORONTO senior base metals had several fractional winners and few losers. Coppers were still bothered by profit-takers but a few lightly traded stocks managed moderate gains. Lower-priced mines were mixed to higher but changes were generally less than 10 cents although United Asbestos added 30 cents at $4.95.

Western oils were mixed. Among the winners were Canadian Husky, Security and Bailey-Selburn.

AT NEW YORK Aluminium Ltd. lost ½ and Dome Mines ⅛. International Nickel gained ½, McIntyre Porcupine 1 and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

On the American exchange, Canadian Marconi lost ⅛ while Scurry Rainbow Oil gained ⅛.

AT MONTREAL utilities began a sluggish movement and other categories held firm in spotty trading today on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON the market was generally higher today.

Gains in industrials were numerous but gilt-edged securities were somewhat lower. Many engineering issues hardened and tobacco and brewery stocks went ahead.

Oils were quiet and dollar stocks were irregular.

There was some buying of gold shares.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate with prices stronger during the forenoon. Vantor traded 5,600 at 71; Inland Gas sold 2,400 at $5.50; Craigmont moved 3,000 at $3.10; Mid-West Copper traded 3,800 at 17; Torwest moved 3,800 at 17.

Alberta Coal Leaders to Meet With Japanese

CALGARY (CP) — Representatives from three western Canada coal companies are to meet in Tokyo within two months with representatives of the Japanese steel industry with a view to selling more coal during the next three years.

The three companies are Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. of Michel, B.C., Coleman Collieries Ltd. of Coleman, Alta. and West Canadian Collieries of Blairmore, Alta.

"Future business for these companies will depend on the suitability of our coal and the question of price," a spokesman said.

The three companies are in the midst of delivering 110,000 tons of coking coal to Japan.

Southam Profits Show 24% Jump

TORONTO (CP) — The Southam Co., Ltd., has reported that net profit for the nine months ended September 30 was $2,982,000 — higher by $580,000 or 24 per cent than in the same period of 1958. Profit per share was $3.97 against $3.20 in 1958.

Regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents a share has been declared, payable December 28 to shareholders of record December 14.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain prices generally were easier and somewhat irregular, especially flax, at the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as some selling was prompted by more favorable weather reports for the Prairies where harvesting has been stalled.

Overnight export wheat loadings were confined to 500,000 bushels to the United Kingdom.

CHICAGO (AP) — Transactions in soybeans futures were fast and in heavy volume as dealers bid prices up about two cents a bushel most of the time today on the board of trade. The grains held generally in a steady to firm range.

Export demand was good in soybeans with France in the market for 1,000,000 bushels or more.

All grains were ahead by major fractions at the close.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Buy Canada Goods Theme Backed by Industrialist

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Malone

Many Canadians—and Canadian industrialists—have long held that Canada's trade imbalance with United States could be corrected quickly by restrictive tariff legislation.

Opponents of this kind of thinking are as scarce and as refreshing as the discovery of a tulip blooming in Winnipeg in mid-winter.

No tulip but a blooming industrialist, Carl G. Pollock, of Kitchener, Ont., said in Victoria Thursday he does not agree restrictive legislation is the answer to trade balance.

His solution: Inform Canadians that it is in their own interests to buy goods manufactured in Canada.

"We don't have to be hewers of wood and drawers of water," said Mr. Pollock.

"We have the resources, the talent and the market to develop Canada. But we won't develop this country until we can impress upon the Canadian public Canada cannot, will not, grow unless they stop buying elsewhere and start buying here.

"If we succeed we will end the migration of our brilliant young men and women into the U.S. The main reason they are leaving Canada is the lack of a challenge for their ambitions and their desires. If we continue to send our money to other countries we will continue to export our brains to those countries and our own development will stagnate."

Who is this man, Carl Pollock, who would "buck the tide" of restrictive legislation and throw Canadian manufacturers into open competition with powerful American and foreign manufacturers?

Pollock is 56, large, sincere. He has the build of an oarsman (he was one at Oxford) and the detailed mind of an engineer (which he happens to be).

ALL-CANADIAN FIRM

He is president of Dominion Electrohome Industries Ltd.—DEIL—a wholly-owned Canadian firm his father founded 52 years ago. In those days DEIL was a struggling maker of hornless Phonolas. Today the company has 1,200 employees, 1,400 dealers, sales (in 1958) of $15,421,250 and holds a respected position in electronics, metal fabrication and furniture.

In Victoria to visit dealers, fast-talking Carl Pollock explained DEIL's rapid and fantastic growth—particularly in electronics — against heavy competition from U.S. block-busters.

"First of all we put our faith in Canada—its resources and its people. All our engineers, draftsmen and executives are Canadians.

"They created a Canadian design for our products. We didn't ape U.S. products, not because they aren't good or because we don't respect them, but because we believe our people can do just as well.

"Secondly, we never sacrificed quality. They say we build for the top middle income bracket and that is true. But our prices aren't that high. We trade strongly on the theme that nobody ever regretted buying quality.

"That ties in with my theme that the trade imbalance can be corrected by informing Canadians to buy Canadian goods rather than by restrictive import legislation.

FEATURE QUALITY

"Some people in Canada say without such legislation we are prone to competition from the U.S. and foreign countries. I say that's good. Competition never hurt anyone. But poor quality, workmanship and lack of service did.

"If DEIL has to make a decision on whether to spend a dollar for advertising or to put that dollar into the TV set or the hi-fi set, we put the money into the set.

"We know we can't compete with the large American firms in advertising. So we don't try.

"We believe DEIL prospers—and its dealers and distributors prosper—if the people who buy our products are fully satisfied."

The proof of the pudding: DEIL captured the Canadian hi-fi market from the drop of the first decibel; in this increasingly competitive field DEIL makes three out of every four complete units sold, has invaded the U.S. with a sales market in Washington, D.C.

DEIL's share of the Canadian TV market has steadily increased. Overall production and sales are up despite a decided market dip in the last two years.

In an uncertain field, DEIL's occasional and dining-room furniture has flared ahead, winning markets, design prizes and prestige contracts (furnishing rooms in the lush Queen Elizabeth and Lord Simcoe hotels).

Unspectacularly, DEIL has become the largest maker of subfractional horsepower motors in Canada, used in everything from cars (every General Motors of Canada car has a DEIL fan) to massage machines.

As Carl Pollock says, nobody ever regretted buying quality. Particularly, that is, Canadian quality—by DEIL.

Soviet Small Car Invades Market

TORONTO (CP)—The Russian bear went after a chunk of the Canadian small-car market when a Moscow-built Moskvich 407 was uncarted on the Toronto docks this week.

The blue and white car will have a selling price of about $1,500 and gets about 30 miles to the gallon.

FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Sunday Ceremony To Open Housing

Dedication ceremony at 3 p.m. Sunday will officially open the first of 15 planned units in the Gorge View Society's low-rent housing development for senior citizens.

Rev. Robert S. Christie, associate secretary of the board of social service of the United Church, will dedicate the building.

He will be assisted by Rev. A. I. Avery, of St. Aidan's United Church and chairman of the Victoria Presbytery, which sponsored the non-profit building society.

The building, containing two suites for married couples and four suites for single persons, is located on five acres at the west end of Irma between Balfour and Harriet.

CHANT, SCURRAH

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mayor Percy Scurrah will speak at the dedication.

The society, formed in 1956, plans to build a village of some 14 more six-suite units which will house 130 senior citizens.

Funds for the land and first unit were provided by grants from the United Church board of evangelism and social service, the provincial government, bequests, donations and various church organizations. City council sold the land at a reduced price.

The society hopes to receive more grants and public donations for construction of the other planned units. Ultimate cost of the village will exceed $500,000.

Tugboat Strike Ends

LONDON (Reuters)—Some 600 Liverpool tugboat men on strike for the last week voted today to return to work Saturday.

Their wildcat stoppage, started when a tug skipper was demoted for smoking while handling an oil tanker, threw 5,000 other dock workers out of work and held up about 66 ships.

SNOWSTORM HEADS WEST

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A big storm that crept along the Rocky Mountains thrust icy fingers eastward today and brought heavy snow warnings to four western states.

The weather bureau predicted up to six inches of snow for western Kansas, western Nebraska and parts of Wyoming and Colorado.

U.S. READY TOO, DOCTOR TELLS RUSSIANS

Spacemen Can Go 'Tomorrow'

ROME (UPI)—A leading American space doctor said today any one of the seven U.S. astronauts can take off for outer space "tomorrow" providing a space vehicle is ready.

Dr. Siegfried J. Gerathewohl made the statement in commenting on a Russian scientist's remark Thursday that a Russian now is ready to be launched into space.

"We have a man ready, too," said Gerathewohl. "In fact, seven of them. Any one of our astronauts could be sent up tomorrow on sub-orbital flights if the vehicle were ready."

Gerathewohl, of the bio-astronautic research office, U.S. Army ballistic missile agency, defined "short orbital flights" as those involving "one or two orbits around the earth, for a few hours in space."

WON'T BE LONG

Gerathewohl would not say whether he thought the United States would beat Russia in the space race but he said "I think it won't be very long before they launch their first man into space."

The American scientist commented that "it is very often said that the medical people are behind the engineers in space travel, but I doubt that."

"We know today what man can stand in space" he said. "Now it is up to the engineers to provide systems under which man can survive."

Gerathewohl interrupted a paper he was delivering to the World Congress of Aviation and Space Medicine to challenge Soviet scientists to take part in a freer exchange of information on space research.

He said the Russians had supplied data on some high-flying rocket experiments with animals that stayed up only a few minutes but had withheld information on Laika, the dog that stayed aloft in Sputnik II "for hours".

"The data on Laika, which we still do not have, is very important to us all," Gerathewohl said.

American space experts attending the congress showed little surprise over the Soviet scientist's statement that a Russian is ready for the first manned space flight.

B.C. Patients Get Drug Given Mr. K.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A doctor in suburban Burnaby said Thursday he is treating three patients on an experimental basis with H3, the substance Nikita Khrushchev is receiving to restore his youth.

Dr. R. J. Hanna started administering the serum three weeks ago after a correspondence with Dr. Anna Aslan, who devised the treatment at her institute of geriatrics in Bucharest.

The serum, a mixture of novocain, a pain-killer, and unspecified acids, was prepared locally on the basis of formulas supplied by Dr. Aslan.

Reports from Bonn, West Germany, this week said Premier Khrushchev has been receiving the treatments for six months in connection with kidney and liver ailments. Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the Dean of Canterbury, said he underwent similar treatments which had "taken years off my age."

Dr. Hanna said the three patients he is treating are a 50-year-old man with Parkinson's syndrome, a nervous disease causing extreme palsy, and a 32-year-old man and a 43-year-old woman both suffering from extreme rheumatoid arthritis.

Electronic Mail Sorter

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal will get the pilot installation of the post office department's electronic mail-sorting machine, Postmaster-General William Hamilton said on Wednesday.

He told the Electric Club of Montreal that the machine, under development for five years, will be installed in the Montreal post office late next spring.

Sorting by hand into pigeonholes, a postal clerk doing a good job at present averages about 1,800 letters an hour, the postmaster-general said. The new device is expected to have an ultimate capacity of 30,000 an hour.

The text of Mr. Hamilton's address was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Nuclear Attack Advice Mailed

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Folders containing information on survival procedures of a nuclear bombing attack have been mailed to 160,000 homes in British Columbia.

G. A. McCarter, provincial civil defence co-ordinator, said the folders contain information on radio-active fallout, evacuation and how to prepare for the emergency.

The brochure says although a community may not be designated as a target area, it could still be in the path of crashing air-craft, guided missile or jettisoned nuclear bomb.

KAMLOOPS — Residents of the North Kamloops area Thursday night reported seeing a "big orange ball" flash across the sky.

TEACHERS TURNED DOWN

PRINCE RUPERT—School board has turned down a request from the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association for a general 13½ per cent salary increase.

CCF HEALTH PLAN

BURNS LAKE—British Columbia will have a comprehensive health plan embracing medical, dental, optical and drug coverage if the CCF party forms the next provincial government, opposition leader Robert Strachan said here Thursday night.

In addition, it would cover supply of artificial limbs and appliances and provide acute and chronic in-patient and out-patient hospital care. Patients would be free to choose their own doctors.

FIREMEN TO REFUSE

NEW WESTMINSTER — Firemen will refuse to be sworn in for their jobs as part-time traffic policemen, a spokesman for the International Association of Fire Fighters (CLC) said Thursday.

Union secretary Lloyd Wisheart said members have been instructed to co-operate fully with city orders to guide traffic but on legal advice they should refuse to be sworn in.

Mayor Beth Wood said firemen will have to be sworn in as special-duty policemen if they are going to have authority to direct traffic.

SUN RAYS, MOON MIRROR AIMED CAMERA

Lunik 'Stood Still' for Pictures

LONDON (UPI) — Russian scientists used rays from the sun and reflections from the moon to aim Lunik III's camera at the far side of the moon, Tass reported today.

Tass said Vladimir Siforov, of the USSR Academy of Sciences, gave some of the details in the Moscow newspaper Pravda.

"The station's rotation around its centre of gravity was stopped during the photographing with the help of a set of devices, including solar and lunar pickups, which transformed direct solar rays and the rays reflected from the moon's surface into electric signals" Siforov wrote.

"The power of the radio signals sent out by the interplanetary station transmitter amounted to one third of one billionth of a watt when picked up on the earth," he said.

CANADIAN GOLF ACES MAY HAVE SORE FEET

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters)—Lost, strayed or stolen somewhere between here and London are the golf clubs of the Canadian team which arrived Wednesday for the Commonwealth golf tournament opening next week.

The six players and team manager Hilliard Lyle last saw their clubs and golf shoes when they boarded a plane at London Airport.

Since they arrived here, the Canadians have been practicing with borrowed equipment.

But Garry Cowan, runnerup Canadian Amateur golf champion this year, said: "I'll be glad to get my own shoes again."

SIDELINE SLANTS BY Doug Peden

Although he has been talked out of retirement plans before, Jack Patrick sounds like he means business when he says this is his last playing campaign in the football wars.

JACK PATRICK

That means that the smooth quarterback will be displaying his talents for local grid fans for the last time at Royal Athletic Park tonight. The playing-coach will be calling signals for Victoria Drakes in the sudden-death Pacific Coast Intermediate Football Conference final against Pete Thodos and his Vancouver Columbians.

Win or lose, Drakes wind up their home chores tonight. If they get clobbered, they're all through for another season. If they pick up the marbles, the Victorians head east on the trail of the Dominion intermediate crown they have been chasing for five years.

Four times Drakes have reached the Western Canada final and as many times have been scalped by Fort William Redskins. "We'll make it all the way this time," says the 30-year-old Patrick, who would probably find some reason for optimism even if he was sending Drakes against the Blue Bombers of his native Winnipeg.

Although it is no secret that Columbians, expected to have Thodos carrying most of the mail at quarterback, are planning to lower the boom, the biggest threat to the Drakes' march eastward may be overconfidence. If memories of two league triumphs over Vancouver lull Drakes into a benevolent mood, Thodos, a former pro star, could wreck them with his running and passing.

"That won't happen," vows Patrick, who wants to make his city swan song a sweet one. "Columbians think they're going to beat us, but I'll have our guys so mad we'll thump them by two or three touchdowns."

Ability to Adjust Biggest Asset

If Thodos springs some new plays out of his bag of experience tonight, Drakes may be mighty glad Patrick is holding the reins.

Rated among the best junior and intermediate coaches in the country, Jack is also one of the smartest quarterbacks you'll find outside the play-for-pay ranks. While not impressive with long passes, he's accurate with short tosses and a deceptive runner who usually gets the job done.

But probably his biggest asset is an ability to size up new situations in a hurry and make adjustments before his club gets hurt, a talent which could prove to be the difference tonight.

Patrick also expects to pack up his coaching worries after this season, but even if he sticks with that chore, he probably won't be calling the shots for a Victoria team. He plans to move back to Vancouver, where he got his first taste of football as a high school athlete of 16 after shifting from Winnipeg.

After graduating from junior ranks, where he helped Vancouver Blue Bombers to a Canadian title, Patrick did a lot of coaching but little playing until coming to the Drakes midway in the 1956 season. He stayed strictly with coaching that year but has been a playing coach in the past three seasons as well as the No. 1 tub-thumper for better football in Victoria.

'Football Needs Suitable Stadium'

His plans to move back to the mainland may suggest that Patrick has given up on our town as a football city, but he says it isn't so.

"This could be a good football town," he says, "but the game will never go until Victoria gets a suitable stadium."

"With a good stadium, I think a WIFU team could survive here. A couple of years ago at least two groups were willing to back a WIFU entry if a proper playing site was available. I think they would still be interested."

Right now, his main worry is trying to grab the Canadian title. It's his last chance and Jack believes it could be the last big chance for the Drakes.

"Vancouver has a big crop of good juniors ready to step up into intermediate competition next season," he says. "It looks like Vancouver is going to have its turn at the top of the provincial football pile."

Juvenile Grid Trail Leads to B.C. Final

Vancouver Island Juvenile Canadian Football League playoffs will be leading to the first provincial championship series in history.

Oak Bay Police and Navy play Sunday at Carnarvon Park in a sudden-death semi-final, while at Nanaimo the Redmen meet Campbell River Raiders in another.

The B.C. playoff, a home-and-home series, will be played between Island and mainland champions Nov. 22 and 29.

"Navy has some idea that, if they can contain our air attack they can beat us on the ground," says Oak Bay coach Jack Groves.

"Of course, we have some ideas of our own on that score, but it should still be a good game with Navy showing stronger as the season progressed," he added.

Game time Sunday in both centres will be 2 p.m.

Wynn Named Majors' Best

BOSTON (AP) — Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox Thursday was named the winner of the Cy Young Memorial Award as the outstanding pitcher in the major leagues during the 1959 baseball season.

Wynn, who received 13 of the 16 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, had a 22-10 record for the year. His 22 victories were the most for any pitcher this year in the majors.

Sam Jones of the San Francisco Giants was runner-up with two votes, and young Bob Shaw of the White Sox received the other vote.

Shutout Averted

Dave Walker scored a face-saving try for Victoria High School Thursday as University School won the first rugby match of the season between the two schools 18-3 on six unconverted trys at Vic High.

Dutch Netter Killed

PANTAGES, THODOS IN ACTION . . . AGAINST DRAKES TONIGHT

Rod, Pete Back Playing for 'Peanuts'

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Remember the "Dead End Kids," or the "Peanut Boys"?

If you do, then you're well acquainted with the "Golden Greeks" of Canadian football—Pete Thodos and Rod Pantages.

So here's a bit of news for the rest of the Dominion:

Let nostalgic memories of the days before high-priced imports creep back, because the Golden Greeks plan on playing a little more football.

It's the kind of news that takes a little wind out of the Victoria Drakes' sails because Thodos and Pantages intend to dress for tonight's sudden-death Pacific Coast Conference final against the Drakes at Royal Athletic Park.

At least that's the inference supplied by Drake president Hal Johnson after he asked for (and received) the lineup of Vancouver Columbians. The lineup as supplied by coach Thodos for program purposes listed "Thodos, Peter (halfback)" and "Pantages, Rod (fullback)."

Pantages and Thodos, co-coaches of the Columbians, seemingly have designs on the P.C. intermediate championship, which is the stake when the teams kick off tonight at 8.30.

Pantages, in all probability, will dress only to handle punting chores—a role that earned him regular wages for several years in the pro ranks. At that, the Columbians should net 20 yards on every exchange of kicks. There's not a Drake in sight capable of matching one of Rod's 60-yard punts.

Thodos will probably see some action as quarterback, a chore he handled extremely well in Columbians' last league game.

The exploits of the "Peanut Boys" are well known to students of Canadian football. They broke into the pro ranks with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Union in 1948 along with Ced Gyles and Jim Mitchener.

The play of the four Vancouverites with Calgary that year earned them the nickname of the "Dead End Kids." And, as the script would have it, 1948 was the year the Cowboys invaded the east and won the Grey Cup.

It was at Calgary that Thodos and Pantages also earned the "Peanut Boys" tag. The incident occurred shortly after Thodos and Pantages discovered their worth and ability as football players.

The pay, they thought, didn't match their abilities.

They started a holdout by informing a Calgary newspaper that they weren't going to play "for peanuts."

They wanted the peanuts wrapped in the green, folding stuff called money.

And now tonight the cycle will be complete. Two of Vancouver's finest athletes, who started playing football for the love of it, are back "playing for peanuts."

And, of course, the love of the game and a B.C. championship . . .

ESKIMOS FAVORED

Lions' Hopes Ride on Randy

VANCOUVER (CP)—One way or another, import quarterback Randy Duncan has been the talk of football fans in British Columbia's drive to their first playoff spot since entering the Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1954.

And no matter what thoughts there may be about Duncan's ability—and there are many—he will be the key to Lions' success of failure in their two-game, total-point semifinal against Edmonton Eskimos.

The series opens here Saturday afternoon with the second game set for Edmonton Wednesday. The winner meets Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a best of-three series for the right to enter the Grey Cup final at Toronto Nov. 28 against the eastern champion.

The game here will not be carried by coast television stations, but the game at Edmonton will be carried nationally.

Eskimos, packed with playoff veterans and headed by quarterback sensation Jackie Parker and fullback star Johnny Bright are favored to win the series.

B.C.'s strong finish, however, has reduced betting odds to six to five, take your choice for the opening game here.

Duncan's biggest booster is the man that counts—coach Wayne Robinson, a rookie head coach but a three-year veteran of Canadian football.

Duncan Had 25 Passes Intercepted

"Duncan is the quarterback I was after," Robinson said last Feb. 19 when he announced Lions had signed the rawboned 21-year-old passing star who led Iowa to the Rose Bowl crown Jan. 1, 1959.

At the end of the season Robinson said of Duncan:

"Randy has had a tremendous rookie season. He is a wonderful team leader, a great signal caller and what he lacks in running he makes up by his outstanding passing."

And it is the passing that leads to most of the varying opinions of Duncan held by fans and football writers here.

Duncan has had more than 25 passes intercepted, has thrown the fewest touchdown passes and boasts the lowest pass completion record of regular quarterbacks among the top four teams.

"Few people realize that quarterbacks such as Jim Van Pelt, of Winnipeg and Joe Kapp, of Calgary, run a lot and force the short defence to come in to stop this running," says Robinson.

"We don't have an outstanding running attack and therefore many of our receivers are double teamed, making it more difficult to complete pass plays.

"I can't say just what will happen Saturday because we both proved we can score and there is little doubt about Eskimos' fine defence. Our defensive squad has come along well in the late stages."

New Charge Added to Race Fixing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former jockey's agent under indictment on race fixing charges has been accused of trying to intimidate a witness.

Richard Gach, 29, of San Pedro was jailed in lieu of $157,500 bail. The high bail was asked, the district attorney's office said, because of previous violence in the race fixing scandals.

Gach is charged with five counts alleging he made veiled death threats against his ex-girl friend, Lila Rosen, a Beverly Hills divorcee.

EIGHT INDICTED

Officials accuse him of trying to force his way into Mrs. Rosen's apartment Saturday night and telling her:

"You better not testify at my trial. You know what happened to others who testified."

Gach and Fresh Otash, 37, a Hollywood private detective, were among eight men indicted Sept. 3 by the county grand jury on charges of operating an alleged race fix syndicate. They go to trial Nov. 10.

Eastern League Issues Challenge

A playoff between the winners of the newly-formed Eastern Professional Hockey League and Western Hockey League may be played this year.

The office of EPHL president Ed Houston of Ottawa said Thursday night that every effort is being made this year to arrange a playoff series between the two leagues.

Mr. Houston said that if arrangements cannot be made this season, the EPHL will definitely challenge the Western League next season.

At Seattle, Al Leader, president of the WHL, said Thursday night was the first he had heard of the EPHL's playoff proposal.

"Our directors would prefer to have a playoff with the American Hockey League," he said. "But in the event an AHL-WHL playoff can't be arranged, I can see no reason why we couldn't set up a playoff with the Eastern Professional League for the Edinburgh trophy."

The trophy is emblematic of minor professional hockey championship of Canada and was last contested for by the WHL and the Quebec Hockey League in 1957.

PHILADELPHIA — Carl Hubbard 147, Philadelphia, stopped Willie (Pineapple) Stevens, 143, Boston, 10.

SOCCER SITE SWITCHED

Too many matches on one park in too short a time was the reason given by the Victoria Parks Board Thursday for a decision to switch Saturday's Victoria and District Football League match.

Previously Heaneys and Brodies had been slated to play Saturday at Heywood Park pitch with Esquimalt and Scottish meeting there Sunday.

Now the Saturday match will be played at Beacon Hill Park with the Sunday game going as scheduled.

PRO GRID CHAMPS HIT HARD

Bandage Brigade Growing

NEW YORK (AP) — Star halfback Frank Gifford of New York Giants is the latest member of the National Football League's bandage brigade.

Gifford's rib injury, to keep him on the sideline for two or three weeks, was the only major casualty reported after last Sunday's full schedule of bruising action.

But many of the game's top stars still are riding the bench or proving ineffective due to an assortment of injuries.

Gifford's running mate, Alex Webster, formerly of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four, missed two games and still is not able to perform at top speed.

The defending champion Baltimore Colts have been hard hit. Halfback L. G. Dupre, one of the main cogs for the 1958 titlists, is out for the season with a ruptured blood vessel in his leg.

Bert Rechichar, linebacker and kickoff specialist for the Colts, still is hobbled by a leg injury suffered in an exhibition game. End Ray Berry has been bothered by a pulled leg muscle. Linebacker Leo Sanford retired when injuries suffered last year didn't heal.

Others forced into retirement or out for the season are fullback Howie Ferguson of Green Bay Packers, halfback Jim Pace of San Francisco '49ers, halfback Gene Gedman of Detroit Lions and defensive end Gene Brito of Los Angeles Rams.

Chicago Cardinals had to operate Sunday without both first-line quarterbacks, King Hill and M. C. Reynolds, lost due to minor aches and pains.

Eddie LeBaron, Washington quarterback once with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, has an ankle injury.

'Gabby' Bronco Back on Beam

By The Canadian Press

Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins may be one of the gabbiest players in the National Hockey League but he's also one of its most feared marksmen.

Horvath and linemates Johnny Bucyk and Vic Stasiuk keep up a running conversation when they're on the ice. Sometimes they talk too much—as Horvath did in Montreal last Saturday.

But when the Bruins need a big goal they can count on Horvath, Bucky or Stasiuk to come through. Usually it's Horvath who gets the big ones as he did Thursday night when he scored both Bruin goals in their 2-1 win over Red Wings in Boston.

Gary Aldcorn got Detroit's only goal.

Horvath has a terrific wrist shot so Bucyk and Stasiuk dig out the puck and feed it to him.

RESCUED FROM MINORS

A disappointed athlete when he was shipped out to the minors in the 1956-57 season by New York Rangers. Horvath has been feared by opposition goalies ever since the Bruins obtained him the next season.

He scored 30 goals that season and last season got 19 even though he missed 25 games with a broken jaw. He's off to a great start this season with eight goals in nine games.

Horvath, Bucyk and Stasiuk have been mainly responsible for Boston's four victories this season. The three previous wins came in succession in the first two weeks of the campaign, before the unit suddenly lost their scoring magic and Boston floundered.

There was nothing wrong with the trio Thursday night, though. Horvath, who drew a $75 fine for a temper tantrum in Montreal Saturday, scored on a pair of blazing shots which barely skimmed the ice.

Brentwood Opens Basketball Season

The first games of Saanich Suburban Basketball League season to be played at Brentwood Community Hall will feature a full triple-header slate tonight.

Brentwood and Sooke will open the card with a pre-midget boys' game at 7.30 p.m., to be followed by Brentwood and Esquimalt Merchant juvenile girls and the featured Senior C men's game between Brentwood and Dockyard teams.

Chicago Slugger Signs for Raise

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs have signed Ernie Banks, their star shortstop, for 1960. It was guessed his salary was upped $10,000 to a near club record $60,000.

Banks reportedly received a $45,000 base salary with a $5,000 bonus this year when he hit 45 home runs, drove across 143 runs and set two major league fielding records.

TIME OUT!

By JEFF KEATE

"Okay, we managed to steal their mascot the night before the big game . . . now what?"

Soriano Picked By Coast Loop

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Pacific Coast League baseball directors ended their fall meeting here Thursday night after picking a new president, adding a new team—Tacoma, Wash.,—starting work on the 1960 schedule and favoring some type of trans-Pacific little world series.

In one of Thursday night's final sessions of the one-day meeting, the directors agreed on a 154-game schedule for 1960—the same as last year—beginning April 15 and ending Sept. 11. They blocked out the first month of the schedule and put off work on the rest until later meetings.

Tentative approved for opening day games were Vancouver at Sacramento, Spokane at Salt Lake City, Seattle at San Diego and Portland at Tacoma.

Dewey Soriano was unanimous choice to replace Leslie O'Connor as PCL president. O'Connor stayed on as head man through the 1959 season despite a directors' rebellion against his leadership.

Soriano indicated the league's headquarters, now in Phoenix, Ariz., probably will be moved to Seattle, where he has an office.

The directors Thursday speedily approved a transfer of the Phoenix Giants' franchise to Tacoma.

Phoenix dropped from the PCL after two poor attendance years. Directors hope now that an intense rivalry will build up among Seattle, Porttendance.

TRANS-PACIFIC SERIES?

The directors voted to set up land and Tacoma, spurring at a committee to study the possibility of a Pacific little world series between PCL teams and those of Japan, or Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. The idea was suggested by Japanese baseball leaders.

PCL directors said improved transportation facilities may make such international play economically practical. They said they hope such a series might lead eventually to regular league competition across the Pacific.

The directors changed the system for the 1960 all-star game. Next year the club leading the league after games of July 4 will be host to an all-star squad representing the other seven teams. In seasons past, the contest has been a north-vs.-south affair.

The directors also are considering a best-three-of-five or four-of-seven playoff series, rather than the present two-of-three.

CURLERS' CORNER

Trend Toward Shorty Spiels

The format of the Victoria Curling Club appears to be more of a social one this year.

There seems to be a trend towards the staging of more "shorty" and novelty bonspiels and the Quadra Street club's directorate falls in line by scheduling several at various periods throughout the year.

The club's first "shorty" 'spiel will be held Saturday.

The Cowichan Valley club, which opens its season on Saturday, is also calling on a "shorty" 'spiel for its opening event.

* * *

The Daily Times will again acknowledge bona fide eight-enders scored at the Victoria club this y[illegible]

Only thr[illegible]ct ends have been recorded in the six-year history of the club.

The Times will provide a special cash award of $100 to any rink scoring an eight-ender in regular, organized adult league play or bonspiels in the club.

If at all possible, eight-enders should be authenticated by a recognized club official or member. In other words, call in a club official to witness the throwing of the skips' rocks.

* * *

An important directors' meeting has been scheduled for Saturday afternoon, starting at 2.30.

The contentious topic on the agenda is one concerning affiliation with the Pacific Coast Curling Association.

Nanaimo and Courtenay apparently have already affiliated (pro tem) with the PCCA, which wants to operate apart from the B.C. body.

Formation of the PCCA is a two-year-old sore spot and one that the Dominion body urged B.C. curlers to clear up. But the differences, it seems, haven't been settled.

* * *

Still some vacancies in most leagues, and club manager Bill Oliver wonders what has become of all curlers.

"Must be square-dancing or going to night school . . ."

Par Finally Defeats Pros

Par, which takes a beating week after week from the touring golf professionals, has finally recorded a solid victory.

Doug Sanders, of Miami Beach, Fla., captured the $75,000 Sahara pro-amateur golf tournament at Las Vegas, Thursday, with a fantastic 13-over-par 219, a score that may never win him another event.

Strong winds that swept the course during the 54-hole tournament sent scores into figures usually carded by budding amateurs.

Sanders was four strokes ahead of Porky Oliver, of Denver, Colo.

MAGEE QUITS

Gerry Magee, of Toronto, didn't finish the final round. He picked up on the 15th hole and was eight or nine above par. Magee was in 10th spot with 149 after the second round.

"It was a pro-amateur tournament, you know," Magee said. "My amateur partners sort of pulled out, so I pulled out with them. I thought I was pretty well out of it, but it turned out I guess I wouldn't have been."

HOCKEY AWARD VANISHES

A Vacant Spot In Trophy Case

Disappearing trophies seem to have become the vogue across Canada.

Not to be outdone, even by the Schenley award of the Canadian Rugby Union, which went missing for a day, Victoria has some vanishing silverware of its own.

Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association president Doug Fletcher announced Thursday night that the Art Jefford Trophy had disappeared from the Memorial Arena trophy case.

The Art Jefford Trophy is annually presented to the Pacific Coast juvenile hockey champions, last year the Victoria All-Stars.

FULL-SCALE SEARCH

Valued at $300, the award has drawn a full-scale search by the association, even to a poll of the members of the championship team, all to no avail.

"Now I'm really worried," says Fletcher.

"It wasn't discovered until we went to photograph the 21 cups in the trophy case recently and found it not there. If we can't find it we'll have to replace it," he added.

Anybody knowing of the whereabouts of the wandering prize is asked to contact Fletcher by phoning GR 9-3484.

Walt Gets 'Nice' Raise

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Manager Walter Alston has signed a new, one-year contract—with a pay raise—to pilot the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

General manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi announced the signing Thursday.

As usual, the Dodgers did not divulge money but it is believed that Alston's salary now approaches $40,000 a year.

"Alston has accepted terms for a one-year contract—and he was awarded a nice raise," Bavasi said.

Alston was voted "manager of the year" for leading Dodgers to the world title.

Intercity Competition For Cagers

Vancouver Island's basketball scene took on an added hue today with the announcement that new junior and senior "B" leagues have been formed.

Formation of a five-team junior circuit and a four-team "B" wheel was confirmed Wednesday night at a meeting of the Victoria Basketball Commission.

Two Victoria College teams and one each from Nanaimo, Navy and Royal Roads will make up the junior league. Games, expected to start Nov. 7, will be played every Saturday at Mount View High.

Victoria's Half Way House entered a "B" men's league with Duncan, Courtenay and Comox.

Force of Habit

LONDON (Reuters)—International racing driver Stirling Moss faces prosecution for dangerous driving, his manager said Wednesday night a few hours after Moss left for New York with his wife Katie.

The summons follows a collision a month ago involving a car Moss was testing and a truck.

ORTEGA ON WARPATH

'Deese Fellow Make Me Mad'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Zapoteco Indian from Mexicali and the only modern Cuban without a beard are so mad at each other that they well may carry out their promise to knock off each other's hairline moustache.

They'll get their chance at Madison Square Garden tonight and the television audience may be treated to more than the usual quota of pseudo-mayhem.

These guys frankly don't like each other.

Gaspar Ortega, the party of the first part, admits that "deese fellow make me mad" when they fought Sept. 11. It seems that Florentino Fernandez, the opposition who is known as "Buey" the Ox, knocked Gaspar on his you-know-what on that date and in the process also injured the Ortega pride.

Indians, Gaspar wants it known, are like elephants. They're not only long on memory but, despite what you see on your favorite Western, they're hard to knock down, too.

"He's make me look bad," said the man from Mexicali, running a hand through his bristling black hair. "Only once, long times ago, I been knocked down. The other time she's no count. It's the low blow. Now I gets even for Anicito, Iraida, Cachito and Rene."

The aforementioned, in order, are his father, his wife and his two children. Gaspar did not mention by name his 10 brothers and sisters. But if he has his way, he'll probably boff The Ox a few times for them, also.

The 'Ox' Has Yet to Taste Defeat

Florentino The Ox, not to be confused with Ferdinand The Bull, shrugged his sloping shoulders their full ax-handle width at this evidence of premeditated hostility. The only Cuban fighter extant who is not nicknamed either "Kid" or "Chico," The Ox growled:

"This time he not get up."

Fernandez is not much given to talking, particularly English, of which he knows less than enough to graduate from Grade 6. But his interpreter's eyeballs twirled when The Ox rattled off a string of Spanish which didn't need translating as to combative content.

"He says," the interpreter allowed after a considerable time spent mentally scrubbing up the conversation, "that he knock him out."

Fernadez is good at that, too. A Cuban farmer's son—who also has his rooting section, what with being one of 11 children—he has never been defeated in winning 21 straight bouts. And he has knocked out 18 of those opponents.

Ortega has by far the greater experience and is known as the "Unlucky Indian." He has won 51 of 69 bouts, knocking out 21, but most of his 16 losses came from split decisions. Twice he lost to Don Jordan by divided verdicts in bouts for the right to fight for the welterweight crown, which Jordan went on to win.

Gaspar, a gay soul who dotes on ranchero music and the twang of the guitar, made "mucho pesos" in a series of televised encounters. The complacency which ensued is blamed, in part, on his loss to The Ox.

But being knocked down stung, among other things, his pride. For this one he allegedly is training with old-time vigor and dedication.

It shapes up, therefore, as a real grudge fight.

LACK OF MORALITY AMONG CHILDREN CALLED 'NATIONAL CANCER' BY MINISTER

Moral Values Spotlighted by Panel

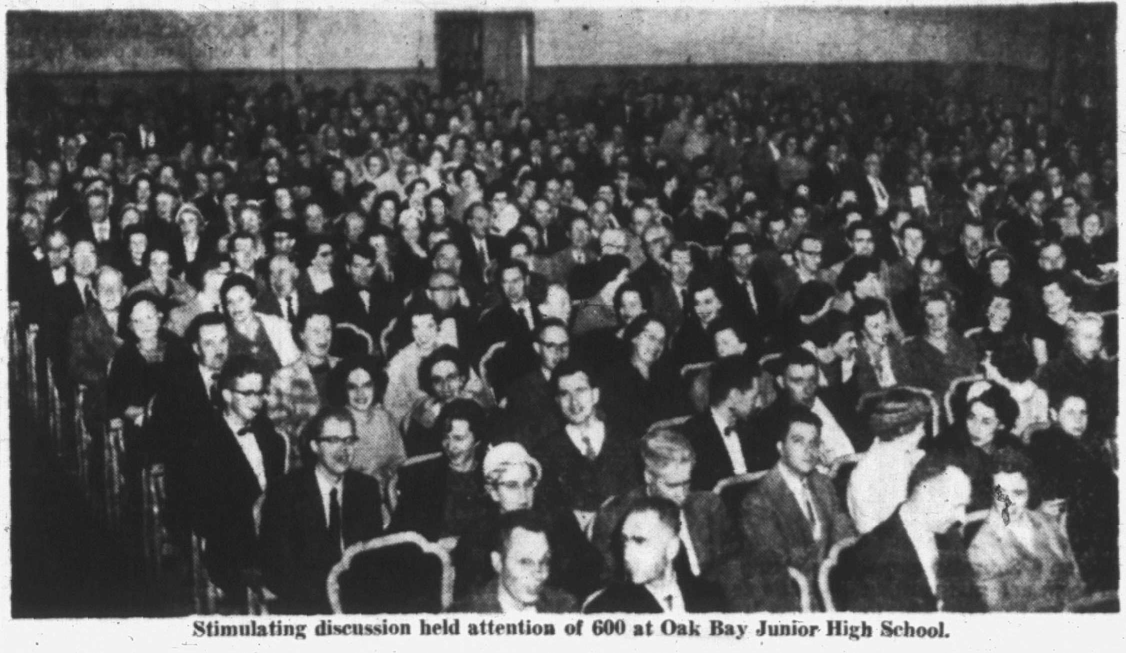
Two-Hour Discussion Opens Teachers' Meet

By JOHN MIKA

Moral values were spotlighted by a panel discussing the purpose of education Thursday night at the opening session of the Vancouver Island Secondary School Teachers' Association convention in Oak Bay Junior High School.



Stimulating discussion held attention of 600 at Oak Bay Junior High School.

A two-hour discussion by panel members before some 600 persons at the public meeting returned repeatedly to the theme of morality, led by Rev. Laura Butler of Metropolitan United Church.

Other panel members were: child welfare service director David Woodsworth, Times publisher Stuart Keate and junior high school teacher William Cross. Moderator was Horace Dawson, principal of Colquitz Junior High School.

Rev. Butler set the pattern of the discussion, as opening speaker, with the suggestion that many homes had failed to fulfill their obligation to teach morality to children.

This, she said, should be corrected by courses in the Bible, home making and ethics at schools.

"The Bible is the one book that is allowed to be read but not commented upon in our schools," she said.

"I think it is time that we Canadians insist we will not allow the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew religions to deny us this book being taught in school."

'Common to All'

She said the moral teachings of the Bible are common to the three religions "and they should be common to all children in Canada."

She admitted that religious "frictions" had prevented Bible classes in the past but said the people should overrule their churches and insist on Bible teaching in public schools.

"I strongly suspect that Rev. Butler is trying to get you people (teachers) to work for her," rejoined Mr. Keate.

"Surely these things should be taught in the home, the church and in Sunday school."

He said only so many subjects could be crammed into school hours.

Parents should assist the schools by providing stimulation for the natural curiosity of their children through good books, music and art in the home, he contended.

Done Cheaply

"This can be done cheaply today through paper backs and records," he said. "But surely the fundamental moral principles should be taught in the home too."

Mr. Woodsworth supported Rev. Butler's contention that schools should teach ethics and morality because "a fairly widespread characteristic of our society is that at least 50 per cent of all families are faced with serious problems of morality."

Rev. Butler added that the lack of morality among many children was "a national cancer" because it affected children from good homes who came into contact with it.

"I think children need to have a new look at standards of conduct and behavior and the agencies there are to help them."

She said the schools should provide a home-making course to train children to become good parents. The course should provide instruction in home finances, family responsibilities and the sexual as well as moral aspects of marriage.

Mr. Keate said the objectives of education must be decided by the values set by society.

"What do we want for our children?" he asked. "Do we want them to be rich or famous so that we can be proud of them?

Important Role

"I think it goes beyond that. Of course we want them to be happy, but our best hope is that they will become useful citizens. The three prevailing influences in this regard are the home, the church and the school, in that order."

He said newspapers have an important role to play in the educative process because, "writing history in a hurry," they chronicle the great events of history such as the Lunik moon probe.

"These sort of things are really breathtaking, they are almost epochal and yet they almost are taken as commonplace," he said.

He said any youngster who read a newspaper thoroughly each day and retained the information it contained would, by the age of 21, have obtained the equivalent of a college education.

Mr. Cross said the first question to be decided is whether education is to lead or follow the development of the nation. He said business has a responsibility to assist education because of the many technological benefits of research laboratories to the economy.

He said the public must be prepared to finance expanded facilities for diversified education.

"By and large there is an increasing awareness in business of its responsibility to education," replied Mr. Keate.

He said business men raised $8,500,000 for the University of B.C. building program and will help raise $1,500,000 for Victoria College in 1960.

But he added that physical plants "are not the be-all and end-all of education. What is important, after all, is what is in the teacher's mind and how he teaches it to the students."

'Human Sciences'

Mr. Woodsworth said he felt that the "human sciences"—such as history, economics, psychology—should be taught in elementary and secondary schools more often so that graduates would "know more about themselves in a confusing world."

He also contended that social workers should be employed by school boards—as many as 15 in Greater Victoria—to help problem students and their families improve the home-school relationship.

Mr. Woodsworth argued that it was essential that children be taught to live with each other and to tolerate other cultures and strange methods of doing even prosiac things "like passing the peanut butter.

"They must be taught that there are several ways of passing the peanut butter because they only know their own way and naturally think that is the only right way," he said.

Mr. Cross suggested that educators had "fallen down on the job of producing a society which is spending more than 10 times as much on amusements as on education."

World Citizens

Rev. Butler also argued that children should be taught not to be Canadian citizens but to be world citizens.

However, Mr. Keate contended that Canadian politicians spend $1,500,000,000 annually on national defence "because it is a matter of survival."

He said although society should strive for the ideals of love and peace, it was essential to recognize "that we live in an imperfect world and that there are missiles today in various parts of the world aimed at targets."

He also argued that it was important for children to be taught about other cultures, they first should learn their own culture and nation's history.

"I don't think any person can understand our culture unless he knows something about the French-Canadian fact, instead of the French-Canadian 'problem' as it has been referred to in the past."

The panel discussion was preceeded by an invocation delivered by Rev. A. C. Hamill, president of Victoria Ministerial Association.

'GO WEST' TO CANADA PAPER URGES BRITONS

LONDON (CP)—The Evening News devotes a full page today to the opportunities awaiting British emigrants in Canada.

Its optimistic stories are in sharp contrast to the bleak reports printed in some other British newspapers this year.

The News entitles its page:

"Go West! And Here's How."

It says "Canada is a land of vast opportunities," but warns that "only the ambitious, the industrious and the adaptable can capitalize on these opportunities."

"You know, when I'm feeling good about something I like to smoke a cigar. And the flavour of these Old Port cigars is just right for me."

FERRY LINE APPOINTS NANAIMO MAN

NANAIMO—John Dunham, local resident and employee of Black Ball Ferries, Ltd., since 1953, has been named general passenger agent for Vancouver Island, it was announced in Vancouver today by Lt.-Col. George Paulin, company president.

He served nine years in the Royal Navy and British Merchant Service before joining Black Ball.

New assistant manager of the company is Capt. Jack L. Macauley, senior master who commanded Mv. Kahloke when the Horseshoe Bay-Nanaimo run was inaugurated in 1953.

BUSIEST PLACE in Duncan on a Saturday morning is T. J. Boyles' auction room and sale yard on Canada Avenue, where everything from chickens to machinery is sold. Seen at left holding rooster aloft is employee Hank Dame. Mr. Boyles is behind bird, wearing black hat. A former butcher, logger and cattle dealer, Mr. Boyles has been conducting auctions in Duncan area for 15 years, and weekly livestock sales for past three years. Up to 50 head of cattle are sold each week. (Rickard Photo.)

Dime Beer Promise Opens Pubs

NANAIMO—Five beer parlors which were closed by the Liquor Control Board last week for "unsatisfactory operation" reopened today after the operators promised to serve 10-cent glasses of beer on request.

Decision to return licences was made at a meeting Thursday between Col. Donald McGugan, liquor commissioner, and operators of Nanaimo, Lotus, Plaza, Somerset and Wellington hotels.

Vincent Crawley, zone representative of the B.C. Hotels Association, confirmed that refusal to sell the small glass of beer was the reason for the closures.

Operators of beer parlors prefer use of the 20-cent, 12-ounce beer glass, and have applied to the LCB to discontinue use of the smaller 10 cent, 7½-ounce glass. When permission was given two years ago to use big glass, however it was on the understanding that any customer desiring the small glass would be served as usual.

The beer parlor operators were notified Oct. 22 that their licences would be suspended at midnight of that day. Beer drinkers suffered no hardship, since there still were 18 beer parlors open in the Greater Nanaimo area.

PLOWING MATCH

DUNCAN—The annual Cowichan plowing match, abandoned last Saturday because of rain, will be held this Saturday, near Koksilah, at 10 a.m.

Elwood Modeste, chief of the Cowichan Indian Band, will open the affair for the first time. The site, on the Indian Reserve, is the same field where the first Cowichan plowing match was held 29 years ago.

Action Sought To Straighten 'Crash Alley'

(From Duncan Bureau)

An urgent plea for the improvement of eight miles of Cowichan Lake Road, scene of several fatal accidents, will be made by Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

The chamber is attempting to arrange a meeting with Mr. Gaglardi to discuss the proposal, with a view to getting work started next year.

The minister previously told the chamber the work will be done when funds are available, but because of the increased traffic on the road and growing number of accidents, the chamber is insisting the work be done next year at the latest.

STRACHAN BACKING

The chamber has the backing of Robert Strachan, Cowichan-Newcastle MLA, on the proposal. In a letter to the chamber he said he understood the district engineer had included this work in his estimates but recommended they continue to press for a meeting with Mr. Gaglardi "to impress upon him the urgency and need of this work."

RELOCATION

Chamber's proposal is to relocate the road north of the present route for about eight miles. This would eliminate a number of sharp curves and two railroad crossings.

Cowichan Lake Road now carries all traffic between Duncan and the communities of Lake Cowichan, Mesachie Lake, Honeymoon Bay and Youbou, which includes a number of huge chip trucks which haul close to 24 hours per day.

Stretch of road in question is that between Sahtlam and Tansor railway crossings, where the E&N Railway curves northward, then comes southward again for the balance of the route to Lake Cowichan.

Except for the disrupted stretch, the road parallels the railroad track. Although the road still is narrow, the visibility improves closer to Lake Cowichan.

Boat Basin Road Asked At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — Need for a public access road to the Ladysmith boat basin is urgent, Commissioner P. R. Battie told the Ladysmith village commission this week.

"We are tresspassing every time we use the present road," Commissioner Battie said, "and there is no question it is a dangerous road."

The present access road is owned by the Comox Logging and Railway Company, and crosses the company's railway.

Commissioner Battie pointed out that trains are now running day and night on this portion of track.

The municipal clerk was instructed to write for an appointment with Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi on Nov. 6.

In addition to pressing for construction of the boat basin road, the commission will ask for completion of the curbing and other unfinished work on the Trans-Canada Highway through Ladysmith.

Work on the first phase of Ladysmith's waterworks renovation program is progressing on schedule, Commissioner Tom Strang reported.

A new six-inch main has been laid as far as Kitchener Street, an old dam has been cleaned and the gates are being repaired, and the Ladysmith dam on Holland Creek has been cleaned.

Because the renovation plan calls for the Bayview area to be supplied from Holland Creek, it is important that the two dams be kept in top condition, Commissioner Strang said.

INVOLVED in Nanaimo police court case is Patty Raynor, 17, present holder of "Miss Nanaimo" title. Otto Comis, SPCA inspector, has charged her mother, Mrs. S. E. Raynor of South Wellington, with failing to provide food, water and shelter for dogs at her kennel. Comis is charged with assault by Miss Raynor, who said he put his arm around her waist and tried to kiss her. Both cases have been adjourned Thursday to Nov. 5.

TOURIST GETS 'TREATMENT'

Month-Long Wait On Minor Charge

NANAIMO (CP)—An Alberta tourist and his family have waited a month here to have a traffic charge heard, police court was told Thursday.

Lawyer Ron MacIsaac opposed an application by the Crown to adjourn until next Monday the hearing of a charge against John Saiko, 27, of Wildwood, Alta., of failing to yield the right of way to another vehicle Oct. 2.

Mr. MacIsaac asked Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts to dismiss the charge.

"The cost to my client of having to stick around Nanaimo far outweighs any desirability of the Crown to secure a conviction and a probable $10 fine," he said.

He said a police constable was not in court to explain why there was a delay of 13 days between the time of the accident and the date a charge was laid.

"I appreciate the Crown's position of being without witnesses to go on with the case today but our system is not built around convenience. It is built around protection of the individual," Mr. MacIsaac said.

The magistrate adjourned the case until Monday and said it will proceed whether witnesses are available or not.

DUNCAN—A driver for a Victoria firm was accosted in the downtown area the other day by a Duncanite who asked if he had seen any flying saucers recently in the capital city.

11.6% PAY INCREASE CALLED 'UNREALISTIC'

LADYSMITH—An 11.6 per cent salary increase sought by teachers in the area has been termed "unrealistic" by school board chairman Robert Edwards.

He said the increases were not justified but J. H. Morgan, spokesman for the teachers, said they should be paid as well as persons in other professions.

BROADCAST HEARINGS

Canada-First TV Slated for Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian broadcasters appear before the Board of Broadcast Governors next week to say what they think of proposed regulations for television.

The main point at issue is expected to be the board's proposal for a minimum of 55 per cent Canadian content in all TV programming, computed on a weekly basis.

The CBC and the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, representing public and private stations, respectively, have not made their views public, but it is generally believed that they will recommend modification in the proposed regulations.

NO FORENOON TV

Other main points in the proposed regulations:

1. No television broadcasting before noon, except for religious programs, children's programs on Saturday's, school broadcasts and special events of national, regional or local character for which the board has given its permission.

2. A maximum of two hours of broadcasting time daily between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. would be reserved for purpose prescribed by the board. Pro*gramming during these two* hours would require a 55-per-cent Canadian content, computed daily.

3 No Canadian TV station would have direct program connection with U.S. networks without first obtaining board approval.

SCARED OFF

Reports from within the broadcasting industry suggest that many persons planning applications for second TV stations in major Canadian cities were scared off by the proposal for 55 per cent Canadian content.

The proposed TV regulations would go into effect about mid-1960 about the time second TV stations are expected to start operations.

When the board announced its proposed TV regulations last July 28, it said that it will prescribe the standards for measuring Canadian content in TV programming.

HALF CANADIAN

For example, it proposes to consider films from Commonwealth countries as 50 per cent Canadian. Films from France or French-language countries for French-language stations here also would be considered as 50 per cent Canadian.

In a statement on Canadian content, the board said it will take into account the various elements which enter into the program. Thus a film, to be given Canadian classification, as a general rule would have to be made in Canada, by a Canadian company incorporated in Canada.

'Mom' to Set Up Home at Nelson

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) —Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte is going west to establish a new Whytehaven Mission for temporarily displaced children on 25 acres of land near Nelson, B.C.

The self-appointed foster mother, who during the last 14 years has cared for nearly 2,000 children at her home near this Oshawa district town said Thursday night the Nelson property was given to her. She declined to name the benefactor.

Mom Whyte's running battle with Ontario authorities culminated in the shutting down of her home by the province this summer. She said she has advised British Columbia Premier Bennett and the B.C. health department of her proposed move, but has received no reply.

She also announced, on her return from a western United States speaking tour, that a Pennsylvania branch of the Whytehaven mission is planned after the Nelson project is established.

Together with her husband, Bert, a local rubber company worker, and perhaps some of her staff, she may leave next week for the B.C. location. She intends to sell the Whytehaven home here.

Bills totalling about $12,000 on the Bowmanville home will be paid when the mission is sold, Mrs. Whyte said. A renovation program during the last three months in an attempt to bring the building up to provincial standards cost hundreds of dollars.

Two Young Soldiers Become New Citizens

Two young soldiers, wearing the uniform of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, were sworn in Thursday as Canadian citizens.

"It is great to be joining a vigorous young country," said 21-year-old Horst Kobs who came here with his parents from Germany five years ago and joined the PPCLI in 1957.

Equally enthusiastic was Viktor Novak, 26, who came to Canada from Austria in 1954 and has served with the PPCLI for two and a half years.

Both are stationed at Work Point Barracks.

The soldiers, with 16 other immigrants from Japan, Germany, Austria, Denmark, Holland, Poland and Latvia, took the oath of allegiance as Canadian citizens from Judge J. B. Clearihue in a pleasant ceremony at Victoria courthouse.

"This is a very happy occasion for me," said dainty dark-haired Tsuneko Watanabe from Japan.

The other new Canadians were Dagmara Bystedt, Alexander Ditz, Nastija Ditz, Petrus Filippo, Johanna Filippo, Elfriede Furdal, Bodo Issmer, Heinz Ofner, Gunnar Pederzen, Valentin Rupitz, Embert van Tilburg, Eleonora van Tilburg, Ruth Elizabeth Winter, Herman Zander and Marianne Gertrud Zander.

"It is my pleasure to congratulate each one of you personally on obtaining Canadian citizenship," said Judge Clearihue, speaking from a raised platform flanked by the Union Jack and the Canadian Ensign.

"This citizenship entitles you to freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of thought and action, and the right to vote as you choose under a democratic government which recognizes the rights of all its citizens."

MADE GOOD

The judge reminded the new Canadians they were also British subjects and advised them to obtain Canadian passports if they wished to travel abroad.

"This country offers plentiful opportunities for immigrants," said Robert (Bob) Macnicol of the Canadian Legion.

He mentioned as examples of immigrants who have "made good" in Canada Lieut.-Governor Frank Ross, James Muir, chairman of the Royal Bank of Canada, and Prime Minister Alexander Mackenzie.

MANY NATIONS

"These men are evidence that men of many nations have contributed to the history and development of Canada," Mr. Macnicol said.

The new Canadians were also welcomed by Mrs. H. L. Smith, chairman of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council; Ald. Lily Wilson; H. L. Hopkins of the British and Foreign Bible Society; Lieut.-Col. Aubrey Kent of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Lottie Bowron of the Retired Provincial Civil Servants Association.

A coffee party was held afterwards in Eaton's restaurant.

Cheaper, More 'Popular' Arts Festival Next Year

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver International Festival will be shorter next year, its third year in operation, and broader in appeal in an attempt to bounce back from last summer's financial setback.

Nicholas Goldschmidt, artistic and managing director of the annual arts festival, told a press conference today the festival will be shortened to 3½ weeks from five and will aim at a "much broader cross-section of the population."

As a starter, he announced the signing of Toronto pianist Glenn Gould, German bass-baritone Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Swedish mezzo-soprano Kerstin Meyer and conductor William Steinberg of the Pittsburgh Symphony. All but Mr. Fischer-Dieskau have appeared here before. Festival dates will be July 20 - Aug. 13.

Mr. Goldschmidt said the feature productions will include performances for the first time in Canada of Benjamin Britten's opera for children, Noah's Flood, with up to 80 children taking part and with special matinees for children.

There will also be a two-day Canadian music festival, featuring works by Canadian composers, to take place at the University of British Columbia.

Faced with a stunning $250,000 deficit in the 1959 festival, on a budget of slightly less than $500,000, the festival organizers this year are budgeting for "substantially less" cost, Mr. Goldschmidt said.

The number of performances will be reduced almost by half, to about 45 from last year's more than 90.

As in previous years, there will be a film festival and an art exhibition run in connection with the festival.

Third Steel Pact Signed in Strike

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union, heartened by agreement with a third small company, prepared again today to continue efforts to make peace with major American steel firms in the 108-day contract strike.

The union and Granite City Steel Company signed a new labor pact Thursday night. It followed the same pattern as union agreements with Kaiser Steel and Detroit Steel Corporations earlier in the week.

Granite City, the 17th largest producer, employs 3,250 workers in mills with capacity to produce 1,440,000 tons of steel a year. Like Detroit, the company had been operating throughout the strike under terms of a contract extension.

The newest agreement came several hours after top-level negotiators for the union and the industry's big 11 companies failed to make any progress in a meeting that lasted nearly three hours.

Government mediators have called on the negotiators to meet in Washington Monday unless they can reach agreement before then — which seemed unlikely today.

An injunction under the Taft-Hartley labor law to end the dispute for at least 80 days also is hanging over the heads of the negotiators and the 500,000 strikers. Enforcement of the injunction has been delayed by a union appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

WON'T RAISE PRICES

The three contracts signed so far each provide package increases valued by the union at 22½ cents an hour during the 20-month agreement periods. All three companies said they do not expect any immediate price increases.

Some 325,000 workers in allied industries have been laid off as the steel shortage grows critical. General Motors, the largest auto manufacturer, will halt all but a few scattered operations by tonight.

General Motors said an estimated 200,000 of its employees will be laid off this week.

NORTHERN PROBE FOR WEALTH

Men at work almost within sight of the Arctic Ocean symbolize Canada's pre-occupation with the Far North. White specks circled mark location of lonely oil exploration camp on Anderson River that may be site of future city. Few low willow trees mark northern boundary of timber growth.

THEY'LL LAUGH AT THE SHEIK OF KUWAIT

Market Possible for Arctic Oil

By ERIK WATT

"So you find oil in the Arctic?" asked the Calgary oilman. "So what? Where are you going to sell it when you can't sell Alberta oil?"

Watt

"As soon as we can produce cheap oil in the Arctic," says the conservation engineer whose office is a few blocks away, "we can cut the cost of engineered products in the Montreal area and compete with high-cost U.S. industry. And we'll be able to cock a snook at the Sheik of Kuwait."

"I can't see any really startling developments within the next two years," says the chief geologist in yet another Calgary head office. "But within five years . . ."

And this is how it goes as you make the rounds of the head offices. Yet one thing you quickly discover; the pessimists are the minority.

Not Laughing

Take the question of a 450-mile pipeline to deliver oil from the Eagle Plains-Peel Plateau area of the northern Yukon and the neighboring Mackenzie River area of the N.W.T. to the west coast. Some people laugh at the idea as prohibitive in cost—but not W. D. C. MacKenzie, western production manager of Imperial Oil and a man largely responsible for the completion of the 600-mile Canol pipeline from Norman Wells, N.W.T., to Whitehorse in the Yukon, during the Second World War.

"Canol was obviously an experience in how not to do something," he says, "but its lessons could be put to good use.

"The Canol line wasn't buried, and that proved quite a mistake. It gave us terrible problems of expansion and contraction—one forgets it can get warm in the north, too, and dark pipe can absorb a lot of heat. At one point the oil in the line was at a temperature of 110 degrees.

Pipe Must Be Buried

"But if you buried it a foot or so, or even piled a foot of cover over the line and just laid the line on top of the ground, you should be able to keep your oil at a temperature of 30 to 40 degrees. Providing oil has good pumping characteristics it won't freeze."

"That would reduce the cost of your line, and there are no problems of obtaining right-of-way, either.

"The greatest difficulty would be getting over the mountains, but once in the interior I don't think there'd be any great problem. Pipeline technology has advanced rapidly. I don't see—with the qualification that I don't know all the terrain—that there is any pipeline job anywhere in Canada too difficult to handle.

"The toughest job would be building communications to go with the line. Opening up that area means a big road-building job, and that means vast amounts must be spent yet."

Hillslide Problem

There is a road under construction now from Flat Creek, near Dawson City, to Fort McPherson, on the Mackenzie River delta, which will pass through the Peel Plateau country of the Yukon. Work has been painfully slow, particularly where sidehill construction is necessary, as the exposed permafrost melts and the banks keep sliding down on top of the right-of-way.

Yet northern highway-building is feasible. Last grading on a 250-mile road from Hay River, on the south shore of Great Slave Lake, around the west end of the lake to Yellowknife, on the north shore, should be completed this year; new techniques have mastered both rock and muskeg, as well as permafrost.

Where will you sell northern oil, if indeed fields sufficient to justify a pipeline are found?

B. H. J. Thoms, federal oil conservation engineer for the N.W.T. with offices in Calgary, sees three possibilities:

1. Oil from Norman Wells south should be fed into the domestic system. (The Nahanni Valley area of the Liard, in which Shell is interested, is only 300 miles from the Westcoast Transmission Line at Fort St. John, B.C., for example.)

2. Mainland oil north of Norman Wells could be connected to a pipeline to the west coast, possibly terminating at Skagway, Alaska, for shipment to the Far Eastern market.

3. Oil from the Arctic islands could be loaded directly on deep-sea tankers for shipment to Europe or Halifax—and the route is not only shorter than from South American or Middle Eastern fields, but also might be useable year-round. Prevailing winds from the northwest leave the inner channel of Lancaster Sound open in summer and there are leads in the ice in the winter months—as well as open water—which suggest it could be kept open by icebreakers.

Russians Make Bid

Fantastic? Not at all, says Thoms. And Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton announced last month that at least one company—presumably Dominion Explorers of Toronto or Round Valley Oil Co. of Calgary, which have both been active there—is already considering a 1960 drilling program on Cornwallis Island, 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg.

The story gets even more interesting when one discovers that Round Valley, which carried out an extensive program in the islands this year, is a subsidiary of Lobitos Oilfields, a British firm which has large holdings in Ecuador and Peru.

Even the Russians come into the act. I was told on excellent authority—by a man who said he would immediately deny the story if his name or his firm were mentioned—that the Russians this year had quoted a bid 50 per cent lower than the nearest Canadian tenderer to supply oil and lubricants to North Rankin Inlet nickel mine on Hudson Bay.

'Painless Way' Chosen By PM on Wage Fight

Federal civil servants have been lagging behind business and industrial wage rates since 1945, J. C. Best, national president of the 118,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada, told 595 of Greater Victoria's 3,000 civil servants at a rally Thursday night.

He said civil servants "can't fight back" like other employees, "and if something has to be done about the government budget, here is the painless way to do it."

Because civil servants cannot strike for higher wages, "the government has taken from us all the privileges of the law: it's as simple as that," said Mr. Best.

He said the government must work out a suitable and equitable system of bargaining "as in Great Britain."

Because of the lack of pay increase, expected in October but not granted, Mr. Best said, it would be "many years" before government employees had confidence restored in the government.

He termed the government decision "unfair . . . a raw deal," and said today that "no other employer can plead lack of money" when it came to legitimate wage increases for employees.

"Canadian citizens as a whole don't want a loaded deck against employees, citizen employees."

Delegates were present from HMC Dockyard, Veterans' Hospital, department of transport, income tax, agriculture, customs and excise, postal workers and others.

Mr. Bell said the government was hoping employees would "run out of steam," in their complaints concerning lack of salary increase.

But, he insisted, civil servants were not being paid "a fair day's wages for a fair day's work."

In effect, the government had taken advantage of the "loyalty" of civil servants by its action in not granting wage boosts.

If there was no money in the budget for salary increases, "why was there this pretence of discussion?" between the government and the CSA, he asked.

Civil servants, he said, had been singled out to "hold the line" against inflation, but there was no evidence of inflation, and "it certainly does not happen in crown corporations."

James Wyllie of Regina, second vice-president of the Civil Service Federation of Canada and president, National Defence Employees' Association, also pointed out that civil servants were denied collective bargaining agreement, "enjoyed by all other Canadian citizens."

Wage parity with business should be used by the government as a guide to wages granted, he said.

He said the prime minister had "broken faith" with employees.

Chairman of the meeting was G. K. Sammon, chairman of a local joint action committee, pledged to fight for wage adjustments.

COMMUNITY HALLOWEEN PARTIES SET

Chilly Rain Threatening City's Witches, Goblins

Haunting time has rolled around again and on Saturday night, come rain or shine, young Victoria witches and goblins will do their darndest to scare up Halloween treats.

At the moment it looks as if there will be more rain than shine. Gonzales weather office predicts heavy rain during the evening with temperatures dropping as low as 42 degrees.

In defiance of the weather man, at least five supervised bonfires are planned and thousands of costumed youngsters expect to dance in the flickering shadows amid the spluttering and banging of long-awaited fireworks.

City merchants report a big run on black and orange goodies, fruit and nuts, so the youngsters should make a better than average haul as they make their way from door to door.

Sales of fireworks are said to be up in volume on last year.

ORGANIZED "PARTIES"

At 7 p.m. Oak Bay firemen will stage their annual bonfire at Fireman's Park, while Langford volunteer fire department will have a similar "burn up" at the community hall.

Young and old are invited to a jumbo bonfire at the corner of Prospect Lake Road and Goward Road, at 7 p.m. Lots of hotdogs and firecrackers are promised.

The Century Toppers Car Club, assisted by the James Bay Community Association, will stage a bonfire at the James Bay Boat Ramp, foot of St. Lawrence Street, at 7 p.m. Hot dogs and soft drinks will be served for 200 children.

Esquimalt Lions Club will hold two bonfires starting at 6 p.m.—one at Bullen Park and the other on municipal land in the area bounded by Lampson and Craigflower.

There will be candies, prizes and entertainment.

View Royal volunteer firemen and the community association are jointly sponsoring a bonfire near the community hall, starting at 6.30 p.m.

East Sooke children will mark Halloween with a party and bonfire for pre-school and elementary school children at East Sooke Community Hall.

A combination dance and skating party for students will be held in the Memorial Arena from 8 to 11 p.m.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Week's total since start of the "Archie McKinnon Appreciation Fund" today was $1,129.55.

Money will be used to provide the YMCA physical director and Mrs. McKinnon with funds for a convalescent trip.

He was injured 16 days ago at the Crystal Garden pool.

More tourists passed through customs at Sidney and Victoria in the first nine months of this year than entered in 1958, B.C.'s highly publicized centennial year.

Tourist Bureau commissioner George I. Warren said today customs officers handled 65,370 autos carrying 198,579 passengers, an increase of 3½ per cent over the first nine months last year.

Mr. Warren said the new offices of the Victoria Auto Club will be ready for occupancy before the end of the year. The VAC office will form a new wing to the present Victoria & Island Publicity building.

'Stay in Line' On Halloween Hoodlums Told

Special Target —Chiefs

Halloween hoodlums will be the special target of police throughout Greater Victoria Saturday night.

Police chiefs in the city and surrounding municipalities today voiced their determination to keep the evening "for the kids." They said no leniency would be shown vandals.

"We want the children to have a good time, we're not killjoys," said Victoria Chief John Blackstock, "but if anybody gets out of line and we have the evidence they will be charged.

"We are not going to tolerate any property damage or vicious throwing of fireworks at people."

He said 90 members of the Victoria force will be combing the city Saturday night.

In Esquimalt the warning was equally as stern from Chief Gilbert Stancombe, who said, "We will have special men on for the night.

"We're not giving special consideration to hoodlums at all If they break the law they will be prosecuted."

Oak Bay Chief Bob Smith said his force will make sure the evening is kept as a harmless fantasy time for the children.

"Any person doing damage to local property will be treated in the usual manner," he said.

"All the crew will be out, in private cars as well, and there will be no special favors given."

Saanich Chief Bert Pearson, who favors abolition of Halloween, said earlier his department will be taking measures to curb the annual spate of vandalism.

Eye Damage Permanent

Victoria's first Halloween victim this year, nine-year-old Larry Lysne, 3204 Kingsley, will go through life with an eye permanently damaged by fireworks.

Attending doctors said today although it will "take at least a week or 10 days to determine the extent of the damage, the boy definitely will not have normal eyesight and there will be some permanent damage."

The boy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday with an injury suffered when he lighted a firecracker he stuck in the end of a wooden penholder. A splinter from the holder and powder particles were imbedded in the eye.

Bank Acquires Lengthy Area On Douglas

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has purchased a parcel of land on the west side of Douglas, between Kings and the Fountain Circle, for future commercial development.

The property embraces houses and commercial establishments from Doug Anderson's hamburger drive-in to the Dunlop Tire agency.

Six older-type homes and six business establishments are involved, including Tang's Pagoda, Individual Dry Cleaners' call office, International Travel Service, S. Morrice tailors, and Island Glass Tint Co.

It is understood the bank is still working on plans for development of the land, and that final development is at least a year away. Some of the leases on the properties run until June of next year.

Included in the plans is a possible move of the Bay and Douglas branch of the bank to the new site.

Conciliation On Teachers' Salaries

Negotiations on Greater Victoria teacher salaries are at a standstill and conciliation procedures are being set up, it was announced today.

A joint statement by Douglas Clark, chairman of the teachers' negotiating committee and W. C. Gelling, chairman of the trustees' committee, said they had been unable to agree on 1960 salary scale and were appointing conciliators.

The teachers' committee, negotiating for some 725 members, initially proposed a 21 per cent increase in the present scale which ranges from a low of $2,800 to a high of $7,260 annually.

COMPULSORY

The board rejected the proposal and counter-proposed a 4 per cent increase based on the cost of living index factor, which would have raised salaries to a $[illegible],950-$7,560 range.

The teachers' committee brought back a reduced proposal for an 11½ per cent over-all increase that would raise the scale to a $3,000-$8,100 range.

None of the proposals have been accepted and under the Public Schools Act, conciliation is compulsory after Oct. 31.

If no agreement is reached by Nov. 15, the dispute automatically will go to arbitration.

"Both sides are hopeful of an amicable agreement," said trustee Mr. Gelling.

Greater Victoria was one of some 21 school districts that required intervention of a special conciliation team 16 months ago to bring about a working agreement during a controversy over a teachers' "blacklisting" threat against the school boards.

Sadist Hunted By Police

'Deadly Silence' In Priest's Aviary

City police today are pressing a hunt for a person with a morbid and sadistic mind who broke into the aviary of a Ukrainian priest and killed, mutilated, and stole more than 20 birds.

The brutal raid has left father Stephen Chehovsky, a hard-working Catholic priest with a love for birds and flowers, heartbroken.

It was the third time this year some person had broken into the aviary in the basement of the church at Cook and Caledonia.

But the last raid was the most gruesome.

Eighteen canaries and six budgies were stolen.

The nests were scattered about the large cage and the eggs broken.

FEATHERS PULLED OUT

One bird, which fed out of the priest's hands, had its tail feathers pulled out.

Others were found with broken legs and wings.

The priest, who raises birds as a hobby, expects that many of the 20 canaries and four budgies left behind will die from shock.

"I just can't understand a person who will do a thing like that," the priest said sadly. "He must be a wild youth with a destructive mind.

The vandal broke through two doors in the basement to get to the aviary.

The priest discovered the vandalism on his return from visiting Vancouver Island Ukrainian parishes Thursday. He was away three days.

He left the birds with plenty of food and water. The aviary was lighted day and night.

DEADLY SILENT

"When I returned I expected to be greeted with the songs of the canaries as they have got to know me," he said. "But when I entered the room the place was deadly silent. I found birds huddled in the cage, some lying on the floor unable to move because of injuries. It was a pathetic sight."

A cultured man who has done extensive missionary work in Africa, Father Chehovsky said it was the third time this year the aviary has been broken into. On the two previous occasions he only owned a few birds and the loss was not as great.

On the first occasion, two birds were stolen. On the second, the mother was taken from a 10-day-old chick.

Turkey Wings Are Tasty And Easy on Pocket Book!

By PENNY SAVER

Here's a luxury item at an "end-of-the-month" price! Good-sized turkey wings can be bought this weekend for 40 cents a pound. These are from large birds that are rolled for use of restaurants. Wings have a lot of meat on them—I saw one "weighed in" at eight ounces.

If you want to get away from the frying pan you could bake them in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes. Just the sort of meal that you can put in and forget while you're busy answering the door to neighborhood "goblins"!

Mop-up operations in the garden keep householders pretty busy these fine weekends. Nothing's more annoying than to have to spend precious hours of daylight getting meals when you once start raking leaves and cleaning flower beds! For a quick lunch you could try salmon milts (more commonly known as roes).

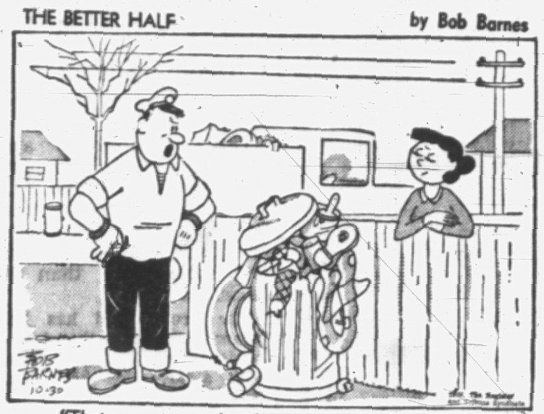
Seasoned with a little salt and pepper, they're delicious fried and served on toast. Milts would also make an interesting "brunch" for late-risers, come Sunday. An inexpensive delicacy, milts sell at 25 cents a pound.

Shades of childhood were revived when I came across pomegranates, selling at two for 25 cents. We used to spend hours digging with pins into their seed-packed centres! Why not get some for Halloween hand-outs?

Next time you make a stew try some leeks. Their flavor adds body and interest. Two large bunches cost 25 cents.

Lots of green vegetables are available. New cabbage is selling at 10 cents a pound, broccoli, 25 cents a pound; Brussels sprouts, 29 cents a pound and cauliflower, 35 cents each.

THE BETTER HALF by Bob Barnes



"That can seems to be of a marriageable age—When 're you gonna' find it a mate?"

TODAY'S RECIPE

Following is a quick and easy tested supper or luncheon main course. The original called for serving the eggs on toasted muffins but other serving suggestions are included below.

CREAMED EGGS

One-quarter cup butter, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1 tablespoon minced onion, ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon vinegar, ½ cup water off peas, 6 hard-cooked eggs (sliced), 2 cups cooked peas (fresh, canned or frozen).

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add curry powder and onion and cook and stir until onion is tender but not browned. Blend in the flour, salt and sugar and stir until smooth and bubbly. Add milk, vinegar and pea cooking water. Stir and cook until smooth and thickened, about 5 minutes. Add eggs and peas. Set over hot water and heat thoroughly. Serve on pastry tart shells, toasted muffins, corn bread, toast cups or patty shells. (Six servings.)

Note: If preferred eggs may be cut into sixths or quarters. If using small eggs use 8 or 9 in place of 6 large eggs.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Gives Exercises for Hollow And Bulge on Outer Hipline

Josephine

Q. "Please give me an exercise to correct the hollow and bulge beneath it on the outer hipline. I know you have given an exercise for this in the past. I did not save it because I did not have this defect then. I know lots of women have this same trouble. Would you please repeat it?"

A. I often give exercises for this figure fault because it is one many women have even quite early in life. There are many good ones. Here are a couple.

Lie on the floor on your left side. Place your right hand on the floor in front of you to brace yourself. Now raise your right leg up as far as comfortable. Lower right leg. Continue raising and lowering leg. Turn onto the right side and raise and lower the left leg.

Another: Lie on the floor on your back, arms resting on the floor at your sides. Drag your legs apart and then drag them together. Continue. Do not lift the legs from the floor.

Q. "I am 36 years old, 5 feet 1½ inches tall and weigh 95 pounds. My bust measures 32 inches, waist 22 and hips 32. I feel wonderful but my friends tell me I should gain weight. Please give me your advice in your Question Box column."

A. You are underweight. Even with a small frame you should weigh 110 pounds.

Q. "Is there a cream or exercise for saggy flesh under the chin and on the neck?"

A. There are exercises which are beneficial. Circulation creams which whip up circulation are also an aid. Of course you should use a lubricating cream also.

If you would like to have my exercises for the chinline, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 10 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper. I have given several of these recently in this column.

Q. "I would appreciate your opinion concerning my weight. Some hint that I am overweight. I have gone on diets for three days and then stopped because I do not know whether I should lose or not. I am 19 years old, 5 feet and 1 inch tall and weigh 115 pounds. I think I am small boned."

A. You are just right.

Q. "While vacationing at a friend's house I was told 'You are so fat'. Please tell me the truth. I am almost 13 years old, 5 feet 7½ inches tall and weigh 131 pounds."

A. You are the correct weight.

NO COLD WAR IN FASHION

PARIS (Reuters)—The Russian and Asiatic influence is dominant in Paris winter millinery.

There never has been a cold war in fashion, and Russian-inspired hats, tracing their origin back through the colorful sources of folklore, the Ballet Russe and the imperial court, go hand-in-hand with the new silhouettes featuring evolutions of the tunic and the overblouse.

Port Alberni Anglican Church Setting for Goodall-Wood Vows

Many guests from Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo and Chemainus traveled to Port Alberni to attend wedding of Barbara Beryl Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood, of Port Alberni, to John Howard Goodall, son of John Goodall, 945 Wollaston Street, Victoria, and the late Mrs. Goodall.

Rev. F. C. Austin officiated at the ceremony in St. Albans' Anglican Church. White chrysanthemums decorated the church. Mrs. F. C. Austin played wedding music.

Bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her floor-length gown of imported brocade was cut on princess lines. It featured a cowl neckline and chapel train. Veil of illusion mist, with handrolled edge, was held by a dainty coronet of seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a single strand pearl necklace and earrings. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow talisman roses.

Mrs. M. Stensrude, of Vancouver, Wash., was matron of honor. Cousin of the bride, Miss Cheryl Harris, was only other attendant. Both wore gowns of copper-toned bengaline taffeta and carried cascade bouquets of white and copper-toned chrysanthemums.

Philip W. Wickinson, Victoria, was best man and ushers were W. Harvey Jones, Victoria, and Lee Harris, cousin of the bride.

Port Alberni Golf and Country Club was setting for the reception. Bride's table, covered with a crochet lace cloth, was centred with a three-tier cake, flanked by crystal candelabra, white candles and white chrysanthemums in silver vases.

Thomas B. Bird, Victoria, a family friend for many years, proposed the bridal toast. Serviteurs were Mrs. Robert Burchett, Mrs. Thomas Chatham, Mrs. Jack Harris, Mrs. J. Van Bergen and Mrs. Gary Shepard.

Skindiver Housewife Joins Hubby In Depths of Victoria Waters

By JUDY NICHOLSON

Married gals are showing an interest in skin diving!

"And why not," says Mrs. Lyle Hayden, attractive member of the "set." "It's far better to join husband in the icy depths of the sea than to sit at home worrying over what's happening to him.

"Anyway, if you can't beat 'em, join them," she laughs.

Mrs. Hayden ("call me Nancy") is an ardent skin diver and, with her husband, spends every Sunday exploring the waters around Victoria.

"When Lyle first suggested I join his club, the "Reef Rovers," I laughed. But he was so enthusiastic I found I could not be odd man out!"

DEEP DIVE

Although Nancy has been skin diving for only seven months, she has already spent 20 minutes in water that's 40 feet deep.

"It's amazing what a diver sees down there," she declares, "the waters around our island are filled with sea animals and plants."

Asked if she was nervous when she first went down, Nancy shrugs, "I must admit I was a bit frightened. But once I was down for several minutes I got so wrapped up in the beauties around me, I forgot my nervousness!"

Interest in skin diving has grown since the Second World War, when the face mask, snorkel and fins first appeared. Today, self-contained underwater breathing apparatus has become the "real thing" as more and more people get bitten by the bug and plunge into the icy sea.

HABIT FORMING

"It's a funny thing," says vivacious woman diver, "Once you've done it, you can't leave it alone."

Another attribute as far as skin divers are concerned is the invigoration they feel after a session of diving.

"It's really relaxing . . . why I feel like a million dollars for days afterwards," explains Nancy.

By the rosy color of her cheeks, this isn't hard to believe.

Mrs. Hayden believes skin diving is a marvellous family sport.

"All year round it's possible to dive. This could present problems if hubby was the only one interested in it. Anyway, it's much more fun when all the family takes part . . . everyone gets into the act!"

With two children, Russell, four, and Pattie, three, Nancy can only dive on Sundays.

"Granny looks after them then. Lyle and I can hardly wait until the two kiddies are old enough to come down off the breakwater with us . . . Then it'll be our home, away from home . . . under the sea!"

Garbed in her black rubber "SCUBA" suit (self-contained under-water breathing apparatus), Nancy Hayden goes into icy waters of Cadboro Bay near her home. Cost of the thick skin-tight suit is $65. Around her waist are heavy lead weights to keep her down in water. "Outfit is as warm as toast and truly comfortable," she insists.

Marilyn Quance Becomes Bride In Service Thursday Evening

Pastel - toned chrysanthemums decorated Fairfield United Church, Thursday evening, for the marriage that united Marilyn Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Quance, Beechwood Avenue, and Ronald Norman DeMers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. DeMers, Grant Street. Dr. H. J. Johnston conducted the service and Rodney Webster, organist, played traditional wedding music.

The petite, fair-haired bride was a radiant picture as she entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a bouffant gown of white embroidered nylon posed over whisper taffeta. Dress was ballerina length and featured a fitted bodice enhanced by sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. Elbow - length net gloves completed the picture. Her veil of illusion cascaded to finger-tip length from a circle of laurel leaves and seed pearls. For jewelry, she wore a heart-shaped pearl pendant with matching earrings, borrowed from her mother. White chrysanthemums and red roses were in the bridal bouquet.

Miss Julie Payne was the only attendant. She wore a gown of embroidered nylon in sky blue tone with headdress of velvet en tone, and carried a bouquet of beige chrysanthemums tied with bright pink ribbon.

Ronald Provan was best man and ushers were Monte Brinkman and Robert Harris.

Receiving guests at reception in Holyrood House, Mrs. Quance wore a rose-toned silk sheath-style dress and black accessories. Groom's mother wore a lime green gown and autumn-toned accessories. A three-tier wedding cake flanked by crystal candelabra and vases of pink roses centred bridal table. Dr. Johnston proposed the toast. Richard Venables orchestra played for dancing.

As her going-away outfit, the new Mrs. DeMers chose a black sheath-style suit trimmed with white fur, a cap of white feathers and black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Newlyweds plan to make their home in Victoria.

Dozens of Ideas to Dress Up Fish Dishes for Good Eating

TORONTO (CP) — Still using lemon to garnish fish? That's fine, but there are dozens of other attractive additions to a fish plate.

For instance, why not try gilding fish with grapefruit, orange or mandarin orange sections spread attractively on the surface, or in a lettuce cup on the side?

Spears of juicy fresh or canned pineapple are particularly suited to whitefleshed fish such as halibut. Wedges of unpeeled apple, dipped in lemon juice to prevent discoloration, are a colorful addition. Or you can use sauteed chunks or halves of bananas.

ANY FRUIT SERVES

Practically any fruit adapts well as a garnish. For instance clusters of small seedless green grapes are perfect and pretty when served with fillet of sole. Cranberry relish adds a touch of color to a fish dinner.

Softly textured fish is complemented with a crisp contrast. Green pepper cut in sticks, rings or diamonds, carrot sticks, ripe olives, celery, radishes, Spanish or Bermuda onions, beets and pickles are among the favorites.

Sprigs of mint, parsley or watercress add a lively note as does lettuce shredded with a little pimento or chopped chives.

A slice of listless lemon won't do a thing to brighten a dinner but a freshly-cut wedge, plain or dipped in finely-chopped parsley or dusted with paprika, will perk up the palate.

Keep in the mind that the garnish is just a trimming and shouldn't overpower the main dish.

HADDOCK TREAT

A recipe that's delicious at any time, but is a dandy for Sunday brunch, is Haddock a la Colbert. This is how it's prepared:

Two pounds finnan haddie or two pounds boneless smoked haddock fillets, 1½ cups milk, 1½ cups water, 1 cup heavy whipping cream, 2 tablespoons tomato paste and 4 hot, freshly poached eggs.

Gently poach smoked haddock in combined milk and water for 10-15 minutes. Meanwhile prepare sauce by blending tomato paste into cream. Boil gently, stirring until liquid is reduced by one-third. Pour sauce on top. Arrange poached eggs on top. Makes four servings.

Here's a hint to add color to fried fish. Add paprika generously to the flour used for coating and the fish fillets will have a beautiful color. Choose your favorite garnish and suddenly your plain dinner is a gourmet's delight.

Try this easy topping for plain cake. Mix brown sugar, a little soft butter, plenty of chopped almonds and a little cream to spreading consistency. Smooth over warm cake and broil until bubbly.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29th—I'm building my nest-egg by instalments. And you, too, can do it now by buying the new Canada Savings Bonds at the BANK OF MONTREAL with a down-payment of only 5%. That's $2.50 down for a $50 bond, and $5 down for a $100 bond. The remainder is spread over the year in eleven easy monthly instalments. And this year's Canada Savings Bonds are paying the best interest ever . . . 4.98% if held to maturity. Why not discuss your purchase of Canada Savings Bonds this week with your neighborhood B of M manager. They're safe, dependable and are backed by the strength and vast resources of this great country of ours.

AS CRISP AND ZESTY as these brisk October mornings—that's the way I feel about AYLMER Sweet Mixed Pickles — sunshine-fresh, with that Aylmer Flavour we enjoy so much. Brighten your meals, all winter long, with these favourites—Sweet Wafers, Small Gherkins, and Green Tomato Pickle. Here's a tip for Tartar Sauce —simply chop Aylmer Sweet Mixed Pickles into mayonnaise, and serve with a hot fish course. Nothing nicer! Aylmer Pickles are most economically priced. But it's their superb quality that makes them your best buy . . . true Aylmer Quality!

HAPPY DAY AHEAD LITTLE FELLOW! I love watching mothers waving their children off to school. Hope that they've all enjoyed RED RIVER CEREAL before taking on their busy, run-around day that lies ahead. Piping hot Red River is truly delicious, with its nutty, wholesome blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax. But don't think of Red River as a healthy breakfast for young Canadians only — older people, and sedentary workers find that it guards regularity. Everybody enjoys Red River these crisp mornings. Cooks to perfection in just a few minutes and costs so little. Start your family's day off right . . . with nutritious Red River Cereal!

HERE'S WONDERFUL NEWS for mothers who want to make sure their rampaging youngsters have all the vitamins they need for their busy-busy days. . . . Give them Wampole's VITA-POPS! They're wild-cherry flavored and candy good, furnishing active youngsters the essential vitamins they need for growth and good health. Vita-Pops contain carefully measured amounts of 8 precious vitamins, including A, C, D and B12. Give your child just one Vita-Pop a day to ensure him his vitamin requirement. I recommend a 5 weeks' supply of Vita-Pops at $2.50, or if you've more than one child—a 15 weeks' supply at only $5.95.

ON THE SHELF, BUT NOT FOR LONG! You'll find that you use your large jar of MIRACLE WHIP often! And the more you use it, the more you'll appreciate its truly unique taste—a light and lively flavor that enhances other flavors without overwhelming them. That's why Miracle Whip by Kraft suits modern tastes to perfection. Use it as a salad dressing for all your salads . . . and in sandwich fillings such as meat, canned salmon or cheese. Get the large, 32-ounce jar at your grocer's today. It's on his shelf—but not for long! Miracle Whip is so popular, you can be sure it's always fresh!

RESERVED! . . . THAT'S THE SPACE on my kitchen shelf that's always occupied by the famous bright white tins labelled AYLMER FANCY PEAS —ASSORTED SIZES. Aylmer Fancy Peas taste just the way peas should taste . . . sweet and tender. That's because they're grown on specially selected Canadian farms where sunshine, moisture and soil are ideal. Then, at exactly the right moment of growth, Aylmer rushes them, fresh-harvested, to its nearby canneries and seals and cooks them—often within an hour! Result: that sunshine-fresh Aylmer flavor. Try them!—I'm sure they'll find a place of honor on your kitchen shelf, too.

ASK THE AVERAGE, HEALTHY MAN how he likes his food, and he'll tell you he likes it with lots of good, hearty flavour. He's easy to please, bless him . . . for it's so easy to give him the flavour he likes—by adding 2 or more MAGGI Chicken Bouillon Cubes to your cooking. For instance, adding Maggi Chicken Bouillon Cubes to rice, vegetables, stews, sauces, gravies, and casseroles gives them a new and zestful flavour, that subtle gourmet touch. Ask your grocer for Maggi Chicken Bouillon Cubes in the yellow and red package and your man will think you're the best cook in town! Magic Maggi!

"I AM A MILKMAN . . . exposed to cold, dampness and chill. At other times I become over-heated. For more than three years, I suffered greatly from sharp pains of sciatica in my hip and thigh. Eventually I got around to taking TEMPLETON'S TRC's and found wonderful relief. You can understand the great joy I find in my freedom." That letter is but one of thousands from grateful men and women who have won relief from rheumatic, neuritic or arthritic pain through TRC's. They want others to know how effective TRC's are. TRC's are available at drug counters everywhere. Try them yourself —and tell your friends—TRC's may be your answer too!

DEAR ABBY . . .

Put the Shoe on the Other Foot!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are two girls with a problem. There is this girl at school who has a terrible reputation. And she won't leave us alone. Everywhere we go she is right behind us. She hangs around our locker and tries to eat lunch with us.

It is causing us to lose all our friends because people are beginning to think we are just like her.

We don't want to hurt her feelings because she hasn't any friends. Please help us. We are all 14.

DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE: Be kind to her. She needs it. Showing this unfortunate girl common courtesy when she latches onto you will not damage your reputations. It is not necessary to cultivate her friendship outside of school. But when she seeks you out, treat her as you would want to be treated if you were in her unhappy shoes.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What is the matter with our young people today? I never forget the young people in our family on birthdays, confirmations and all special occasions. I don't expect them to reciprocate because many of them cannot afford to but is it too much to expect a "thank you" note?

After a lapse of much time, I usually wind up writing to find out if they ever received my gift. Then I get a letter from their parents asking me to please forgive the young folks because they are "so busy." Would you please give me your opinion of this?

DISGUSTED RELATIVE.

DEAR DISGUSTED: No duty is more urgent than that of returning thanks. Anyone who is old enough to print his name can sign a "thank you" note. If parents took the time and effort to teach their children this courtesy when they were very young, they would not have to apologize for them later.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting my first baby within the next few weeks. This is my problem:

I want to name my baby (if it's a boy) "BURTON JUNIOR" after my husband. But my husband has been married before and he already has a son named "BURTON JUNIOR" after him.

Would it be all right to have another "BURTON JUNIOR"? I suppose this would cause a lot of confusion because the first BURTON JUNIOR lives in the same block with us, but you have no idea how much I want to name this baby after my husband.

EXPECTING.

DEAR EXPECTING: Name the baby something else. Your block is already "over Burton'd." Why complicate matters?

CONFIDENTIAL TO SCOTTY: Let her go. She'll make a better memory than she would have made a wife.

Busy Woman Uses Spare Minutes For Her Study; Earns Degrees

TORONTO (CP) — Learning the value of 10 minutes is learning the secret of success according to Dr. Winnifred Bryce who earned her MA and PhD degrees by studying in spare moments.

The spare moments were crammed into a busy life in India where Dr. Bryce spent 40 years with her missionary husband, the late Dr. George P. Bryce of the United Church of Canada.

Her systematic studying was done while she was raising her six children. Exams were written in Toronto while she and her husband were here on furlough.

Now, after six years of life back in Toronto, she is returning to India. Dr. Bryce has been asked to reorganize the department of sociology at Indore Christian College where she was once principal.

PRACTICALLY AN ASIAN

"After living there for so many years, I'm practically an Asian now," she said. "I'm never quite one thing or another." Mrs. Bryce was born in Tokyo the daughter of Rev. J. Cooper Robinson, a missionary of the Anglican Church of Canada in Japan.

She tried to raise her own children to both the Asian and Western cultures so that they might live in the continent they chose. All six chose Canada to finish their schooling.

At one period, she was considered the Dr. Spock of India with her book, "Child in the Midst." Her children used to say all their mother had to do was look at them and she'd write another book.

She says women in India are more active in public life than Canadian women.

"Women have a strong sense of social justice and they've been good for India."

Her admiration also extends to the youth of India who "have to carry the burden."

"They must bridge an old way of life and the new," she says. "They have lots of courage."

Nutritionists still advise us that food rich in vitamin A aids eye health. These include spinach, kale, broccoli and lettuce, beef and calf's liver, apricots, peaches and carrots. These should be a regular part of a daily diet.

LOUISE DAVIS

ON ETIQUETTE

Louise

Bride's Mother Out of Line:

The mother of my son's fiancee informed me that my husband is to pay for the flowers for the church decorations, the bouquets for the bride and her attendants and that we are to share the reception expenses. This doesn't seem right, as we would have to borrow the money and, furthermore, we are stretching every penny to put our other son through college. Is this business of sharing expenses and being told what to get and how much to pay an established custom today?

Louise Davis Answers:

This is definitely not an established custom. Such a thing is crude, thoughtless and ill-mannered. No one has the right to expect or ask somebody else to pay out money for a wedding or for anything else. What you spend, you do of your own free will. No outsider has the privilege of forcing or obligating you to lessen your bank account or alter your budget. If you know of other families from whom money has been "extracted" to defray expenses of a wedding, that doesn't make it right. They have been victimized. If you should make the offer to help defray the cost, that's something else, for the offer would be voluntary on your part. Even then, it wouldn't be correct, for the bride's parents always bear the expenses. If they don't have the wherewithal for a big bang-up production, the only solution is a small wedding with no financial assignments to the bridegroom's parents or to anyone. They must remember that the groom's parents are classified as guests. Your son does have a few small obligations, such as paying the clergyman's fee, getting a corsage for his bride, and providing the boutonnieres and ties for himself, best man and ushers.

Did you know that 50 years ago a daily bath indicated your social position? It seems a magazine columnist believed a "thoroughbred girl" took the daily dunking while a "middle class girl" didn't.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Marshall Raychard, aged 11, Gorham, Maine, for his question:

How Do They Take Poison From Snakes?

An expert can milk the poison from a snake in three minutes or less, but he must be skilled and well trained and even then his job is dangerous. Records show that one out of 15 poisonous bites happen to people who are expert at handling snakes.

The poisonous venom is made in two glands buried in beds of gristle deep inside the snake's head, one behind each eye. The fangs are long, curved and hollow, like hypodermic needles set quite close together in the front of the upper jaw. When not in use, they are folded backwards and covered with sheaths. This is why a rattlesnake normally looks as though he were toothless. The deadly fangs are unsheathed and lowered into position in a flash—only when he strikes.

In order to milk, the venom, the expert must first know how to hold the wriggly snakes. Some snakes wriggle this way, some that way. He must know how to hold the writhing body so that the snake cannot get into a position to strike and he must do all this without hurting the snake. When all is ready, the expert has a firm but gentle grip on the snake's head. He manoeuvres the jaws apart with the fangs down over the rim of a container.

Here again the expert must be careful not to hurt the snake, for if the critter gets his mouth damaged he will die before milking time comes around again. Sometimes a cloth is stretched and tied over the top of the container and the fangs pushed through it. This tends to avoid spilling should the container tip over during the snaky struggle.

Drains Venom Sacs Dry

When the fangs are extend, the poison from the glands runs down the hollow centres and out of the tip. Once in a while, a snake will give up all his poison in a single spurt. As a rule, he lets it out a drop at a time. There is usually a little venom left in the glands after the snake thinks he has given his last drop. The expert then presses gently on the snake's head just where he knows the poison making glands to be, and a few more drops trickle into the container.

A large rattlesnake will yield about a half teaspoonful of venom and the best milking snake in the world cannot yield much more than one teaspoonful at a time. In 20 days or so, a snake will build up enough venom for another milking job.

The venom is a thick liquid, clear or yellowish in color. It is strained, purified and dried into crystal form. Then follows a series of injections and tests involving horses, rabbits and perhaps guinea pigs. Finally, the deadly snake venom becomes a precious medicine used, of all things, to treat snake bites.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

CESARE ROMERO
. . . replacing Flynn

NEW YORK—I predict that Jackie Gleason of 1959 and the early 1960s will be to the Broadway stage what the somewhat erratic John Barrymore was to the same area about 20 years ago.

Sometimes he will have a cold, sometimes he will even have pneumonia, but there will be eager and loyal crowds who won't even mind his speaking his lines through his sniffles, and his 86-proof breath.

Jackie's "Take Me Along" show which opened to rather "mixed notices" will probably run a couple of years just because Jackie's so popular. He is certainly authentic — particularly in the drinking scenes — and I felt the show's troubles were those of pace. Toots Shor, Gleason's pal, told him, however:

"There was one thing you did wrong in the drunk scene. You didn't stagger."

"I never stagger—you stagger!" boomed Gleason.

"And your timing was off once," mentioned Toots.

"The Long Island RR should have such timing as I have!" snorted Gleason.

★ ★ ★

Sitting around with Gleason's beautiful girl friend, Honey Merrill, later, I learned that Jackie now weighs about 248, which is light for him—and that he was nervous about the opening despite the fact he's frequently performed before 40,000,000 people on TV.

"The trouble here is that there are nine guys, expert archers, sitting there ready to shoot at you," said Gleason, referring of course to the drama critics.

★ ★ ★

Liz Taylor'll be with us here in N.Y. for several months. She'll shoot "Butterfield 8" over on 10th Ave. at 54th St. and also down in midtown while Eddie Fisher'll be preparing for his big Nov. 16 Waldorf opening . . . Denise Darcel was at the Nat (King) Cole opening at the Copa with Saul Brown, whose son Dick Brown recently married Eva Gabor. So naturally, some people were asking: "Is Denise going to become Eva's mother-in-law?"

★ ★ ★

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . . Martha Raye and her estranged husband, Bob Shay, swapped summonses . . . Tina Onassis, dining at a B'way spot with a handsome young actor, got a call from her husband . . . Cesar Romero'll replace Errol Flynn on the Nov. 5 "Big Party" TV'er . . . United Artists screened "On the Beach" for execs of Bankers Trust Co.—which financed the picture. (They came out happy) . . . Latest Nielsen ratings show Gunsmoke, Wagon Train, Ed Sullivan ahead.

Jack Paar's trying to get permission to re-run his wild TV session with Debbie Reynolds . . . Boxer Archie Moore'll sing two songs in the "Huckelberry Finn" movie . . . Red Buttons is being set for the Willie Sutton film bio . . . Franchot Tone was hand-holding and cuddling at "Our Town" with—his ex-wife, Dolores Dorn-Heft . . . Dean Martin's long-time aide, Mack (Killer) Gray, got a role in Dean's movie, "Bells Are Ringing."

Tobacco heir Josh Reynolds, who spent six weeks growing a beard, tired of it in the middle of dinner at a local restaurant and retired to the gents' room to shave it off . . . Aly Khan bought a big bottle of perfume for his date, had an argument with her, and returned it for 24 one-ounce bottles.

EARL'S PEARLS: The average youngster today gets a bigger allowance from his father than he'll get from his wife later on.—Al Cooper.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Heaven doesn't appeal very much to the man whose daughter is practicing the harp.

Some people think there's nothing really wrong with getting quiz answers before-hand. Lots of football players got through college that way. That's earl, brother.

Have you ever wanted to lie about aces when your partner bid a Blackwood four no-trump? If you play Blackwood the answer is surely "Yes!"

Opening lead—♥ Q

There is a Jacoby convention to cover this sad situation. You can lie about two aces and your partner has no trouble reading exactly what you have.

Now look at the North hand. You open one spade with your sub-minimum and your partner bids two clubs. You don't like to raise, but you have no other bid and now your partner calls a Blackwood four no-trump.

If you show two aces he may go to an impossible grand slam. On the other hand the aces might be all he needs. If you are playing my convention you can bid five clubs and give him the full story.

With a five-heart response to his Blackwood bid, South might have gone to the grand slam. As it was, he wisely contented himself with a six no-trump bid.

Even that wasn't a lay down, but with the king and queen of spades both showing up in the East hand he wrapped it up and took it home.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-in. widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which, together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

Sir Laurence Olivier Stars in "Moon and Sixpence" At 8 On 5

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

TV TEE-HEES

IN CONCEPT—GOOD—In spite of a number of small things worrying me almost to distraction I was reasonably happy with the first chapter of "RCMP," which bowed in on Channels 6 and 2 Wednesday night at 8. That is to say, I respected the concept that depicted the famed Canadian Mountie in a modern day setting rather than as the storied Scarlet Rider of the plains.

In the first opus, called "Crash on 21," Corporal Jacques Gagnier, of the three-man detachment at the mythical town of Shamattawa (pop. 4,000), is faced with a nasty problem. There has been a crash. A gasoline truck has rolled over. The dangerous fluid has made a veritable lake of the road. The driver is alive but badly crushed beneath his vehicle. How to get him out, is Corporal Gagner's problem. One spark would spell disaster for all in the vicinity.

Up to here it is genuine theatre. Gagnier's solution also makes exciting fiction. But, unfortunately, the play suffers from the asides of the crowd: two women rebellious because they can't get through to their meeting; an unnecessary bit of needling of Gagnier by the ambulance driver and, above all, some schmaltzy lines given to the injured truck driver about how his wife had left him and so on. Better by far that the script had remained with Gagnier and his problem.

In addition to these unnecessary facets of playwriting, Gagnier appeared too hesitant at times in assuming command. For instance it seemed only reasonable that the first thing he would do would be to remove the crowd from the scene as quickly as possible in fear that someone, not realizing the danger from the spilled gas, would start to smoke. Certainly he wouldn't have allowed a mother and her screaming child to remain so close to danger.

As witnessed in the first chapter Gilles Pelletier, as Gagnier, seemed well cast but will doubtless show to better advantage as he becomes more used to his role in later segments. John Perkins, a native of Boston who dwells in New York, plays Constable Frank Scott, while Vancouver's Don Francks appears as Constable Mitchell.

The series is a production of Crawley Films Ltd., Ottawa, with F. R. (Budge) Crawley being RCMP's executive producer. Already the series of 39 plays has been sold to Australia.

WHO'S ON FIRST?—Unforeseen's "The Return" that kicked off the new season for this CBC series can only be described as literary chicanery, deliberate misrepresentation, in short, dirty pool. For 27 minutes Vincent McConnor's play led the viewer deliberately along one path then spent the remaining three misdirecting him at the crossroads and wound up by showing him how hare-brained he was for accepting the directions.

Writing tricks, maybe—but not the type guaranteed to win viewers.

THE HOUSE THAT EXCEEDS NHA REGULATION

The 1960 Vickery home is the finest Vickery home ever built. The Vickery home was always better than the minimum NHA home you generally see but the NEW 1960 edition puts ALL Vickery homes into the de luxe class.

For your own sake before you enter a contract to build a home find out how much Vickery gives you—We know you will be amazed. You will be shown parts of the Vickery construction that you did not know existed in new home construction.

Vickery — "Builds a Better Home for Less."

Why pay more and get a home inferior to the 1960 Vickery home? You won't be wasting your time—You may save yourself hundreds of dollars.

SOUTH AFRICA BANS TV AS 'IMMORAL'

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Dr. Albert Hertzog, minister of posts and telegraphs, says South Africans will not get television because of "the many moral harms and dangers connected with it."

Interviewed by the Johannesburg Afrikaans newspaper Die Vaderland, Hertzog said: "We must not forget television is nothing but a miniature movie brought into the home and over which parents have no control. The result is the programs can be very damaging . . .

"The effect of wrong shows on children, less developed people, and other races (other than white) can be destructive."

SURVIVOR OF DEATH MARCH

Salvation Army's Hero to Speak Here

Commissioner Herbert Lord, CBE, one of the Salvation Army's best-known heroes, will address a joint meeting of the Douglas and Victoria Rotary Clubs and Victoria Chamber of Commerce at Holyrood House Monday at 6 p.m.

Accompanied by Mrs. Lord, he is now touring Canada as the Salvation Army's international travelling commissioner.

When North Korea attacked South Korea in 1950, Commissioner Lord remained in Seoul organizing relief and other humanitarian work. He was taken prisoner and interned in North Korea for 34 months and then released via Moscow in 1953.

He and some 60 other civilians, with 700 American GIs then made the forced 100-mile "death march" from Man-Po. It is of this march and its terrible trials and ordeals that he will speak, next Monday.

During the First World War, Commissioner Lord served as Salvation Army welfare officer with British forces in Siberia and for this service received the General Service Medal.

In 1941 he was made an officer of the Order of the British Empire for his social service activities in Malaya, and the following year King George VI personally decorated him Commander of the British Empire.

Commissioner Lord will be accompanied on his Victoria visit by Brigadier Carl Hiltz and Major Pindred of Vancouver.

On Monday evening at 8 he will address a public meeting in the First Baptist Church, Quadra at Mason.

PROTOCOL 'ALL SHOOK UP'

RCMP Building 'Leak' Scored

A. de B. McPhillips, Victoria MP, growled like a wounded bear today after Mayor Percy Scurrah's disclosure that a new $1,000,000 RCMP provincial headquarters would be built in Victoria.

He bitterly attacked the mayor for a "premature" disclosure which he claimed short-circuited normal channels for announcing federal projects.

But Mr. McPhillips denied that he was miffed because he was not the one to "break" the news.

"No, that definitely is not my main concern," he said.

He said the announcement should have come from the federal justice minister.

"After all, there is a right way of doing things in this country and a wrong way. This was a wrong way."

WORKED FOR MONTHS

Mr. McPhillips said he and Defence Minister George Pearkes worked "for many months to secure this (building) for Victoria, when it might very well have gone Up-Island.

"Mayor Percy Scurrah had nothing whatever to do with it, apart from peddling a breach of confidence made by some civil servant."

Mayor Scurrah's reply was swift and short:

"I didn't claim any credit. I had nothing to do with it but I knew this was going on for a long time and I heard it from a very authoritative source while in Ottawa.

"It wasn't told to me in confidence. It was just told in conversation and in the presence of the rest of my committee."

NO BACK HISTORY

Asked how he knew it was a civil servant, and not a cabinet minister, who revealed the plan, Mr. McPhillips replied: "I know what goes on in Ottawa.

"Why don't you ask the mayor? He should divulge his source. It wasn't told to him in confidence so why doesn't he say who it was."

Mr. McPhillips declined to outline what his efforts on Victoria's behalf had been in connection with the building plans.

"I'm not telling you what I did. There is a long history to this thing."

Asked what the history was, he shot back:

"I'm not going to give you the history. It (the plan) hasn't received final approval yet."

Ingrid Supported Roberto During Other Romance

ROME (AP)—Ingrid Bergman has told an Italian court that the daughter born to Sonali das Gupta almost two years ago was Roberto Rossellini's.

The Swedish film actress also said she helped support the Italian film director when he was in India and became acquainted with Mrs. das Gupta, an Indian film script writer.

Rossellini went to India in late 1956, at a time when all appeared well in his and Miss Bergman's marriage. Soon after, there were reports linking him to Mrs. das Gupta. Rossellini returned to Europe in late 1957, followed by Mrs. das Gupta, and he and Miss Bergman separated.

Since then, Miss Bergman and Rossellini have been fighting for the custody of their three children. Lawyers for the actress presented a memorandum referring to Mrs. das Gupta's child in a Rome court Wednesday.

Boy Cyclist Injured; Three Other Mishaps

Cyclist Terry Robinson, 14, of 1060 Tulip suffered cuts about the head Thursday at 5.30 p.m. when he was in collision with a car on the Trans-Canada Highway and thrown into its windshield.

Taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by police he was reported in good condition by the hospital this morning. Driver of the car was Philias E. Valcourt, 2213 Millstream, Langford, police said.

Police said the accident occurred at the Gorge Road intersection where the boy was attempting to turn left off the highway.

In other Saanich accidents at about the same time Thursday a car owned by Donald McCulloch, 2827 Adelaide, was towed out of two feet of water in the Gorge after it had slipped its brakes in the 922 Gorge driveway and rolled across the road.

An estimated $50 damage was caused to a car driven by Gary Quick, 4503 Wilkinson Road, when it struck a power-pole at Wilkinson and West Saanich Roads.

A bump on the head was received by passenger Jack Wallace, 12, 4301 Quadra, but he declined medical treatment.

Scorpions, Starvation In Wake of Hurricane

COLIMA, Mexico (AP) — With 1,000 or more feared dead from a hurricane and widespread floods, the dazed people of this western Mexican state struggled today against privation and swarms of poisonous scorpions.

The disaster Mexico's worst in recent history covered an area on the Pacific coast with a population of about 100,000.

The violent storm that roared through the port of Manzanillo Tuesday and the floods that followed drove thousands from their homes, knocked over communication lines and overran highways, hindering rescue efforts.

VILLAGE WIPED OUT

State Governor Rodolfo Chavez Carrillo estimated that about 800 persons were killed in Minatitlan, a nearby farming village of about 1,000.

The federal government officially put the known dead at 438 but conceded that many hundreds were missing.

The navy announced that 21 of 38 persons who had been aboard the 1,800-ton coastal freighter Sinaloa were missing.

Emergency appeals for food, clothing and medicine continued throughout most of the disaster area despite round-the-clock supply drops by all available planes and helicopters.

There were urgent calls for vaccine against the deadly sting of scorpions driven from their nests in flood crumbled adobe walls.

THOUSANDS STUNG

"Thousands of persons have been stung and need inoculations," Carillo reported. "Scorpions are everywhere."

He reported that 100 bodies already had been buried in Minatitlan, another 100 were still to be buried and officials feared that possibly 600 more would be found in the rubble.

"We also have plenty waiting for us in the town of Zacualpa, north of Colima," he said. "We flew over it . . . We saw only the tower of the church and a piece of the school. The place has about 1,000 population which hopefully may have found refuge on a hill and survived."

STAND BY DEAD

In Manzanillo, the governor reported; "the people are standing by their dead in the garden of the municipal palace and in the streets. There's a continuing file toward the cemetery.

"Everywhere they are sending messages for food. Already we've dropped relief supplies from planes, but much is still needed."

Pleading for owners of private planes to join in relief operations, Carrillo said: "There are thousands of people still alive in isolated places. They need food, clothes and medicine right away."

In a similar disaster in Tampico five years ago, the United States Navy moved in the aircraft carrier Saipan to help with evacuations. But this time, although the loss of life apparently was greater, the Mexicans were still trying to cope with the disaster alone.

Sitter Saved But 7 Tots Die in Fire

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP) — Seven young children, crowded into a small two-room house with a baby-sitter, died early today when fire destroyed the slum area dwelling.

The sitter, Sharon Ann Dooley, 14, owes her life to a fireman who was familiar with the house, having helped remodel it several years ago.

Six of the victims were children of Mrs. Patricia van Horne, about 28, who police said was "out on the town" with Mrs. Lorraine Campbell, whose only child, Carla, four, also was killed.

FOUND IN KITCHEN

The bodies of the children were huddled in the kitchen. They apparently suffocated. The baby-sitter suffered burns over two-thirds of her body and was in critical condition.

Fireman Bob Knox, who as a part-time carpenter had worked on the house, donned a smoke mask and got into the dwelling through a window.

"I could feel the baby-sitter breathe," he said. "I picked her up and dragged her out through the front door."

Fire Committee On Salt Spring Calls It Quits

GANGES Formation of a fire protection district did not move quickly enough to forestall the resignation of the Volunteer Fire Department committee, thus leaving Salt Spring Island with virtually no fire protection.

Resignations were given to Chamber of Commerce president J. H. McGill by Jake Barker, committee president; Victor Jackson, secretary-treasurer; Donald Goodman, fire chief, and A. R. Layard, J. B. Acland and Peter Cartwright.

Present equipment included a truck that will not run with a tank and pump that will not operate. Mechanical condition of the truck, and the complete lack of funds for repairs, were blamed for the resignations.

IN ORDER

Meanwhile, the chamber has been assured by the government its recent petition for establishment of a fire protection district is in order, and has appointed C. N. Peterson to call a meeting for the election of five trustees.

Formation of the district, to include all of Salt Spring Island with the exception of Beaver Point, Isabella Point, and inaccessible areas, will make $24,000 available for purchase of a new truck and construction of a fire hall.

Game Offenders Lose Guns, $110, Maybe Licences

Two Duncan men were fined a total of $95 and $15.50 costs Wednesday in Colwood RCMP court and will lose their hunting licences because of offences under the Game Act.

Ernest Nigel Pickard and Leonard Robert Wilson each were found guilty of hunting after dark and were fined $25 and $5.50 costs, and $10 and $3.50 costs, respectively.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas ordered Wilson's hunting licence confiscated, and police said the game department likely would lift Pickard's licence, too.

Pickard was found guilty of failing to stop his car at the order of a game warden, was fined $50 and $3.50 costs and his rifle was confiscated.

He also was fined $10 and $3 costs for failing to tag a deer he had shot, to which he pleaded guilty.

Snow, Wind Storms Lash Italy, 3 Dead

Use This Home Recipe Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky unsightly fat right in your own home. Use this recipe plan yourself. It's easy —no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full twice a day and follow the Naran plan.

If your first purchase does not show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. # UNICEF TRICK-TREATERS REBUFFED IN SEATTLE

SEATTLE (AP)—*Doors are being slammed in the faces of children seeking "trick-or-treat" donations for the United Nations International Children's Education Fund (UNICEF), a church leader said here Thursday.

Rev. Lemuel Peterson, executive secretary of the Greater Seattle Council of Churches, said this is because of "unscrupulous" charges made Wednesday in Tacoma, Wash., by the American Council of Churches.

The American Council's executive committee adopted a resolution criticizing UNICEF collections by youngsters and asking that such funds be diverted into American public and social organizations.

GRID VIOLENCE CRACKDOWN

Leave Your Weapons At the Box-Office

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Principal Robert C. Johnson says his teachers have instructions to collect knives, guns and other weapons before a football game.

Johnson, principal at the Parker High School, testified at a hearing in which a teacher and student each was fined $100 and costs and the student was given a 180-day jail sentence.

The hearing Thursday night followed Monday night's football game between Parker and Western Negro high schools here.

Two boys were shot and slightly wounded, a 70-piece band was routed from the bleachers by knife-wielding fans, and police collected a bushel of knives, razors and other weapons. The game ended in a 7-7 tie.

The trouble started when some 1,500 fans noticed that one team had 12 players on the field instead of 11.

The teacher, 27-year-old Westbrook Walker, was fined for carrying a pistol. He told Judge Bill Conway that he had taken the weapon from a teen-ager who was brandishing it in the crowd.

ROADBLOCKS FOR HOODLUMS

VERNON (CP)—RCMP plan to check all cars coming in from outside points Saturday night to head off recurrence of an invasion two years ago by hoodlums who stormed the city on Halloween and caused several hundred dollars damage.

CRACKDOWN ON FIRECRACKERS

Deadly 'Pipe Guns' Seized

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police in nearby Burnaby Thursday night seized a dozen "pipe guns" in which firecrackers can be used to hurl a missile more than 200 yards.

The weapons were confiscated by officers after police and city hall officials were swamped with complaints concerning use of the Halloween noisemakers.

Police said the guns are home-made of heavy pipe and when loaded with rocks or marbles could kill a child or adult at close range.

Several B.C. boys have already been injured by firecrackers.

The seriousness of eye injuries suffered by David Beer, 12, of Whalley, have not been determined. Richard Avis, 12, of Parksville, was burned on the face when a firecracker he was lighting exploded.

George Higgs, 118 Dallas, told city police Wednesday night someone walked into his house and stole a .30-30 rifle valued at $95 from its pegs hanging over the fireplace, sometime between 5 and 8 p.m. About 16 cartridges also are missing, he said.

Mayor Tom Alsbury said he was concerned over the situation but would not support a complete ban on their sale until he studied the problem.

Police Chief George Archer has appealed to youths not to set off firecrackers at a semi-final Western Interprovincial Football Union game here Saturday between Edmonton Eskimos and British Columbia Lions.

He said police dogs will be at Empire Stadium to control any disturbance among a crowd expected to number at least 35,000.

Ottawa Halts Home Loans; Mortgage Money Runs Out

Frozen Until January

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government today called a halt to the flow of government money into mortgage loans. Works Minister Walker announced that federal funds earmarked for these direct loans ran out two months earlier than expected.

A statement by Mr. Walker said that all eligible applications for government loans now on hand in field offices of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will be approved.

"New applications, however, whether from builders, home owners, or limited dividend companies, cannot be accepted after the close of business today.

He said that CMHC had "fully invested" the $250,000,000 voted by Parliament last spring for direct housing loans. Direct housing loans by the federal government thus have totalled $900,000,000 since September, 1957.

DEMAND FULLY MET

He said the present housing situation "indicates that demand for housing will be fully met this year." The government expected 140,000 housing units would be started this year and 140,000 completed.

Mr. Walker indicated that further federal funds for housing loans cannot be expected until Parliament meets again, expected in January.

He said that "very early in the next session" Parliament will be asked to vote new funds to ensure continuation of CMHC housing loans in 1960.

Today's announcement indicated there has been a larger-than expected rush by builders to take up federal loans for small home construction, apparently because of a sharp decline in the amount of National Housing Act lending by banks and life insurance and trust companies.

12,500 FINANCED

Last July 22 the government announced it would make available loans — up to 15 to each builder — for small home construction. It said then that applications would be accepted up until Dec. 31, and forecast the program would cover about 10,000 housing units.

Mr. Walker's statement said: "In fact, 12,500 units have been financed—25 per cent beyond our expectations and two months earlier than anticipated."

He added that since July 27 direct federal loans had been made through CMHC to individual home-buyers for nearly 6,000 homes and to limited dividend companies for another 1,800 units for low-income families and the aged.

CONVENTION PICKETED FOR EDITOR'S RELEASE

VANCOUVER—Women pickets paraded outside Social Credit convention headquarters today demanding the release of the publisher of a union newspaper jailed for contempt of court.

Members of the women's auxiliary to the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) greeted convention delegates when they arrived at the Pacific National Exhibition building.

George North, publisher of the union's weekly The Fishermen, now is serving a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of court. He lost an appeal against conviction and sentence last week.

He was sentenced to jail and his paper fined $3,000 for an editorial that appeared during the strike of ironworkers against the Second Narrows Bridge entitled "Injunctions Won't Catch Fish, Nor Build Bridges."

PREMIER IN PROMISING MOOD

Cheers, Jeers For Bennett At Noisy Rally

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

VANCOUVER — A noisy audience of 2,900 applauded and cheered, booed and heckled Premier Bennett at the Orpheum Theatre here Thursday night, interrupting him constantly as he waded through a labored, rambling speech.

Both supporters and detractors went home confident their side had won the day, with the following promises ringing in their ears:

1. The government will increase its outlay for arterial highway maintenance in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster from a gross of $40,000 to "many hundreds of thousands of dollars every year."
2. The government's chronic hospital care program will start April 1.
3. Announcement on a civil service wage boost will come the next session of the legislature.
4. There will be a 50 per cent boost in the $60,000 bursary fund to assist needy university students.
5. Additional funds will be granted St. Paul's and Vancouver General Hospitals.
6. There is "no election in sight."

But compared to last year's pre-convention rally, Friday's event was alive with election fever.

The audience was twice as large and last year there was no heckling. Many people had apparently turned out not to honor Caesar but to bury him. One group of university students, several of whom were at the Harrison Hot Springs Progressive Conservative meet last weekend, stopped the meeting entirely while they sang their criticms of Social Credit.

They pierced the premier's armor at one point, drawing the admonition: "Don't show the university up in that light. The university stands for something better than that."

'I Haven't Seen It, Have You?'

Next most vocal group called repeatedly for publication of the Carrother's report on civil service bargaining rights—a shout the premier ignored except but once when he replied. "I haven't seen it, have you?"

The theatre doors opened an hour before the political events began. Dal Richards and his orchestra and folk singer Ernie Prentice (of "Lolly Too-Dum" fame) entertaining. British Columbia Social Credit League president Noel Murphy was chairman.

Health Minister Eric Martin, the first speaker, said "It's Ottawa's fault we can't get nurses because immigration restrictions are slowing arrivals from other countries.

"Pay them more," said a heckler.

This was a silly remark, the minister said, because the government doesn't set the wages.

"It is not my business to say whether employees are earning enough. . . . There has been no hold-the-line order. All I do is ask the hospital boards to keep costs at a reasonable level."

He said his department would grant funds for a new laundry and laboratory at Vancouver's St. Paul's Hospital, and for maintenance work at Vancouver General.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson outlined the government student aid program. He said the present $60,000 bursary fund for aid to students who can show need will be increased this year to $90,000.

"It was difficult for many students to get work this summer and there were more

Ottawa Call Goes Out For Socreds

'Biggest National Political Parley'

By PETE LOUDON
Times Political Reporter

VANCOUVER — B.C. Social Crediters today were called upon to prepare themselves for the greatest national political convention in Canadian history held at Ottawa next July.

Premier Bennett called on local groups to double their membership and not to listen to election talk.

There is no election in sight, and no immediate rush to name candidates, he said.

He repeated he did not know whether the election in B.C. would be in 1960 or 1961, "but the longer we go the stronger we become, because every day we are in power the greater our accomplishments."

The national leadership convention appeal was made by Peer V. Paynter, acting president of the national Social Credit League.

He and the premier were main speakers at the opening session of the B.C. Social Credit convention here this morning.

Mr. Paynter said the party nationally is in the same position that the B.C. provincial party was in 1950, and history has a habit of repeating itself.

ENVY OF CANADA

Since then "we have proven *Social Credit can build prov*inces to a point where they are the envy of the rest of Canada. Next year we want the biggest national convention ever put on in Canada. We are preparing for it."

He said five delegates are required from every federal constituency, seven from each provincial board, 10 from each provincial women's auxiliary, 10 to represent young people's Socred groups, two from each university group and seven from the national executive.

NEVER AGAIN

Premier Bennett made it clear he would not seek national leadership.

"I will never go federal again," he said, referring to a lost candidacy earlier in his career.

Mr. Paynter made no suggestion that the party was seeking the B.C. premier as a national leader.

"Who are we going to have to lead us to vicory?" he asked. He said the same questions were asked in 1950 and "we went ahead and organized and our premier came forward."

"He has proven his greatness since that time. If you people prove your sincerity, a new national leader would also ap*pear if required.*"

B.C. Social Credit League president Noel Murphy replied to the speaker: "When you call we will be there and we will be ready."

PRESS LAUDED

The premier received a standing ovation. He drew attention to what he called great co-operation from the press of B.C., stating "if it wasn't for the press we'd never be government. They put Social Credit on their toes and made the government work better."

'Labor Afraid of Me' Wicks Tells Socreds

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor Minister Wicks said Thursday leaders of the 120,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) were afraid to let him address the federation's recent convention here.

He also criticized—in a speech to the B.C. Social Credit League's women's auxiliary — managements' "frivolous" abuse of its authority in the matter of injunctions.

Mr. Wicks said the federation had a "golden opportunity" to invite him to tell of the provisions of the controversial Trades Union Act and how they are "good for B.C. and good for the working man and woman."

But a small group of professional labor leader-politicians were afraid to let the delegates hear anything about the act except what they wanted them to hear.

He said it was the first time the federation has not invited the minister of labor to its convention.

Oshawa Layoff Will Hit 6,000

OSHAWA—The General Motors of Canada plant located here will lay off 6,000 workers by next Wednesday because of the lack of steel.

A GMC spokesman said Thursday 200 men already have been laid off because of the steel strike in the U.S.

Russia Won't Back UN Police in Laos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Soviet Union said today it will neither support nor tacitly agree to the establishment of a permanent United Nations mission in the troubled Southeast Asia kingdom of Laos.

The Soviet delegation declared in a statement that rumors were being spread that Russia would not object to such a mission.

The Russian statement came amidst speculation regarding the awaited report of a U.N. subcommittee which spent a month studying conditions in Laos.

Some sources said developments could be expected momentarily, while others felt it may be a week or so before word comes out on just what the mission found in the Southeast Asia country which charges it is the victim of aggression from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam.

It was not known just what form the report would take, but there were unofficial so-called leaks that the subcommittee did not discover aggression in the form of troops, although there was evidence of weapons from Communist countries.

OTTAWA GIVES PAY BOOST TO NURSES

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases for all nurses in the federal civil service, averaging $329 a year, were announced today—the first pay boost for government employees since Finance Minister Fleming an*nounced rejection of a general* pay raise two weeks ago.

The raises, effective from the start of this month, will go to 2,478 nurses in the veterans affairs and health departments.

An announcement by Mr. Fleming said the increase is "in recognition of a special situation".

He noted that his October 13 statement ruling out a general pay increase would not prevent consideration "to the special position of certain categories of civil servants as the government's financial circumstances permit".

Rocket To Venus Next Year

(See also page 10)

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A space engineer said today the national space agency will launch a rocket 28 million miles to Venus by the end of 1960.

Allan B. Churgin, research engineer for the National *Aeronautics and Space Admin*istration (NASA) said rockets are available now to carry such a space probe.

"Space exploration this year and early next year will see the launching of several dozen different satellites and probes to as far away as the vicinity of Venus," Churgin said.

5 YEARS AWAY

Churgin, addressing a section of the Virginia Education Association meeting here, also said the "Scout" four-stage rocket, capable of placing a 150-pound satellite into an orbit 300 miles from earth, would be operational "sometime in the very near future."

Churgin, stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va., said a manned space station was "at least five or 10 years in the future."

He predicted that the first manned space ship would be carried by the "Luna" rocket, still under development, which would stand one fourth as high as the Empire State Buiding.

Castro Aide Plane Crash Victim?

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — The wreckage of a plane which might be that of missing Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, commander of Cuba's revolutionary army, was reported down on the north coast of Cama*guey province today.*

An amateur radio operator at Placetas in Las Villas province said he had received word that distress signals were received indicating the wreckage was at Playa Mamon on the north coast of Camaguey.

Army planes took off im*mediately to search the region.*

The 28-year-old comrade-in-arms of Fidel Castro vanished Wednesday while flying with two others from Camaguey to Havana, a distance of 300 miles. There was no immediate explanation for the delay in announcing he was missing.

WAS IT SABOTAGE?

Air force officials refused to comment on the possibility that Cienfuegos' plane had been sabotaged while it was parked at Camaguey airfield during his stay in the provincial capital.

The army chief went to Camaguey Tuesday. His mission was believed linked with the arrest last week of the provincial army commander, Maj. Hubert Matos, and 38 of his officers, after Matos said Communist influence was taking over Castro's regime.

There have been reports of restlessness among the men who served under the popular Matos and among students and others in the province. Some have openly protested his arrest.

Cienfuegos, a one-time bus boy in New York restaurants, is one of the more colorful members of the Castro hierarchy. His trademark is a Texas-style cowboy hat which he wears all the time. He toured New York with Castro last February.

OTTAWA (CP) — Erick Willis, 63, Manitoba's deputy premier and public works minister, today was appointed lieutenant-governor of his province effective Jan. 15.

The appointment, announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker following a cabinet meeting, was not unexpected. It had been forecast since Mr. Willis resigned a few weeks ago as MLA for Turtle Mountain constituency.

He succeeds Lieutenant-Governor John S. McDiarmid, 76, who has held the office since Aug. 1, 1953.

Mr. Willis was Progressive Conservative leader in Manitoba from 1936, the year he entered the legislature, to 1954. He had served in the House of Commons from 1930 to 1935.

LOW-LEVEL STRAFING SNAFU AT COWICHAN BAY

Flying Fish Shoots Down Duck

COWICHAN BAY—As if hunters didn't have enough problems, they now have competition from jumping fish which are taking dead aim at flying ducks.

Earl McMillan, proprietor of Anchor Marina, reported today that a duck was killed Thursday in a collision with a leaping salmon.

His son, Phil, 20, was guiding a party of four Canadian and American businessmen on a coho fishing expedition around the bay Thursday morning when they spotted a flight of about 12 ducks about 100 yards away, skimming over the water at a good rate of speed.

Suddenly a big fish jumped out of the water and one of the ducks collided with it head-on.

They cruised over and picked up the downed duck, which had suffered a broken neck in the collision.

There was no sign of the fish.

Mr. McMillan believes the acrobatic fish responsible for the duck's death was probably a coho.

One of the members of the fishing party who had witnessed the oddity, A. T. Warnken of Vancouver, said later "it's the first time I've seen fish so thick that they were bumping into ducks."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Dull Trading Marks Session at Toronto

Most sections of the Toronto stock market struggled higher today in dull trading.

Industrials had more gains than losses. The changes, however, were mostly fractional. Many issues which traded actively earlier this week were quiet and unchanged.

Electronics and a few other issues were strong on an irregular market at New York. Turnover was fairly active. Some electronics made gains ranging to 7 or better. Leading steelmakers showed scant change.

AT TORONTO senior base metals had several fractional winners and few losers. Coppers were still bothered by profit-takers but a few lightly traded stocks managed moderate gains. Lower - priced mines were mixed to higher but changes were generally less than 10 cents although United Asbestos added 30 cents at $4.95.

Western oils were mixed. Among the winners were Canadian Husky, Security and Bailey Selburn.

AT NEW YORK Aluminium Ltd. lost ½ and Dome Mines ⅛. International Nickel gained ½, McIntyre Porcupine 1 and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

On the American exchange, Canadian Marconi lost ⅛ while Scurry Rainbow Oil gained ⅛.

AT MONTREAL utilities began a sluggish movement and other categories held firm in spotty trading today on the stock exchange.

AT LONDON the market was generally higher today.

Gains in industrials were numerous but gilt-edged securities were somewhat lower. Many engineering issues hardened and tobacco and brewery stocks went ahead.

Oils were quiet and dollar stocks were irregular.

There was some buying of gold shares.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate with prices stronger during the forenoon. Vantor traded 5,600 at 71; Inland Gas sold 2,400 at $5.50; Craigmont moved 3,000 at $3.10; Mid-West Copper traded 3,800 at 17; Torwest moved 3,800 at 17.

Alberta Coal Leaders to Meet With Japanese

CALGARY (CP) — Representatives from three western Canada coal companies are to meet in Tokyo within two months with representatives of the Japanese steel industry with a view to selling more coal during the next three years.

The three companies are Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. of Michel, B.C., Coleman Collieries Ltd. of Coleman, Alta. and West Canadian Collieries of Blairmore, Alta.

"Future business for these companies will depend on the suitability of our coal and the question of price," a spokesman said.

Southam Profits Show 24% Jump

TORONTO (CP) — The Southam Co., Ltd., has reported that net profit for the nine months ended September 30 was $2,982,000 — higher by $580,000 or 24 per cent than in the same period of 1958. Profit per share was $3.97 against $3.20 in 1958.

Regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents a share has been declared, payable December 28 to shareholders of record December 14.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain prices generally were easier and somewhat irregular, especially flax, at the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as some selling was prompted by more favorable weather reports for the Prairies where harvesting has been stalled.

Overnight export wheat loadings were confined to 500,000 bushels to the United Kingdom.

CHICAGO (AP) — Transactions in soybeans futures were fast and in heavy volume as dealers bid prices up about two cents a bushel most of the time today on the board of trade. The grains held generally in a steady to firm range.

Export demand was good in soybeans with France in the market for 1,000,000 bushels or more.

All grains were ahead by major fractions at the close.

Hey, Punkin' Head. . . . . I'm a Mask

You can fix this up for yourselves and have lots of fun when you go Trick-or-Treating Saturday night. This is how you go about it: 1. Cut out this pumpkin face and paste it on heavy paper that won't tear easily. 2. Cut out along dotted lines in eyes and nose, so you can see, and poke your own nose through. 3. Punch holes in little circles at sides and run a piece of string through so you can tie the mask on your head. A rubber band is even better than string. That's all. Have lots of fun.

COMMUNITY HALLOWEEN PARTIES SET

Chilly Rain Threatening City's Witches, Goblins

Haunting time has rolled around again and on Saturday night, come rain or shine, young Victoria witches and goblins will do their darndest to scare up Halloween treats.

At the moment it looks as if there will be more rain than shine. Gonzales weather office predicts heavy rain during the evening with temperatures dropping as low as 42 degrees.

In defiance of the Weatherman, at least five supervised bonfires are planned and thousands of costumed youngsters expect to dance in the flickering shadows amid the spluttering and banging of long-awaited fireworks.

City merchants report a big run on black and orange goodies, fruit and nuts, so the youngsters should make a better than average haul as they make their way from door to door.

Sales of fireworks are said to be up in volume on last year.

ORGANIZED "PARTIES"

At 7 p.m. Oak Bay Firemen will stage their annual bonfire at Fireman's Park, while Langford volunteer fire department will have a similar "burn up" at the community hall.

Young and old are invited to a jumbo bonfire at the corner of Prospect Lake Road and Goward Road, at 7 p.m. Lots of hotdogs and firecrackers are promised.

The Century Toppers Car Club, assisted by the James Bay Community Association, will stage a bonfire at the James Bay Boat Ramp, foot of St. Lawrence Street, at 7 p.m. Hot dogs and soft drinks will be served for 200 children.

Esquimalt Lions Club will hold two bonfires starting at 6 p.m.—one at Bullen Park and the other on municipal land in the area bounded by Lampson and Craigflower.

There will be candies, prizes and entertainment.

View Royal volunteer firemen and the community association are jointly sponsoring a bonfire near the community hall, starting at 6.30 p.m.

East Sooke children will mark Halloween with a party and bonfire for pre-school and elementary school children at East Sooke Community Hall.

A combination dance and skating party for students will be held in the Memorial Arena from 8 to 11 p.m.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Week's total since start of the "Archie McKinnon Appreciation Fund" today was $1,129.55.

Money will be used to provide the YMCA physical director and Mrs. McKinnon with funds for a convalescent trip.

He was injured 16 days ago at the Crystal Garden pool.

Donations are coming in from adults and children he has helped in his capacity as an athlete and swimming instructor over the years.

Special Target —Chiefs

Halloween hoodlums will be the special target of police throughout Greater Victoria Saturday night.

Police chiefs in the city and surrounding municipalities today voiced their determination to keep the evening "for the kids." They said no leniency would be shown vandals.

"We want the children to have a good time, we're not killjoys," said Victoria Chief John Blackstock, "but if anybody gets out of line and we have the evidence they will be charged.

"We are not going to tolerate any property damage or vicious throwing of fireworks at people."

He said 90 members of the Victoria force will be combing the city Saturday night.

In Esquimalt the warning was equally as stern from Chief Gilbert Stancombe, who said, "We will have special men on for the night.

"We're not giving special consideration to hoodlums at all. If they break the law they will be prosecuted."

Oak Bay Chief Bob Smith said his force will make sure the evening is kept as a harmless fantasy time for the children.

"Any person doing damage to local property will be treated in the usual manner," he said.

"All the crew will be out, in private cars as well, and there will be no special favors given."

Saanich Chief Bert Pearson, who favors abolition of Halloween, said earlier his department will be taking measures to curb the annual spate of vandalism.

Eye Damage Permanent

Victoria's first Halloween victim this year, nine-year-old Larry Lysne, 3204 Kingsley, will go through life with an eye permanently damaged by fireworks.

Attending doctors said today although it will "take at least or 10 days to determine the extent of the damage, the boy definitely will not have normal eyesight and there will be some permanent damage."

The boy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday with an injury suffered when he lighted a firecracker he stuck in the end of a wooden penholder. A splinter from the holder and powder particles were imbedded in the eye.

Bank Acquires Lengthy Area On Douglas

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has purchased a parcel of land on the west side of Douglas, between Kings and the Fountain Circle, for future commercial development.

The property embraces houses and commercial establishments from Doug Anderson's hamburger drive-in to the Dunlop Tire agency.

Six older-type homes and six business establishments are involved, including Tang's Pagoda, Individual Dry Cleaners' call office, International Travel Service, S. Morrice tailors, and Island Glass Tint Co.

It is understood the bank is still working on plans for development of the land, and that final development is at least a year away. Some of the leases on the properties run until June of next year.

Included in the plans is a possible move of the Bay and Douglas branch of the bank to the new site.

Conciliation On Teachers' Salaries

Negotiations on Greater Victoria teacher salaries are at a standstill and conciliation procedures are being set up, it was announced today.

A joint statement by Douglas Clark, chairman of the teachers' negotiating committee and W. C. Gelling, chairman of the trustees' committee, said they had been unable to agree on 1960 salary scale and were appointing conciliators.

The teachers' committee, negotiating for some 725 members, initially proposed a 21 per cent increase in the present scale which ranges from a low of $2,800 to a high of $7,260 annually.

COMPULSORY

The board rejected the proposal and counter-proposed a 4 per cent increase, based on the cost of living index factor, which would have raised salaries to a $2,950 - $7,560 range.

The teachers' committee brought back a reduced proposal for an 11½ per cent overall increase that would raise the scale to a $3,000 - $8,100 range.

None of the proposals have been accepted and under the Public Schools Act, conciliation is compulsory after Oct. 31.

If no agreement is reached by Nov. 15, the dispute automatically will go to arbitration.

"Both sides are hopeful of an amicable agreement," said trustee Mr. Gelling.

Greater Victoria was one of some 21 school districts that required intervention of a special conciliation team 16 months ago to bring about a working agreement during a controversy over a teachers' "blacklisting" threat against the school boards.

Sadist Hunted By Police

'Deadly Silence' In Priest's Aviary

City police today are pressing a hunt for a person with a morbid and sadistic mind who broke into the aviary of a Ukrainian priest and killed, mutilated, and stole more than 20 birds.

The brutal raid has left father Stephen Chehovsky, a hard-working Catholic priest with a love for birds and flowers, heartbroken.

It was the third time this year some person had broken into the aviary in the basement of the church at Cook and Caledonia.

But the last raid was the most gruesome.

Eighteen canaries and six budgies were stolen.

The nests were scattered about the large cage and the eggs broken.

FEATHERS PULLED OUT

One bird, which fed out of the priest's hands, had its tail feathers pulled out.

Others were found with broken legs and wings.

The priest, who raises birds as a hobby, expects that many of the 20 canaries and four budgies left behind will die from shock.

"I just can't understand a person who will do a thing like that," the priest said sadly. "He must be a wild youth with a destructive mind.

The vandal broke through two doors in the basement to get to the aviary.

The priest discovered the vandalism on his return from visiting Vancouver Island Ugrainian parishes Thursday. He was away three days.

He left the birds with plenty of food and water. The aviary was lighted day and night.

DEADLY SILENT

"When I returned I expected to be greeted with the songs of the canaries as they have got to know me," he said. "But when I entered the room the place was deadly silent. I found birds huddled in the cage, some lying on the floor unable to move because of injuries. It was a pathetic sight."

A cultured man who has done extensive missionary work in Africa, Father Chehovsky said it was the third time this year the aviary has been broken into. On the two previous occasions he only owned a few birds and the loss was not as great.

On the first occasion, two birds were stolen. On the second, the mother was taken from a 10-day-old chick.

PREMIER IN PROMISING MOOD

Cheers, Jeers For Bennett At Noisy Rally

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

VANCOUVER — A noisy audience of 2,900 applauded and cheered, booed and heckled Premier Bennett at the Orpheum Theatre here Thursday night, interrupting him constantly as he waded through a labored, rambling speech.

Both supporters and detractors went home confident their side had won the day, with the following promises ringing in their ears:

1. The government will increase its outlay for arterial highway maintenance in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster from a gross of $40,000 to "many hundreds of thousands of dollars every year."
2. The government's chronic hospital care program will start April 1.
3. Announcement on a civil service wage boost will come the next session of the legislature.
4. There will be a 50 per cent boost in the $60,000 bursary fund to assist needy university students.
5. Additional funds will be granted St. Paul's and Vancouver General Hospitals.
6. There is "no election in sight."

But compared to last year's pre-convention rally, Friday's event was alive with election fever.

The audience was twice as large and last year there was no heckling. Many people had apparently turned out not to honor Caesar but to bury him. One group of university students, several of whom were at the Harrison Hot Springs Progressive Conservative meet last weekend, stopped the meeting entirely while they sang their criticms of Social Credit.

They pierced the premier's armor at one point, drawing the admonition: "Don't show the university up in that light. The university stands for something better than that."

HOUSE OPENS JANUARY 28

The British Columbia Legislature will convene Jan. 28, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in Vancouver Thursday night.

It will be the fourth session of the 25th legislature of the province.

Current party standings are Social Credit 38, CCF 10, Liberal 3, Labor 1.

'I Haven't Seen It, Have You?'

Next most vocal group called repeatedly for publication of the Carrother's report on civil service bargaining rights — a shout the premier ignored except but once when he replied, "I haven't seen it, have you?"

The theatre doors opened an hour before the political events began, Dal Richards and his orchestra and folk singer Ernie Prentice (of "Lolly Too-Dum" fame) entertaining. British Columbia Social Credit League president Noel Murphy was chairman.

Health Minister Eric Martin, the first speaker, said "It's Ottawa's fault we can't get nurses because immigration restrictions are slowing arrivals from other countries.

"Pay them more," said a heckler.

This was a silly remark, the minister said, because the government doesn't set the wages.

"It is not my business to say whether employees are earning enough. . . . There has been no hold-the-line order. All I do is ask the hospital boards to keep costs at a reasonable level."

He said his department would grant funds for a new laundry and laboratory at Vancouver's St. Paul's Hospital, and for maintenance work at Vancouver General.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson outlined the government student aid program. He said the present $60,000 bursary fund for aid to students who can show need will be increased this year to $90,000.

"It was difficult for many students to get work this summer and there were more

Russia Won't Back UN Police in Laos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Soviet Union said today it will neither support nor tacitly agree to the establishment of a permanent United Nations mission in the troubled Southeast Asia kingdom of Laos.

The Soviet delegation declared in a statement that rumors were being spread that Russia would not object to such a mission.

The Russian statement came amidst speculation regarding the awaited report of a U.N. subcommittee which spent a month studying conditions in Laos.

Some sources said developments could be expected momentarily, while others felt it may be a week or so before word comes out on just what the mission found in the Southeast Asia country which charges it is the victim of aggression from neighboring Communist North Viet Nam.

It was not known just what form the report would take, but there were unofficial so-called leaks that the subcommittee did not discover aggression in the form of troops, although there was evidence of weapons from Communist countries.

Ottawa Halts Home Loans; Cash Runs Out

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today called a halt to the flow of government money into mortgage loans. Works Minister Walker announced that federal funds earmarked for these direct loans ran out two months earlier than expected.

A statement by Mr. Walker said that all eligible applications for government loans now on hand in field offices of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will be approved.

"New applications, however, whether from builders, home owners, or limited dividend companies, cannot be accepted after the close of business today.

He said that CMHC had "fully invested" the $250,000,000 voted by Parliament last spring for direct housing loans. Direct housing loans by the federal government thus have totalled $900,000,000 since September, 1957.

DEMAND FULLY MET

He said the present housing situation "indicates that demand for housing will be fully met this year." The government expected 140,000 housing units would be started this year and 140,000 completed.

Mr. Walker indicated that further federal funds for housing loans cannot be expected until Parliament meets again, expected in January.

He said that "very early in the next session" Parliament will be asked to vote new funds to ensure continuation of CMHC housing loans in 1960.

Today's announcement indicated there has been a larger-than expected rush by builders to take up federal loans for small home construction, apparently because of a sharp decline in the amount of National Housing Act lending by banks and life insurance and trust companies.

12,500 FINANCED

Last July 22 the government announced it would make available loans — up to 15 to each builder — for small home construction. It said then that ap-

Castro Aide Plane Crash Victim?

HAVANA (AP)—Havana radio stations late today broadcast a report picked up from Camaguey saying Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, missing Cuban Army commander, has been found alive but injured. Cuban Air Force headquarters said it had no confirmation.

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — The wreckage of a plane which might be that of missing Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, commander of Cuba's revolutionary army, was reported down on the north coast of Camaguey province today.

An amateur radio operator at Placetas in Las Villas province said he had received word that distress signals were received indicating the wreckage was at Playa Mamon on the north coast of Camaguey.

Army planes took off immediately to search the region.

The 28-year-old comrade-in-arms of Fidel Castro vanished Wednesday while flying with two others from Camaguey to Havana, a distance of 300 miles. There was no immediate explanation for the delay in announcing he was missing.

Air force officials refused to comment on the possibility that Cienfuegos' plane had been sabotaged while it was parked at Camaguey airfield during his stay in the provincial capital.

The army chief went to

B.C. Convention Hears Proposal

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

VANCOUVER—B.C. Social Crediters today were called upon to prepare themselves for the greatest national political convention in Canadian history to be held at Ottawa next July.

Premier Bennett called on local groups to double their membership and not to listen to election talk.

There is no election in sight, and no immediate rush to name candidates, he said.

He repeated he did not know whether the election in B.C. would be in 1960 or 1961, "but the longer we go the stronger we become, because every day we are in power the greater our accomplishments."

The national leadership convention appeal was made by Peer V. Paynter, acting president of the national Social Credit League.

He and the premier were main speakers at the opening session of the B.C. Social Credit convention here this morning.

Mr. Paynter said the party nationally is in the same position that the B.C. provincial party was in 1950, and history has a habit of repeating itself.

ENVY OF CANADA

Since then "we have proven Social Credit can build provinces to a point where they are the envy of the rest of Canada. Next year we want the biggest national convention ever put on in Canada. We are preparing for it."

He said five delegates are required from every federal constituency, seven from each provincial board, 10 from each provincial women's auxiliary, 10 to represent young people's Socred groups, two from each university group and seven from the national executive.

NEVER AGAIN

Premier Bennett made it clear he would not seek national leadership.

"I will never go federal again," he said, referring to a lost candidacy earlier in his career.

Mr. Paynter made no suggestion that the party was seeking the B.C. premier as a national leader.

"Who are we going to have to lead us to victory?" he asked.

He said the same questions were asked in 1950 and "we went ahead and organized and our premier came forward."

"He has proven his greatness since that time. If you people prove your sincerity, a new national leader would also appear if required."

B.C. Social Credit League president Noel Murphy replied to the speaker: "When you call we will be there and we will be ready."

The premier received a standing ovation. He drew attention to what he called great co-operation from the press of B.C., stating "if it wasn't for the press we'd never be government. They put Social Credit on their toes and made the government work better."

Rocket To Venus Next Year

(See also page 10)

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A space engineer said today the national space agency will launch a rocket 28 million miles to Venus by the end of 1960.

Allan B. Churgin, research engineer for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said rockets are available now to carry such a space probe.

"Space exploration this year and early next year will see the launching of several dozen different satellites and probes to as far away as the vicinity of Venus," Churgin said.

5 YEARS AWAY

Churgin, addressing a section of the Virginia Education Association meeting here, also said the "Scout" four-stage rocket, capable of placing a 150-pound satellite into an orbit 300 miles from earth, would be operational "sometime in the very near future."

Churgin, stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va., said a manned space station was "at least five or 10 years in the future."

He predicted that the first manned space ship would be carried by the "Luna" rocket, still under development, which would stand one fourth as high as the Empire State Buiding.

Manitoba Lieut.-Gov. Named

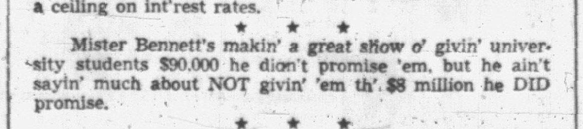
OTTAWA (CP) — Erick Willis, 63, Manitoba's deputy premier and public works minister, today was appointed lieutenant-governor of his province effective Jan. 15.

The appointment, announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker following a cabinet meeting, was not unexpected. It had been forecast since Mr. Willis resigned a few weeks ago as MLA for Turtle Mountain constituency.

He succeeds Lieutenant-Governor John S. McDiarmid, 76, who has held the office since Aug. 1, 1953.

Mr. Willis was Progressive Conservative leader in Manitoba from 1936, the year he entered the legislature, to 1954. He had served in the House of Commons from 1930 to 1935.



Now it'll be as hard t' git a roof over yer head as t' git a ceiling on int'rest rates.

LOW-LEVEL STRAFING SNAFU AT COWICHAN BAY

Flying Fish Shoots Down Duck

(From Duncan Bureau)

COWICHAN BAY—As if hunters didn't have enough problems, they now have competition from jumping fish which are taking dead aim at flying ducks.

Earl McMillan, proprietor of Anchor Marina, reported today that a duck was killed Thursday in a collision with a leaping salmon.

His son, Phil, 20, was guiding a party of four Canadian and American businessmen on a coho fishing expedition around the bay Thursday morning when they spotted a flight of about 12 ducks about 100 yards away, skimming over the water.

Suddenly a big fish jumped out of the water and one of the ducks collided with it head-on.

They cruised over and picked up the downed duck, which had suffered a broken neck in the collision.

There was no sign of the fish.

Mr. McMillan believes the acrobatic fish responsible for the duck's death was probably a coho.

One of the members of the fishing party who had witnessed the oddity, A. T. Warnken of Vancouver, said later "it's the first time I've seen fish so thick that they were bumping into ducks."

'Labor Afraid of Me' Wicks Tells Socreds

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor Minister Wicks said Thursday leaders of the 120,000-member British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) were afraid to let him address the federation's recent convention here.

He also criticized—in a speech to the B.C. Social Credit League's women's auxiliary — managements' "frivolous" abuse of its authority in the matter of injunctions.

Mr. Wicks said the federation had a "golden opportunity" to invite him to tell of the provisions of the controversial Trades Union Act and how they are "good for B.C. and good for the working man and woman."

But a small group of professional labor leader-politicians were afraid to let the delegates hear anything about the act except what they wanted them to hear.

He said it was the first time the federation has not invited the minister of labor to its convention.

plications would be accepted up until Dec. 31, and forecast the program would cover about 10,000 housing units.

Mr. Walker's statement said: "In fact, 12,500 units have been financed—25 per cent beyond our expectations and two months earlier than anticipated."

He added that since July 27 direct federal loans had been made through CMHC to individual home-buyers for nearly 6,000 homes and to limited dividend companies for another 1,800 units for low-income families and the aged.

Teacher Battered By Schoolboy, 14

NEW YORK (AP)—A husky 14-year-old schoolboy battered a woman high school teacher to the floor with his fists Thursday after she slapped his face for calling her an obscene name.

The teacher, Mrs. Carmenlita Gillespie, 39, was treated at a hospital for a brain concussion, blackened eye and facial cuts and bruises.

Her assailant, Julio Martinez, was held in $1,000 bail pending hearing on a charge of juvenile deliquency.

PM Backs Parley

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker gave support today to British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd's suggestion that a NATO heads-of-government meeting be held prior to a western big three meeting in December.

OTTAWA GIVES PAY BOOST TO NURSES

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases for all nurses in the federal civil service, averaging $329 a year, were announced today—the first pay boost for government employees since Finance Minister Fleming announced rejection of a general pay raise two weeks ago.

The raises, effective from the start of this month, will go to 2,478 nurses in the veterans affairs and health departments.

An announcement by Mr. Fleming said the increase is "in recognition of a special situation".

He noted that his October 13 statement ruling out a general pay increase would not prevent consideration "to the special position of certain categories of civil servants as the government's financial circumstances permit".

applicants than were expected."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner spoke on trade matters covered by his second ministry. He alone of the evening's speakers made no promises of new benefits.

Premier Bennett didn't get the standing ovation the chairman promoted — about one third of the audience rising.

He said the "enormous" meeting made him feel humble, but his subsequent remarks detracted from this.

He turned to the university contingent which began heckling as soon as he arose, stating, "when I was young and uninformed, I was a Tory too."

He told the audience that Liberals, Conservatives and CCFers were joining Social Credit in unprecedented numbers.

'They're Entitled to a Raise'

The Conservatives were quiet tonight, he said, (in fact they were noisy), "Is that because you are in trouble with the federal civil servants? I want to say as premier of B.C., that the civil servants of Canada are entitled to a raise."

He said the increase in the B.C. civil service salaries since 1951 was 46 per cent "and the cost of living is up only 9 per cent. And we are going to do more for them again."

He told a questioner his government always has accepted recommendations of the provincial civil service commission in this regard, that there is a wage study now underway and there would be a further announcement in this regard when the legislature sits.

Premier Bennett repeated his familiar story of debt-reduction and reduction in highways, construction costs since Highways Minister Gaglardi took over.

Then pausing for a drink of water, he threw in the remark he was glad to be here "at a time when there is no election in sight." The next second he was back on debt reduction.

Then he got to his "biggest announcement.

"Just to show this great city that we are really out of debt and they are going to benefit from the $25,000,000 (saved, he says, because he has no direct debt payments this year great benefits will come to B.C. and to the streets of Vancouver."

He said the government now pays $40,000 annually in grants to Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria in maintenance of arterial highways within municipal boundaries.

'Many Hundreds of Thousands'

"I will recommend this amount be many hundreds of thousands, not just one year, but every year."

(After the meeting, Highways Minister Gaglardi said the premier would make a further announcement in this regard, with more offers for Vancouver. Present basis for payment is $1,500 a mile. The minister said "that's going to be changed or augmented."

The premier turned to recent remarks by Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson who said B.C. has declared war on Ottawa, and his government, if elected, would mend the breach.

"We have co-operation with the federal government, more than any government in Canada," said the premier.

He read from a letter written Oct. 20 by Prime Minister Diefenbaker thanking the premier for his attendance at a recent meeting at Ottawa of provincial finance ministers.

"No other province got it," he said.

He added that Northern Affairs Minister Hamilton had written Recreations Minister Westwood, thanking him for his co-operation in establishing parks along the Trans-Canada Highway.

It was in response to a questioner that the premier let slip the date when the new government chronic aid program becomes effective—April 1, 1960.

Health Minister Eric Martin promised it for 1960 in a Times interview recently.

He said the program entails the government payment of BCHIS benefits to chronic patients in community hospitals if they are "receptive to treatment."

His definition of "chronic" did not take in treatment of the elderly whose condition might be expected to deteriorate, cases which he felt would be best suited for provincial infirmaries.

... OTTAWA

He said there is a splendid feeling between the premier's office and the press gallery, and a spirit of comradeship as well.

The premier blasted critics who attacked the government's bookkeeping.

"The critics know the cabinet ministers don't keep the books ... when the critics say there is something wrong with the bookkeeping, they are not criticizing the cabinet, but the greatest civil service in Canada."

He said that people know that politicians who used those tactics are not entitled to be trusted with government at any time.

That is the reason, he said, that Opposition Leader Robert Strachan will never be trusted with the premiership.

Conservative leader Deane Finlayson won't make it, and Ray Perrault of the Liberal party will be completely wiped out in the next election.

Two Victoria aldermen were seated with the Victoria delegation, Ald. Elmer McEwen and Ald. Millard Mooney.

Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury welcomed the delegates. He spoke in support of greater provincial-municipal co-operation, criticized the press, and the Communists."

Hospital Delay Hit

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man told police Thursday he waited 40 minutes for service at Vancouver General Hospital, then doctors came and found a woman dead.

C. G. Hobson said he was driving Mrs. Helen Martin, 74, home when she stopped talking in mid-sentence and slumped forward. Hobson said he drove to hospital.

He said he went inside and reported a sick woman in his car. Then he waited 40 minutes before a doctor went out and looked at the woman.

... CASTRO

Camaguey Tuesday. His mission was believed linked with the arrest last week of the provincial army commander, Maj. Hubert Matos, and 38 of his officers, after Matos said Communist influence was taking over Castro's regime.

There have been reports of restlessness among the men who served under the popular Matos and among students and others in the province. Some have openly protested his arrest.
